Ethics Committee nears Policy Presentation to Council

ROBERT JUMPER
ONE FEATHER EDITOR

The Ethics Committee, formed by the Tribal Council, has been working diligently to formulate the first documented tribal ethics policy specifically addressing the conduct of elected officials. The group consisting of Kevin Jackson (Chairman), AJ Bird, Doris Johnson, Trista Welch, Sabrina Arch, TJ Holland, Jody Taylor, Bernice Bottchenbaugh, Donald Long, Jonnie Sue Myers and Jennifer Jackson has been working toward a finished document since July 2015.

They consulted with an attorney, Sheena Meader, and a legal advisor, Matthew Witbrodt. Much of their work has been centered on amending three areas of Chapter 117 of the Cherokee Code. The changes will include the original proposal by Wolfetown Rep. Bo Crowe including enforcement language, adaptation of the personnel policy and drug testing. One highlight of the document is the proposed establishment of an Office of Government Ethics.

The group has made presentations at least two times at Community Club Council and has spoken to Snowbird and Cherokee County Community Clubs, soliciting feedback on what should be included.

The Ethics Committee has taken mented Jackson on strong leadership and fairness.

During the Feb. 5 meeting, the Committee shared that they feel that it is about much more than creating a guideline to follow. Jackson commented, "It's about who we are as a people and how we conduct ourselves as a people. We've added in pieces concerning the protection of our natural resources and our expected nothing in return.

Jackson continued, "The decisions we make affect our community. I took a long look at my children and what they would be left to fix, while we created this document".

The committee said that their goal is not to reinvent the wheel but to provide meaningful direction where the Cherokee Code may be lacking.

Jackson added, "We wanted to make this document our own. We could have easily adopted someone else's code of ethics and made changes to it, but it wouldn't have been ours".

One committee member commented that the ethics policy addresses things that "people should just do naturally...some need to be reminded what's ethical".

The Ethics Committee hopes to have a final draft ready to distribute to Tribal Council and Executive Office by the end of February. It could be on the Tribal Council meeting agenda in March.

their charge seriously. Jackson stated that the group established ground rules early in the process and agreed that they would work as a team - to be unified in the spirit of the task. They also agreed to strict confidentiality in the deliberations. Several on the committee compli-

Jackson spoke of the traditional values of the Cherokee people and how the Tribe is a family who so intimately knew the needs of its people that most people knew the needs of their neighbor and met them without being told and

Man threatens people at Harrah's Cherokee Casino Resort

Cherokee Indian Police Department Officers responded to a report on Wednesday, Feb. 10 at 4:24am of a man threatening to hurt people at the Harrah's Cherokee Casino Hotel. As CIPD officers arrived on scene, casino employees stated that a casino guest threatened to harm a casino security officer.

CIPD officers located the suspect, Thomas Lewis, 70, of Greensboro, who was in a casino hotel room. Lewis refused to come out of the hotel room and made additional threats to harm people. After making numerous attempts to speak to Lewis, CIPD officers on scene requested tactical assistance from the CIPD SWAT Team due to the nature of the incident.

Officers were able to successfully negotiate with and take Lewis into custody without further incident. Lewis was transported to the Cherokee Indian Hospital for an evaluation. He is not facing any charges at this time.

Elk killed in traffic accident near Ela

ROBERT JUMPER
ONE FEATHER EDITOR

Stacey Hornbuckle, an EBCI tribal member, provided a story about an elk that is not your typical wildlife story. On Tuesday, Feb. 9 at approximately 7:45 am, she and another member of her family were returning to Cherokee from Bryson City. After passing the Ela exit that leads to Whittier, Hornbuckle witnessed a bull elk collide with a Toyota Tundra. The impact occurred between the Gear Head Inn and Teddy Bear Motel on US Highway 19. The collision critically injured the elk, mangling the hind quarters of the animal. It was pulling itself along the highway and, at some point, tried to move back out into the roadway.

Hornbuckle called 911 and remained on the scene of the accident, waiting for response and trying to flag motorists to slow down as they approached the scene of the accident. She stated it took approximately 30-45 minutes for a North Carolina Wildlife officer to arrive. He stated to Hornbuckle that he had been dispatched from Governors Island.

There was no response from local authorities or North Carolina Highway Patrol (this area is outside of the Cherokee Indian Police Department's jurisdiction).

Hornbuckle remained at the scene, several feet away, continuing to try to slow traffic while the Wildlife officer assessed the situation. She said that, at some point, she heard a total of eight gunshots which she assumed was to dispatch the elk.

She was not sure how the elk was removed from the roadside and did not witness any discussion between the officer and the driver of the Tundra. An official report on this incident and comment was requested from the District 9 contact for the NC Wildlife Resources Commission Division of Law Enforcement, but a response was not available at press time.

Lady Braves sweep conference

SCOTT MCKIE B.P.

BRYSON CITY – The Cherokee Lady Braves (18-4 overall) finished the regular season in the Smoky Mountain Conference with a perfect 12-0 record. They accomplished that feat with a 64-39 win over Swain County (10-12, 6-5) on Friday, Feb. 12.

“It was a really physical game,” said Chris Mintz, Lady Braves head coach, “and, we got into foul trouble early in the third period. We did a great job, after we settled down, of being able to handle the pressure. Swain played hard, but I thought our girls did an unbelievable job.”

Coach Mintz said he is very proud of his team who finished undefeated in the conference for the second time in his tenure. “It is pretty special, and they just keep gelling as a group. I was proud of them.”

He said the intensity of the game helped prepare his team for what is ahead. “It was loud, and it was nice to play in an environment like this tonight. Hopefully, we’ll see it next week when we get to the championship game in the tournament. It’ll be loud there, and it’ll help get us used to playing in that type of environment. I think we handled it well and played pretty solid, and that all goes for those girls. They did their job tonight.”

Cherokee jumped out early and took a 7-0 lead at the 5:47 mark of the first period. The next two minutes were closer as Swain edged into the game and trailed the Lady Braves 13-6 at the 3:38 mark. From that point, Cherokee went on a 5-0 run to lead 18-6 at the end of the first.

The first three minutes of the third period were close and Cherokee led 23-10 at the 5:03 mark. With just less than two minutes left in the half, the Lady Braves extended that lead to 30-12 and they ended up leading 33-19 going into the locker room.

Swain got two quick baskets at the start of the third to trail by 10 (33-23) not even a minute in. But, Cherokee’s press took over and the Lady Braves extended that lead to 17 (41-24) midway through.

Cherokee ended up leading 45-25 at the end of the third.

The Lady Braves kept pressing and kept a 19- or 20-point lead for most of the last eight minutes and ended up taking the victory at 64-39.

Individual statistics were not available for this game by press time.

CONFERENCE CHAMPS

Braves clinch SMC title share at Swain

SCOTT MCKIE B.P.

BRYSON CITY – When you can win a big game over your rival and clinch a conference title at the same time, it's a good night. And, it was a good night as the Cherokee Braves (19-3, 11-1) defeated Swain County (12-10, 4-7) by a score of 88-58 to clinch a share of the Big Smoky Mountain Conference title on Thursday, Feb. 11.

"I thought we played great," said Willis Tullos, Braves head coach. "We did a great job defensively, and we shot the ball extremely well."

He was proud of his team's accomplishment. "We won the Big Smoky Mountain Conference championship and are 11-1 in the conference, and that's a great way to do it. It was a great ballgame."

Jason McMillan, senior point guard, led Cherokee with 23 points, 2 assists, 6 rebounds and 3 steals. Three other players were in double digits for the Braves including: Justus Day 20 pts, 2 reb; Tye Mintz 17 pts, 1 assist, 5 reb, 2 steals; and Logan Teesateskie 12 points, 3 reb.

Overall, both teams shot the ball well from the floor with Cherokee shooting 61 percent (14 of 23) and Swain at 54 percent (15 of 28).

The three-point shots were raining from the rafters all night long.

SCOTT MCKIE B.P./One Feather

Cory Junaluska (#32), Braves junior center, goes for a shot over Swain's Clayton Catolster in Thursday's away game. Junaluska finished the game with 4 points, 3 assists, 2 rebounds and 1 steal.

In fact, the two teams combined for 76 three-point attempts, which is second all-time in NCHSAA basketball history. Cherokee actually holds that record with Andrews as the two teams combined for 77 attempts last month. In Thursday's game, Cherokee shot 18 of 46 (39 percent) from three-point land and Swain made 7 of 30 (23 percent).

The first few minutes of this game were close with several lead changes. Swain got on the board first and Teesateskie answered with a three-point shot at the 7:15 mark to put Cherokee ahead. From that point, the teams traded baskets and the Braves led 10-8 at the 5:57 mark of the first.

For the next three minutes,

Cherokee went on an 8-0 run to lead 18-8 with just less than three minutes left in the first period. Swain tried to slow down the pace of the game, but Cherokee was able to outscore them 9-5 in the last two minutes to take a 27-13 lead into the second period.

The first two minutes of the second period were tight with Swain edging Cherokee 6-5 and the Braves led 32-17 at the 5:40 mark and 42-21 at the 3:22 mark. Cherokee began to extend their lead, and Josiah Lossiah, freshman forward, hit a three-point shot from two steps inside the halfcourt line at the buzzer to give the Braves a 49-25 lead at halftime.

The third period was all Cherokee. Their press shot down a lot of Swain's offense, and the Braves outscored them 22-14 to take a 71-39 lead into the final period.

McMillan hit a three-point shot from the left side with 6:41 left in the ballgame to put Cherokee up by 41 (82-41) thereby invoking the NCHSAA mercy rule. The Braves got a lot of play from their bench in the last period and went on to take the 30-point (88-58) win.

Other Braves stats included: Steven Straughan 3 pts, 1 reb; Kennan Panther 1 pt, 1 assist, 2 reb; Holden Straughan 4 pts, 2 assists, 2 reb; Josiah Lossiah 4 pts; and Cory Junaluska 4 pts, 3 assists, 3 reb, 1 steal.

Swain was led by Evan Bradley with 19 points followed by Grant Shuler and Phinehas Little with 11 each.

Cherokee (20-3) cruised in the first round of the Big Smoky Mountain Conference tournament on Saturday, Feb. 13. The Braves had four players in double digits as they beat Murphy (3-20) by a score of 92-35.

"We didn't shoot the ball well, but we did a good job of playing defense," said Willis Tullos, Braves head coach. "We did a good job of moving the ball around, and we got some good, easy shots. From out deep, we didn't shoot the ball well."

With the win, Cherokee advanced to the second round where they were scheduled to face the Rosman Tigers (16-8) on Tuesday, Feb. 16 at 8pm at the Charles George Memorial Arena. This game was set to occur after press time so check out next week's paper for full coverage.

The Braves defeated Rosman twice in the regular season including a 101-83 victory on the road and the exciting 84-83 squeaker at home. Coach Tullos commented, "We're going to have to shoot the ball better if we're going to beat Rosman."

Saturday's game started out slowly for both teams. Neither team scored in the first few minutes until Tye Mintz, Braves sophomore forward, drove the baseline for a short put-away at the 5:49 mark. He led Cherokee with 16 points followed by Cory Junaluska 13, Justus Day 13 and Jason McMillan 11.

From there, Cherokee extended their lead to 14-0 holding the Bulldogs scoreless until the 2:44 mark of the first. The Braves went on to lead 25-8 after the first.

Cherokee dominated the second period outscoring Murphy by 22 points (32-10). The Braves led 39-10 midway through the second and ended up taking a 57-18 lead into the locker room.

Jason McMillan, Braves senior point guard, hit a three-point shot at the 7:23 mark of the third period to put Cherokee up by 42 (60-18) thereby invoking the NCHSAA mercy rule. They went on to outscore Murphy 16-6 in the third to take a 73-24 lead into the final period.

CHERRYVILLE – Cherokee's Anthony Toineeta (30-4) punched his ticket to the big show after finishing atop the podium in the 1A Western Regionals Wrestling Tournament on Saturday, Feb. 13 at Cherryville High School. Toineeta defeated Rosman's Tanner Whitman in the championship round to advance to the NCHSAA 1A State Championship Tournament in Greensboro this weekend as the number-one seed.

Toineeta needed less than a minute to pick up his first win in the opening round of the tournament as he pinned Starmount's Vestal Dalton at the 38-second mark of the first period. Carving exhibit

WCU to host exhibit by acclaimed Cherokee artist Wilnoty

CULLOWHEE – An exhibition of works by renowned sculptor John Julius Wilnoty of Cherokee continues on display at Western Carolina University's Fine Art Museum through Friday, March 25.

An EBCI tribal member, Wilnoty's pieces are often complex and intricate, sometimes with smaller designs of birds and animals appearing within figures of larger ones. He works primarily in native woods, including cherry, and with bone and dark-hued pipestone, with carvings that reflect mythology, nature and wildlife. His work has been featured in many articles and exhibitions, including the Smithsonian Institution.

The exhibit, "In Solitude and Mystery: John Julius Wilnoty," appears courtesy of the North Carolina Arts Council, Jackson County Arts Council, Qualla Arts and Crafts Mutual and collector Lambert Wilson. An exhibition reception is scheduled for 5 to 7 p.m. in the Star Atrium of the museum on Thursday, March 17. Wilson will be on hand to discuss his collection and the artistic, cultural and regional importance of Wilnoty's works.

"Wilnoty has been described as the Cherokee version of Michelangelo, with his expressive handling of sculptural forms," said Anna Fariello, associate professor at Hunter Library and the exhibit's curator. "He is a self-taught sculptor with a singular, exquisite style. While he still carves, it is less frequent now following injuries to his hands some years ago."

The Fine Art Museum is located in the John W. Bardo Fine and Performing Arts Center and is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays, with extended hours on Thursdays to 7 p.m. Admission and parking are free. The museum is closed on university holidays and breaks.

For information on Wilnoty and his achievements, go to the Cherokee Traditions section of Hunter Library's digital collections at digitalcollections.wcu.edu or (828) 227-7211.

OBITUARIES

Diamond Brown Jr.

Diamond Brown Jr., 59, of Snowbird, renowned Cherokee educator, cultural leader, and former EBCI Council representative joined the creator in the early morning hours of Tuesday, Feb. 9, 2016.

Blessed with a bold charisma and unbridled optimism, Diamond blazed a unique and visionary path through life highlighted by entrepreneurial accomplishments, personal honors, and dedicated public service. In 2000, along with his wife, Sandy, the couple founded a successful cultural education enterprise, Touch the Earth with Native People. At its height, the family-operated business employed more than 20 full-time performers and staff, and traveled extensively throughout the United States celebrating Native American culture and heritage with programs featuring dazzling living history exhibits, authentic tribal regalia, and electrifying dance performances. He touched tens of thousands of lives who experienced his unique blend of education and entertainment, a phenomenon he titled "Edutainment" and was a highly sought presenter for schools, universities, historical societies, museums, and state capitals.

Diamond was an innovator and early leader of a movement to restore knowledge and appreciation of traditional Cherokee culture. A member of the Deer Clan whose Cherokee name Go-Sti translates as "Sharp", he personified strength, leadership, and a warrior's spirit. A code of honor he described first and foremost as a man's responsibility to love, protect, and provide not only for his family but also his community.

In 2009, Diamond was elected to the EBCI Tribal Council and served two terms as Snowbird/Cherokee County representative. Working tirelessly on behalf of his Cherokee people, he brought a traditional and balanced perspective to tribal government. The newly-opened Cherokee Indian Hospital and EBCI Justice Center, the tribal casino in Cherokee County, enrollment DNA testing, and a Snowbird HIP Housing Development are just a few successful projects he either led or supported while in office.

Diamond Brown Jr. was born March 20, 1956 in Cherokee, the first of three sons to Diamond and Frieda Brown Sr. From an early age he displayed a natural gift for storytelling and often entertained relatives with riveting tales that earned pocket change for ice cream cones and candy bars. Little did he know at the time but he was honing skills that would someday mesmerize eager audiences far beyond the forested hills of western North Carolina. Later, while captain of his middle school football team he succeeded in changing the team's colors for one season from black and silver to green and yellow, so they would resemble his favorite team the Green Bay Packers.

At the age of 17, he moved to Georgia and later, while working as a meat cutter in a grocery store, met the love of his life, Sandra Fenn. They were married in the fall of 1981 and started a family two years later. Proud parents to three beautiful daughters, all of whom continue his legacy of love and culture, the couple were inseparable and continued their educational efforts, environmental advocacy, and community service right up until his final months. A devoted husband and father he worshipped his daughters often telling them "I live my life for you girls".

In addition to an engaging personality and charming disposition Diamond possessed strikingly regal physical features and a powerful stature that left an indelible impression on everyone he met. His image and likeness were the inspiration for numerous artistic renderings including hand painted portraits, photographs, statues in Dahlenega, GA and Sawnee Nature Center, and hand carved personal quotes displayed in Hayesville.

Friends will remember him as a proud son of the Eastern Band and man of the world who found joy in an impressive collection of cruiser motorcycles, vintage pickup trucks, and bright red corvettes. He loved strong coffee and delicious home cooked meals, especially breakfast; disdained any kind of pessimism or negativity; gave friendly ribbings to those he liked, and enjoyed simple pleasures like coloring Easter eggs and watching classic TV shows, Andy Griffith and Bonanza. Others will remember him as a loyal friend and brother who never backed down from a fight or denied someone in need. One of those rare buddies you could call at 3am to help pull a car out of ditch on a deserted, icy back road. Diamond was preceded in death by a brother, Merlyn Brown of Snowbird in 2002.

He is survived by his faithful wife of 34 years, Sandra Marlene Fenn Brown of Snowbird; daughters Brooke, Dakota, and Wahlah Brown, all of Cherokee; granddaughters, Celeste Spruce and Winter Wildcatt, both of Cherokee; parents, Diamond Brown Sr. and Frieda Rattler Brown of Snowbird; brothers, Verlyn Brown of Snowbird and Russell Selph of Atlanta, Ga.; and countless family, friends, and relations.

Services were held Friday, Feb. 12 at the Snowbird Complex with Long House Funeral Home of Cherokee entrusted with preparations. A traditional burial followed at the Brown Family Cemetery. Kituwah fire keepers, Benny Mendia and Eddie Paul, made medicine. DJ Robinson, James Fenn, Corey Fenn, Eli Selph, Cassidy Galaviz, and Cruz Galaviz served as pall bearers. Honorary pall bearers were Eddie Chekelelee, Scott Chekelelee, Robbie Lewis, Israel Weeks, Robin Jumper, and Terry Rattler.

The family also extends its deepest appreciation to the dedicated and caring staff at Cherokee Indian Hospital; to longtime friend Ruben Teesateskie and volunteers for hosting a recent benefit dinner in Yellow Hill; to the family of the late Wayne Henderson for a precious gift of seven long glorious years; and the many relatives and friends across Indian Country who have offered love and prayers during Diamond's prolonged illness.

"Spirituality is way of life for me and my people, with these teachings I hope the people can and will understand the Native way of life here on Mother Earth" - Diamond Go-Sti

Banishment list in hand - now what?

ROBERT JUMPER
ONE FEATHER EDITOR

The Office of Tribal Operations (TOP) compiled and forwarded an up-to-date copy of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians banishment list to the One Feather in January. It is the first time in our memory that the complete list has been available for public distribution. The response from readership was immediate and widespread. There were over 10,000 views of the document on our social media.

Those who viewed the list had many questions. Can a tribal member be banished and have any been banished? Who decides if someone is banished? Is there a possibility of reversal? What happens to a banished person? And there were many comments: glad to see this finally in public view; the list should include pictures; it is about (expletive removed) time.

We sent the banishment list to the Cherokee Indian Police Department to see if photos could be matched up with the names on the list so that we may redistribute the list with another way to identify violators on tribal lands. They are currently working on getting that back to us. In email communications with the EBCI Attorney General's Office, they indicate that a searchable database is being explored and a system of verification potentially created.

Cherokee Code Section 14-70.24 says that you and I may be fined up $5,000, imprisoned and even banished ourselves if we, in any way, provide assistance to someone who has been banished from tribal lands. In fact, the law states that even attempting to provide assistance could get you the penalty. On top of that, banished individuals are people that the Tribal Council have deemed (and the Principal Chief has ratified) as a danger to the people and lands of the Cherokee people.

Now that the list is publicly available, our tribal leaders need to provide a structure that will enable identification and enforcement of banishments. In discussions with several individuals in and out of tribal government over the past few months, I have heard over and over that there are people who are on the list living and working in tribal lands. Renters have not been required to check the list before renting properties. Utilities suppliers do not have to check the list before providing telephone, internet, cable, water, sewer or lights. Before the One Feather published the list, no one had a copy of it in its entirety. The Cherokee Indian Police Department and the Tribal Court system had no complete list to identify a banished person. The public had no way of reporting sightings of banished people.

As we continue to move toward a government of accountability and transparency, we need to retool the infrastructure so that those who violate law and who have been deemed a threat to our people are held accountable and enforcement ensures protection of law abiding citizens and that people have incentive to not do things that will get them banished. Hopefully, our leadership will enact policies that will uphold the law.

Should the Tribal Drug Court be abolished?

Yes 65%
No 35%

Question of the week now up on theonefeather.com:
Do you think the motto "In God We Trust" should be put on public buildings in Cherokee?

Poll Responses

Note: The following comments were made on the Cherokee One Feather Facebook page and website to our weekly poll question:

Should the Tribal Drug Court be abolished?

David Braswell: I think it does some good. There are not bad people. There are bad choices, and if it does not work for them, you lock them up.

Melissa Lillard: All it does is delay the inevitable. I've known people that go to Drug Court and right when they get out, pop a pill and steal to get more. I think it gives them more time to kill themselves. If there's a drug problem, lock them up until they can go straight to treatment.

Janie Palmer Hughes: No. It is designed to help the ones who are making bad choices and hopefully steer them in a better path.

Ashley Sessions: Yes, it's not effective. Tell us how many have actually "graduated" from this program. My bet is less than 20.

Mary Crowe: No. Drug Court was created with no funding and one staff - Carol Long. She has done a great job with nothing! The concept and goals and objectives of the Drug Court are great. It needs funding and full staff and support!

Tina McCulloch: No. Even one life saved is worth everything!

Johnny PostOak: Yes

William Ledford: The Tribal Drug Court should remain as long as simple slaps on the wrist are removed in favor of tougher, enforced sentences. The governing bodies of the Tribe should declassify simple marijuana offenses like possession as petty misdemeanors and strengthen the penalties for distribution of meth and heroin. Convicted dealers of these addictive and destructive drugs should be given up to the feds and incarcerated in a federal facility. A lot of time in Atlanta or Leavenworth oughta do the trick.

John Bimeat: The Drug Court appears to do more harm than good. It is like a revolving door - the same one over and over. I feel it would benefit the tribal members if the offenders would get longer jail terms with each offense.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Against national motto on public buildings

Note: This letter to the editor is in response to an article published in the Feb. 11 issue of the One Feather entitled "In God We Trust motto withdrawn in Council".

“When I asked for a way to get it set up and come on the Council, I had no inkling or idea that anybody would be offended about it,” Lanier said. “I have not tried to force this on anybody.” Yet, Lanier knows this to be a lie!

I, as well as others, have opposed and are offended by his religious mission to impose this motto upon us all, which was forced upon the nation by evangelicals back in the 1950s during the scare of communism. They basically told elected officials you either go along with it or you won’t be re-elected. It is very similar to what’s happening now with Christians in our country, pushing Christian only prayer at government meetings, displays on government property and with Lanier pushing this motto upon our government agencies.

The Nation’s original motto “E Pluribus Unum” (out of many, one), was and still is our founders motto for our nation. It is on our money and on our National seals. Our founders knew we are a people of many different beliefs and nationalities, being a people united as one nation. Lanier and those who endorse his mission wish to divide our communities and our nation. Not to mention the millions of dollars that could be used to help the needy instead of putting up words on buildings, which serve no purpose except to inflate his ego. Keep America’s original motto, “E Pluribus Unum”.

Inspiring people to care again

They say voters are increasingly apathetic. However, across America they are pouring their time, energy, and money into helping. From rooftop fundraisers in NYC to comedy shows in Asheville, grassroots events are sparking a revolution in civic participation.

The unlikely catalyst is the independent senator from Vermont: Bernie Sanders. Many, myself included, are phone banking, canvassing, and donating for the first time to help him become the next president of the United States.

Sanders is the highest-rated senator at 83 percent support because he offers pragmatic solutions and a consistent and clean record. He resonates across the political spectrum and won 72 percent of independents in the New Hampshire primary creating the record breaking win of 60.4 percent of the democratic vote.

His campaign is 100 percent funded through millions of small donations which allow him to reject all special interest Super PACs. After the victory in New Hampshire, voters donated a collective $7,100,000!

Like Franklin D. Roosevelt, Bernie seeks a modern ‘New Deal’ creating jobs, regulating Wall Street, taking big money out of politics, and strengthening many of our current systems, such as Social Security, to better serve the American people.

Check out the candidate’s official websites to learn more about his goals and how he will pay for them. After researching, voters are finding that Bernie Sanders quickly shifts to their first choice. North Carolina’s primary is March 15. I’ll be there to cast my vote for Bernie and hope you will too!
