“Cherokee Voices, Cherokee Sounds” radio show host celebrates 10-year anniversary

TAHLEQUAH, Okla. —The first time fluent Cherokee Speaker Dennis Sixkiller put his mouth up to the microphone, it took several minutes for any words to come out.

“It was the first time I recorded a radio show, and I was so nervous. I had no clue what to say,” Sixkiller said.

That was a decade ago, in July 2004, when Sixkiller broadcast his very first “Cherokee Voices, Cherokee Sounds” radio show, the only program in Oklahoma to air in the Cherokee language. After recording, he would deliver his cassette tapes to the radio stations.

The Cherokee Nation celebrates Sixkiller’s 10-year milestone as radio show host. “Cherokee Voices, Cherokee Sounds” is an hour-long program in both the Cherokee and English languages and includes Cherokee music, interviews with elder speakers, and information on Cherokee Nation community news. The program has exposed the Cherokee language and culture to people around the world.

“It may be the only place outside of the Cherokee Nation for many people to hear the language,” Sixkiller said. “I’ve had people call from as far away as Canada and Australia to say they listen. One guy called from Canada to say hearing all the Cherokee songs on the show is so refreshing that it’s like standing in a shower. People from everywhere say they like to listen.”

Sixkiller, a native of Jay, grew up with Cherokee as his first spoken language. He was not exposed to English until first grade. He learned to read and write the Cherokee syllabary in 2001 through classes offered by Cherokee Nation.

He started working for the tribe 23 years ago in housekeeping and then the mailroom before being approached to host the radio show since he is a fluent speaker.

“When I was first asked to do the program, I thought it was a joke,” Sixkiller said. “But when offered the opportunity again I said I would try, and I’ve been trying for 10 years now.”

Sixkiller now works in the communications department recording his shows weekly and works part time in language translation.

“Cherokee Voices, Cherokee Sounds” is a wonderful outreach language experience for speakers and learners of the Cherokee language,” said Dr. Hugh Foley, professor of cinema and Native American studies at Rogers State University and faculty advisor to KRSC-FM. “The program illustrates the unique environment of northeastern Oklahoma where the Cherokee language is still spoken and sung by many people. Airing the program on RSU Radio allows us to understand that we are all part of a very rich cultural tapestry in the state of Oklahoma.”

The radio program airs on five stations within the Cherokee Nation’s tribal jurisdiction and can be heard on <http://www.cherokee.org/News/RadioShow.aspx>.

The show can also be heard on these stations during the following times:

Cherokee Nation donates more than $451,000 to Okla. fire departments

CATOOSA, Okla. — The Cherokee Nation donated $451,000 to 129 rural and city fire departments on Monday, June 30 thanking the firefighters for helping protect citizen homes and families.

The Cherokee Nation held its annual volunteer firefighters ceremony at the Hard Rock Hotel & Casino Tulsa and distributed $3,500 checks to each of the departments that serve within the tribe's jurisdiction. Rural fire departments rely heavily on good Samaritans, fundraisers and membership drives to keep their stations operating.

"In emergency situations, these brave men and women step up to protect our homes, our property and even our lives" said Cherokee Nation Principal Chief Bill John Baker. "Volunteer firefighters are often the backbone of our rural communities, and that is why it is so important for the Cherokee Nation to support them by making this financial commitment. Our partnerships with volunteer fire departments will positively impact the lives of all citizens in the Cherokee Nation's jurisdiction."

During the ceremony, the Cherokee Nation honored Cabin Creek Fire Department in Mayes County and Welling Volunteer Fire Department in Cherokee County as "Volunteer Fire Departments of the Year."

In the past year, Cabin Creek firefighters built an additional fire station and upgraded their vehicles, which in turn significantly lowered their Insurance Service Organization rating, lowering homeowner insurance rates for all their citizens. The department held firefighting training courses with area volunteer stations, and the upgraded training now allows them to assist with emergency calls as emergency medical responders and paramedics.

The 14-member station was also quick to respond to the Spavinaw tornado. Arriving right after it hit, they were in service until everyone was located and safe.

"It's a great honor to be recognized as the Fire Department of the Year, but the bottom line of it is that it takes a team effort," said Jason Miller, Cabin Creek Fire Department fire chief. "Having the Cherokee Nation's support is absolutely unbelievable. They support their communities just like a fire department does, and they have our backs as we are out there having our communities' backs."

Welling Volunteer Fire Department responded to about 400 calls and covered 199 square miles of Cherokee County this past year. The 25-member staff also assisted with water rescues on the Illinois River and public safety presentations for local schools, and they provided medical standby for athletic events at local schools and youth camps. During two of their water rescues, the crew had to wade through rising water to rescue victims and safely remove them before their homes flooded.

"It's an honor to receive this award. The Cherokee Nation funds allow us to purchase equipment so much quicker, rather than waiting until we hold fundraisers," said Martin Webb, Welling Volunteer Fire Department fire chief. "Last year we were able to buy a new brush pump for one of our vehicles."

The honor of "Volunteer Firefighter of the Year" was also given to

- Ronnie Smith, of Hulbert, for dedicating 22 years to Spring Valley Fire Department and helping start it out of a garage and building it into two fire stations with 16 trucks.

- Lester Crittenden, of Stilwell, for personally responding to every emergency call in the Bell community. He also helped set up a helicopter landing zone and rescued an individual surrounded by fire.

- Sheldon Caughman, of Sallisaw, for recruiting and encouraging others in his community to volunteer. He is a certified dive instructor and working to serve as a firefighter instructor to train not only his volunteers, but others in Sequoyah County.

- Cody Kackley, of Bunch, for taking nearly all his National Incident Management System trainings within his first year on the department and striving to find ways to help his fellow firefighters.

- Bryce Millikan, of Vinita, for continuously coming up with donations and writing grants to help Carselowey fire station and rescuing an elderly woman who was trapped on her roof.

Cherokee Cultural Summer School Experience

CHEROKEE - When school lets out each summer, many parents look for summer programs for their children to attend. Summer school programs are a rite of childhood that provides fun activities to fill the summer days. And the Cherokee Central Schools' Summer Experience is no exception, except in addition to being fun, the program offers an educational and meaningful way for Cherokee children to learn about their culture.

The mission of the Cultural Summer School is to teach students through the arts and crafts to preserve the Cherokee culture. The students increase their knowledge and learn ways to preserve and maintain their culture. The program is open to any student in the Cherokee school system and since its inception in 1991, continues its service to provide a broad, cultural experience, enriching their understanding of Native American culture, history and language.

"The two-week program is a first-come, first serve application process and we accept around 115 students. This year we reached our limit in just four days," said Heather Driver, Administrative Assistant for the Cultural Department.

The students who attend are provided a variety of Cherokee cultural activities to learn about, including art, doll making, Native American literature, plants basketry, pottery, beadwork, soapstone and foods. Other classes include instruction in Cherokee singings, traditional dance, She-lu, the basket game, and corn hole. Cherokee language is incorporated in every class.

At the end of the summer school program, parents and friends are invited to see the children's artwork on display. "The children come into the program excited to have the opportunity to learn more about their native culture," said Laura Pinnex, Director of Culture. "They are so proud of their work and what they are able to accomplish."

The Cherokee Preservation Foundation, Harrah's Tribal Scholarship Committee and the Cherokee Boys Club provide support for the Cultural Summer School Program. For more information, contact the Cultural Department at 828-554-5004.

Tribe to host Dog Days Trout Tournament

Need some relief from the mid-summer heat? Come to Cherokee July 18-19 for the annual "Cherokee Dog Days Fishing Tournament" where you can compete for your share of $10,000 in cash prizes.

For a modest $11 entry fee, you'll fish some of the most beautiful trout waters in the southeast as part of this exciting tagged tourney. With 30 miles of privately stocked free-stone streams, Cherokee boasts some of the best fishing anywhere in the country. Local waters are stocked twice each week and include many trophy sizes.

All waters are open for the tournament, with the exception of the 2.2 miles of catch-and-release waters that will be open to regular anglers.

It's simple. Anglers will find the waters already stocked with tagged fish. Catches can be redeemed for cash prizes up to $1,000 for the biggest fish at the Water Beetle stage, a pavilion next to the Cherokee Welcome Center on U.S. Highway 441.

The Dog Days Tournament is open to all ages and all legal fishing methods. Participants can register to redeem cash prizes anywhere fishing licenses are sold.

Cherokee Nation funds $190K waterline extension in Muskogee County

TAHLEQUAH, Okla. — The Cherokee Nation signed an agreement Thursday with the Muskogee County Rural Water District #7 to complete a $190,075 project that will improve water access to 16 homes in rural Muskogee County.

The tribe is investing more than $96,000 in construction funding, equipment donations and engineering costs. Cherokee Nation also secured $93,000 in Indian Health Service dollars for construction of the waterline extension. The project was worked up by Cherokee Nation Engineer Cason LeBlanc.

“The collaboration and partnership between the Cherokee Nation and Muskogee County will strengthen the capacity of the county’s infrastructure and increase access to good, usable water for several Cherokee families,” said Cherokee Nation Principal Chief Bill John

Joe Crittenden, Chief of Staff Chuck Hoskin and Engineer Cason LeBlanc.

Baker. “It is important for us as a tribal government to make key investments that improve the lives of our people.”

The project is a nearly one-mile extension of the Two Mile Road Waterline, an area that has previously been unreachable.

“This project will help our system a lot,” said Brad Clinkenbeard, manager of Muskogee County RWD #7. “This gives immediate access to clean water for people who have been hauling water or have insufficient wells. After a couple of years looking at this project, everyone is ready to go.”

Cherokee Nation Community Services completed 10 water and sewer projects, totaling more than $250,000, in fiscal year 2013. For more information on Community Services’ engineering and sanitation program, visit <http://www.cherokee.org/Services/Community/EngineeringandSanitation.aspx>.

Harrah's Cherokee Valley River Casino and Hotel = More jobs and opportunity

By ROBERT JUMPER
ONE FEATHER EDITOR

The Harrah's Cherokee Valley River Casino is already a big win for EBCI tribal members. The project is already paying out more jobs for individuals and for businesses owned by tribal members, according to Curtis Wildcatt, compliance officer for the Tribal Employee Rights Office (TERO).

According to Lumpy Lambert, Harrah's Cherokee Valley River general manager, 500 jobs are planned or in process for the construction phases of the project. Many of the jobs will be filled by tribal members - an estimated 26 percent of total workforce.

Wildcatt explained that, in addition to the primary construction contractors Whiting Turner Contracting Company, who subcontracted Owle Construction LLC, the project will be using labor and materials provided by tribal businesses like Cherokee Bottled Water, Cherokee Electrical, Van Green Plumbing, Owl Container and Studio 15.

TERO maintains a listing of eligible, tribal member workers called the "job bank".

TERO has been active in preparing the workforce for the new and upcoming opportunities for employment. The office has held a job fair in Murphy for the casino project and intends to have one every two months.

Wildcatt says that roughly 5 percent of the candidates for work in the job bank are from Graham and Cherokee counties. TERO is researching options to address challenges like mass transportation between Cherokee and Murphy, and the basic training needed to prepare for the hiring processes.

Wildcatt indicated that TERO has a three-phase plan to prepare tribal members. First, before they are released for hire, candidates must go through a training that teaches basic job interview skills-from clothing to comportment. Phase 2 gives more detailed instruction to the job seeker on proper workplace behavior. The final phase will involve specific skill sets for positions, like flagging courses for construction work.

Tribal members are encouraged to add their names to the growing list of eligible workers in the TERO job bank. Wildcatt states that there are over 300 members currently listed and 75 percent of those are available to start work immediately.

With an estimated 800 to 900 jobs available once the new facility opens, it is important that members of the tribe take advantage of these opportunities. According to Wildcatt, adding their names to the TERO job bank is an additional tool to successful employment.

EBCI Housing & Community Development Housing Services

House Constructed by Justin Wright Builders

What is Housing Services and what can it do for me?

We have several programs we offer enrolled members interested in obtaining homeownership on the reservation.

Packaging Mortgage Loans

We assist individuals in applying for mortgage loans through two lenders: Wells Fargo and First Citizens Banks. Based on certain lending criteria the bank establishes, applicants are offered to apply to the bank which best suits their needs.

Applicants are given the option to apply directly to the bank or can have their credit reviewed by Homebuyer Coordinators prior to applying to determine credit worthiness. If necessary, applicants are given direction on how to improve their credit to obtain a mortgage loan in the future.

Down Payment Assistance

When an applicant is pre-qualified for a mortgage loan on the reservation, Housing Services will offer down payment assistance of 20% of the contract/purchase price up to $30,000 maximum. This loan is to be repaid over a five-year term after the mortgage loan is satisfied.

Rate Buy Down Assistance

HCD Housing Services will assist mortgagees on the reservation with funds to purchase discount points to lower the interest rate offered by the bank. These funds are not payable and

Portfolio Program

HCD Housing Services offers the Portfolio Program to potential homebuyers who have minor blemishes on their credit report. Applicants must demonstrate a willingness and effort to repair their credit prior to applying for this program. The Portfolio Program is funded through gaming revenue and availability varies. The Portfolio loan is only used as an applicant's last resort.

What if I don't have land?

HCD Housing Services maintains a Land List of individuals who do not have land or who have land that has been deemed not buildable for housing purposes by Site Prep "Infrastructure." Eligible individuals can pick up the Land Inquiry form from our office located at 756 Acquoni Road.

When parcels become available, Homebuyer Coordinators will contact individuals according to their place on the Land List and will assist with packaging the mortgage loan. Individuals MUST BE able to obtain a mortgage loan in order to purchase lots.

What if I don't have credit or less than perfect credit?

We have a lending institution that works with individuals who have no credit by using "non-traditional" sources, such as utility bills, vehicle insurance, satellite radio services, cellphone bills, etc.

Applicants with less than perfect credit may be considered eligible for the Portfolio Program.

What if I want to purchase off the reservation?

One of our friendly staff will assist you in applying and packaging the mortgage loan; however, we are unable to offer down payment assistance or rate-buy-down funds with purchases made off the reservation.

What should I expect when I make an appointment with a Homebuyer Coordinator?

Your Homebuyer Coordinator will review your credit report with you and discuss existing issues and the best plan to obtain homeownership. Applicants need not bring any documents to the intake appointment. However, applicants must be enrolled, be employed, have a satisfactory credit history & score and meet standard affordability guidelines to apply for a mortgage loan. Mortgage loan approval is issued by the lender.

He has served as vice president of the Franklin, NC Camera club for the past two years, and is a current member of that club and the Sylva Photo Club. High-dynamic-range imaging (HDR) is a set of techniques used in imaging and photography to reproduce a greater dynamic range of luminosity than possible using standard digital imaging or photographic techniques.

Hughes, through the HDR process, will demonstrate how to recreate the desired range of brightness to darkness in a single image by capturing the scene in one or more RAW format by varying the exposure value, then combining them into one image with post processing software. This technique is also possible with the use of several JPG images by varying the shutter speed then combining them into one image with post processing software but not as optimal as with RAW image(s).

Following the program and the Q & A session, we will view member's submission of July's photo assignment "4th of July and anything to do with its celebration" (picnics, parades, fireworks, backyard barbecues, family gatherings, baseball, hotdogs, hand crank ice cream, apple pie and kids being kids.) This is when comments and ways that others may recompose or improve upon these images will be welcomed. For photo submissions to be included in the review and discussion session please follow the photo file naming scheme and instructions found on our website below.

Our July 12th meeting will be held at 318 Skyland Drive, Suite 1A, Coggins Office Park in Sylva, from 3:00 to 5:00 pm, with the pre-meeting, unmoderatedn "Camera Talk" from 2:00 to 3:00 pm. For the uninitiated, "Camera Talk" is the time to share anything to do with photography: questions, news, problems, how-to's along with camaraderie among like minded photo buffs. Visitors and guests are always welcome!

Thank you

On behalf of the Cherokee Indian Fairgrounds and the Destination Marketing Program, I would like to thank everyone who participated in the 2014 Cherokee Indian Fair Theme Contest for the 102nd Cherokee Indian Fair.

There were many excellent and well thought-out themes presented to the 2014 Cherokee Indian Fair Committee and selecting a winner took every committee members' insight and reflection.

Upon careful consideration, the Committee selected Richard Mark Owle Stewart as our 2014 Winner! The winning theme is: "Cherokee People: Our Legends and Tales"

Your efforts made all the difference in beginning the path to another successful Cherokee Indian Fair.

Sincerely, and with gratitude,
Howard K. Wahnetah,
EBCI Events & Fairgrounds Supervisor

Park proposes firewood changes

Great Smoky Mountains National Park officials are proposing changes that will help protect park forests by further limiting the type of firewood brought into the park. Non-native, tree-killing insects and diseases can unknowingly be introduced into the park through firewood transported from infested areas. New infestations threaten our forests with widespread tree mortality that could devastate wildlife habitat, park biodiversity, and scenic views.

The park is proposing to reduce this threat by changing park regulations to allow only heat-treated wood to be brought into the park for campground fires. If the proposal is adopted, beginning in March 2015, it would ban the importation of firewood that is not bundled and certified by the USDA or a state agency. Heat-treated wood will be available to purchase from concessioners in many of the campgrounds as well as from private businesses in the communities around the park. In addition, visitors may still collect dead and down wood in the park for campfires.

"We are asking visitors to help us protect park forests by ensuring they are using heat-treated firewood," said acting superintendent Cynthia

MacLeod. "The Smokies have already lost magnificent stands of chestnut, Fraser fir, and hemlock. We need to do all we can to protect the park from further threats."

A variety of destructive pests lay eggs or stowaway in firewood. These insects from Asia and Europe have the potential to devastate over 30 species of hardwood trees native to the park. Movement of firewood has been implicated in the spread of gypsy moth, Dutch elm disease, emerald ash borer, thousand canker disease, Asian longhorned beetle, Sirex woodwasp, golden spotted oak borer, and other native and non-native insect and disease complexes.

Numerous stakeholders representing federal and state agencies, conservation organizations, and universities are joining together to develop a national strategy to mitigate the risks associated with movement of firewood, including a public education campaign. National parks throughout the Appalachian region have taken action to limit the spread of insect pests in firewood including, in many cases, the banning of imported firewood. For the past three years, the Smokies has prohibited the importation of firewood from areas quaran-ted by the USDA Animal Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS). Current park regulations prohibit the importation of wood and wood products from states (or specific counties in states) quarantined for insects such as emerald ash borer or tree diseases such as thousand canker disease.

Although the new proposed regulation prohibiting the importation of non-certified wood would not take effect until 2015, the park is asking visitors to make the switch to safe firewood now. Heat-treated wood is available from an increasing number of businesses outside the park and staff are working with concessioners within the park to use low-risk wood sources until they are able to make the transition.

A final decision on adopting the new regulation is expected by the end of the year. The public may submit comments by: mail at 107 Park Headquarters Road, Gatlinburg, TN 37738; e-mail at grsmcomments@nps.gov; or comment cards available at visitor centers and campgrounds.

HOME REHABILITATION

The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians HIP Program is now accepting applications for home rehabilitation. Please call Cindi Squirrel, HIP Coordinator, at the Cherokee Boys Club at (828) 497-9101 to schedule an appointment.

CLUB HISTORY

The Cherokee Boys Farm Club was established at the Cherokee Boarding School in 1932. Two years later the Cherokee Motor Club was founded. When the Boarding School closed in 1954, the two Clubs were continued by the Cherokee Day School. The Clubs were combined in 1958 and continued to grow. On May 4, 1964, the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians incorporated the Cherokee Boys Club as a non-profit self-supporting, Tribal Enterprise. This year marks the 50th anniversary of the incorporation of the Cherokee Boys Club.

Club departments consist of Bus and Truck, Construction and Facilities, Administration, Garage and Body Shop, Cherokee Children's Home, CBC Printing and Child Care (Agelink, After-School and Snowbird Child Development Center).

CLUB PURPOSE:

To provide educational opportunities, vocational training and leadership experience for Cherokee people, especially youth; to provide services for the Tribe, the School, and the community; to provide the Children's Home and services to children and families; and to assist with recreational activities for Cherokee Youth.
