Seed Wagon helps kick-off summer reading

Do you want to help strengthen local EBCI communities?
Then apply to become a Community Development Coordinator!

The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians (EBCI) Cooperative Extension Center and Cherokee Preservation Foundation are jointly looking for a Community Development Coordinator who has the skills and experience to help strengthen EBCI communities by working with community clubs to expand community participation and develop their leadership and grantseeking skills.

The Community Development Coordinator will work with all community clubs on a frequent basis and prepare them for annual community development judging, Cherokee Indian Fair opportunities for communities, the annual local Community Development Awards program, and training programs to improve their fundraising, grant writing and other skills.

The Coordinator must have excellent verbal and written communications skills so he/she can develop news releases, success stories and reports, as well as lead or serve as a partner in the creation of events such as the annual Cherokee Day of Caring and Cherokee Preservation Foundation's annual Community Celebration.

The Community Development Coordinator is also responsible for coordinating and chaperoning an annual Costa Rica Eco-Study Tour for local youth and chaperones.

The successful candidate for this position will already have a record of involvement in and familiarity with the communities of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians. Persons applying for the position must have at least an Associate's degree or experiential equivalent.

No later than July 12, 2013, interested persons should send a resume and a letter of interest with a salary history to Rick DeLoughery at the EBCI Cooperative Extension Center at 876 Acquoni Road.

BabyFACE receives visit

Cherokee BabyFACE received a visit recently from their technical assistant supervisor, Joyce West (center) who is from the main Parents As Teachers (PAT) Office in St. Louis, MO that oversees the 13 BabyFACE Group. Parent Educators Alissa Lambert (right) and Jessica Wheatley presented West with a corn bead necklace in honor of her visit and her recent completion of her master's in social work degree. While here, West reviewed their files and observed each educator during one of their home visits. She gave both Lambert and Wheatley high recommendations and especially highlighted how they do very well in incorporating the language and culture into the program. "Both Lambert and Wheatley, along with their supervisor, Beth Pedersen, are grateful for the constructive feedback they receive from each of Joyce's yearly visits," said BabyFACE officials.

WCU announces graduation and dean's lists for spring

CULLOWHEE – Western Carolina University has announced its graduation and dean's lists for spring semester 2013.

The university recently conferred degrees on 1,322 students who completed their studies during the spring semester. A total of 468 undergraduate students received academic honors, with 147 graduating summa cum laude (with highest honors), 168 graduating magna cum laude (with high honors), and 153 graduating cum laude (with honors).

Local students graduating included: Christin N. Carter, Master's of Social Work degree; Joshua Hartley Davis, bachelor of science degree in electrical and computer engineering technology; Brandy Nacole Keen, bachelor of science degree in hospitality tourism management; and Ashley Elizabeth McLendon, master's of education degree in middle grades mathematics.

A total of 2,100 students at Western Carolina University have been named to the dean's list for spring semester 2013, according to Mark Lord, interim provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs.

To qualify for the dean's list, students must achieve at least a 3.5 grade-point average out of a possible 4.0 on a regular semester's work of not less than 12 hours, excluding remedial courses, with no grade of D or F.

Local students on the dean's list include: John Davis Arch, Sheila Cole Conner, Flint Locke Craig, Cara Amera Forbes, Natalie Diane Panther, Jakeli B. Swimmer and Paige Alexis Tester.

Man injured in Park by falling tree

An injured hiker was successfully airlifted from Low Gap Trail in Great Smoky Mountains National Park at 6:45 pm on Friday, June 14. Nathan Lipsom, 53, from Cambridge, Mass., sustained injuries from a falling tree while hiking the trail during a severe storm event on Thursday, June 13.

Lipsom was extricated from the trail by a Blackhawk helicopter coordinated through Haywood County and the State of North Carolina Division of Emergency Management. He was then flown to the airport in Asheville and transported by ground to Mission Hospital.

National park staff assisted the airlift operation on the ground and provided two Park Medics and an EMT for patient care. Damage to the trails around the Cosby and Big Creek areas prevented a ground team from reaching Lipsom for a carry out operation in a reasonable amount of time.

A National Weather Service crew has confirmed an EF-1 tornado in the Cosby area during the June 13 storm. A Park Backcountry Ranger was patrolling the trails around Cosby and Big Creek on the morning of June 14 to assess storm damage when he discovered Lipsom and initiated the rescue operation.

Disaster Relief Assistance Loans available at Sequoyah Fund

Sequoyah Fund has recently received funding from Cherokee Preservation Foundation for a special loan program to assist businesses affected by the landslide. This funding will enable Sequoyah Fund to make low interest loans (1-4%) to local businesses which have suffered financial setbacks due to a lack of customers in the first two quarters of 2013.

To be eligible for this loan, a business must be located on the Qualla Boundary or be owned by an EBCI tribal member. The business must also have experienced financial losses between January and June. This is a loan for temporary assistance, not for business expansion or growth. Business owners who apply for a loan will be asked to provide monthly or quarterly financial statements from the period for which they are claiming losses. Owners may apply for amounts up to the difference between this year and last year's January - June profits.

If you do not have financial statements for the first two quarters of the year you may still be able to get a disaster relief loan. For businesses without financial statements there will be a $5,000 cap. These business owners will also be required to attend a business accounting (Quickbooks) training before the loan can be disbursed.

If you are interested in a Disaster Relief Assistance loan, contact Sequoyah Fund to see if your business qualifies and for what amount. Feel free to contact Sequoyah Fund if you are interested in other types of assistance as well (creating and reading financial statements, disaster preparedness planning, credit coaching, or other services). Check out their lineup of services and trainings at www.sequoyahfund.org. Contact Russ Seagle (828) 359-5003 / russseagle@sequoyahfund.org if you are interested in a disaster relief loan. Contact John Ross (828) 359-5006 / johnross@sequoyahfund.org with other questions.

summer event guide

By SCOTT MCKIE B.P.
ONE FEATHER STAFF

Summer is a big time for the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians. Kids are out of school, the days are longer, and there are a lot of events to keep everyone busy.

"The entertainment options in Cherokee this summer are nothing less than phenomenal," said Jason Lambert, EBCI Commerce Division director. "There is something for everyone, both local and visitor. We hope that people will come to see all that Cherokee has to offer and extend their stay in our community."

Brooks Robinson, Harrah's Cherokee senior vice president and general manager, commented, "Harrah's Cherokee Casino Resort has something for everyone to enjoy from now until Labor Day. From concerts by Billy Idol, Miranda Lambert, Trace Adkins and The Black Crowes to a $150,000 free slot play giveaway on July 13 to the Ultimate Elvis Contest. Every Wednesday in July, we will be giving away either cash or a car or $50,000 in free slot play. This summer is going to be one of the most exciting ever at Harrah's Cherokee!"

Health Celebration Fair

Summer brings special treats!

Take a trip to the local farmer's market or berry patch to pick the freshest berries. They taste wonderful in the summer- fresh and sweet!

If the berries can't be consumed right away freeze them for later treats:

1. Pick fresh strawberries, raspberries or blueberries. Rinse off the berries. Do not let the berries sit in water.
2. Arrange berries on baking sheet. Place in the freezer and freeze.
3. Remove frozen berries from baking sheets and pack into freezer bags.
4. Frozen berries can be kept in the freezer for up to 6 months.

Toss some thawed berries on breakfast cereal, or top low fat yogurt with berries for breakfast. Blend together 1 cup of milk and 2 cups of frozen berries for a smoothie.

EBCI WIC Program is located in the Beloved Women's and Children's Center.

Office hours are Monday – Thursday 7:30-5:00 Friday 7:45-4:30. WIC is closed for lunch from 12:15-1:00 daily.

Child Clinical Team at Analenisgi trained in child-parent psychotherapy

SUBMITTED By ANALENISGI

What happens in early childhood can matter for a lifetime. In early childhood, research on the biology of stress shows how major adversity, such as extreme poverty, abuse, or neglect can weaken developing brain architecture and permanently set the body's stress response system on high alert.

According to Harvard University's Center on the Developing Child, providing stable, responsive, nurturing relationships in the earliest years of life can prevent or even reverse the damaging effects of early life stress, with lifelong benefits for learning, behavior, and health.

The child clinical team at Analenisgi has been trained in an exciting approach to assist parents of young children who have experienced trauma. The team had the opportunity recently to study infant psychotherapy with Dr. Joy Osofsky at the Louisiana State University Department of Health Sciences in New Orleans.

"When a child has experienced trauma, the child may feel that adults will not be able to protect them, and when both caregivers and children have experienced trauma, such as living in a violent environment, the caregiver and child may remind each other of the trauma so that neither feels safe in the other's presence," Dr. Osofsky wrote in Clinical Work with Traumatized Young Children. "Each of these situations places the caregiver-child relationship at-risk for disruption; thereby, increasing the likelihood that the child's developmental trajectory will be negatively impacted."

This approach is available for children ages infant to 3 years old. Even very young children can experience severe reactions to traumatic situations such as, a disruption of living place, neglect of their care and safety, abandonment by a parent or parents, or physical or sexual abuse. There are interventions that can assist a young child with expressing their fears and learning to regulate their emotions. Working with the caregiver, the CPP counselor can provide ways for the young child to communicate their concerns and can help the caregiver become more sensitive to what the child is trying to say.

The CPP program provides for an evaluation of the strength and character of the bond between the young child and the caregiver. Through use of the CPP office at the Beloved Women's Clinic, child parent interactions can be observed and recorded. The counselor and the parent can review the recordings and learn what communication techniques are most effective for their child.

Ralph Murphy, licensed clinical social worker with the Analenisgi Child Team, made the following observation, "It has been exciting and rewarding to work with parents of young children who have lost custody of their children and through the CPP process, support these parents in successfully regaining custody of their children."

"Through the family evaluations we consistently find that most parents of young children have excellent parenting skills but due to chemical abuse or other behavioral health issues, have not been able to stay consistently focused on positive parenting. When they make a commitment to the CPP process, and follow clinical recommendations for their own recovery, we have seen program outcomes that are a win-win for the parents and the children."

Cherokee Indian Hospital Authority Report

Meet the Cherokee Indian Hospital ER staff

Cherokee Indian Hospital would like to introduce you to members of the Emergency Department staff. Over the next few weeks, they will share degrees, experience, and expertise the community.

Dianne Wildcatt attended Southwestern Community College. She has 22 years experience. She has worked in Geriatrics, Home Health, Wound Care, and Women's Wellness. Wildcatt is certified in Basic Life Support and is an advocate for Swain/Qualla SAFE.

Mary Kazhe, unit clerk, has worked in the Cherokee Emergency Room for 10 years. She has acquired many skills in those years. She orders labs and radiology and makes sure hospital transfers run smoothly. Kazhe also makes sure patients are taken care of when they are in ER. This includes everything from water and food to a warm blanket.

Shown are Cherokee Indian Hospital ER staff members Dianne Wildcatt, Certified Nursing Assistant, and Mary Kazhe, UC.

Kids are not small adults: Giving children medicine safely

- * Only give your children medication recommended by a doctor or pharmacist.
- Never give medications meant for adults to children
- Do not share prescription medications among family members
- Do not give cough & cold medications bought in a grocery or drug store to children 2 years or younger
- * Keep your medications in the bottles that they originally came in.
- When receiving medications from your pharmacy, ask for child-proof packaging
- Keep all medications, including vitamins & supplements, out of reach of children in a locked cabinet

- inet
- * Use the correct amount of medication.
- Use only the cups or syringes provided to measure medications; do not use kitchen spoons or cups
- If you are not sure how much medicine to give, ask your child's doctor or pharmacist
- Be careful giving your child more than 1 cough & cold medication; many have the same active ingredients and may result in your child receiving double the amount of medication
- * Keep a list of medications your child is taking, as well as a list of known drug allergies.
- Know your child's current age and weight
- Ask your child's doctor or pharmacist for a list of

- medications and updated allergies
- Share your child's medication list with grandparents, babysitters, and teachers
- * Read the labels on medications to see:
 - If the medication should be given to children
 - The list of active ingredients
 - How much medicine to give your child
 - How many times a day your child should take the medication
- * Call the Poison Center if you need assistance:
- * If you think your child may have taken too much medicine or the wrong medication, call the Poison Center immediately at 1-800-222-1222.

Mary also leaves behind four step-grandchildren and three granddaughters; Nina, Kaelyn and Evelyn, as well as two special nieces; Brenda Johnson and Myrna Climbingbear. A visitation was held on June 13 at the Macedonia Baptist Church. She remained at the church until hour of service on June 14. Burial took place, following the service, at the Charlie Johnson Family Cemetery located on Big Cove Loop Rd. Pall bearers were Justin Walker, Danny French, Fidel "Porky" Raya, Michael Raya, Chebon Postoak, Tohiskie Climbingbear and Isaac Climbingbear II. Services were conducted by Rev. Charles Ray Ball, Pastor Wayne Carson and Brother James "Bo" Par- ris.

Long House Funeral Home assisted family with arrangements.

STUDENT OPPORTUNITIES

By CONSTANCE OWL

Young Native Writers Essay Contest

Constance here... back with yet another outstanding opportunity for Native students, The Young Native Writers Essay Contest. This national essay competition, brought to us by the Holland-Knight Charitable Foundation in partnership with the National Museum of the American Indian, encourages and celebrates the writing skills of Native youth. Each year, students are challenged to respond to a topical prompt with an essay not to exceed 1200 words. Prompts revolve around issues, initiatives, and concerns relevant to modern day Native communities.

The competition is open to Native American high school students currently enrolled in grades 9-12. Students participating in the Young Native Writers Essay Contest should demonstrate a significant and current relationship with their Native American tribal community. In preparation for writing, students are encouraged to draw from their own personal knowledge, and to research information from a variety of sources. Sources may include interviews, personal experiences, oral testimonies, official documents, diaries, letters, autobiographies, newspapers, academic journals, films and television movies, and Internet sources among others.

Five first place winners are announced in the spring of the competition year. Each winner receives an all-expense-paid trip to Washington, D.C., to visit the National Museum of the American Indian and other prominent sites. First-Place winners attend Scholar Week (July 15 - 19) in Washington and receive a special award for display at home or school. In addition, each First-Place Winner receives a scholarship of $2,500 which is paid directly to the college or university of his or her choice.

The prompt for the just-completed 2013 season was, "What recent action (for example, program, law, or policy) has your tribal community taken that instills in you a sense of hope, progress, and promise? Please describe that tribal initiative and why it makes you hopeful for, and proud of, your tribal community? Also, if you were a tribal leader, what additional steps would you take to keep the community moving forward?"

As an EBCI tribal member, I entered the contest and wrote my essay about the efforts of our tribe to preserve and protect the many natural area resources used by our talented cultural artisans and how these efforts will assure the presence of vital materials such as White Oak and river cane for future Cherokee artists. Last month, I was pleased to receive a call that I had been selected as one of the five first-place winners.

THANK YOU WOLFTOWN SUPPORTERS!

This has been a very blessed and exciting time of my life. I hope that those of you who are already supporting me continue to do so and will encourage others as well. I have a lot of special thank you's that I want to do in person and will make my way around in the next few weeks to do so. Running for a top spot in the Primaries has been a huge commitment and I couldn't have done it without my family backing me all the way. To my family, I love you all and words cannot express how much I appreciate all that you have done to support me.

God Bless, Chelsea

Cherokee Indian Hospital Authority scholarship

The Cherokee Indian Hospital is now taking applications for their CIHA Scholarship. This scholarship is available to EBCI tribal members in a postsecondary/college who plan to continue or further their education in the health care field.

First priority will be given to former Health Occupations students and students demonstrating proficiency in a health related field.

The applicant must select and make arrangements for a mentor from Cherokee Indian Hospital. Applicants are required to check in with their mentor at least once a week for the period of the scholarship.

To be eligible, students must be enrolled in a minimum of six college credit hours in post secondary school. Two $500 scholarships will be awarded in August. The deadline for applications is July 20. The funding for this scholarship was made possible through donations, silent auctions, drawings, and other activities from employees of Cherokee Indian Hospital. No healthcare funds were used.

Info: jody.bradley@cherokeehospital.org or 497-9163 ext. 6207. Deadline for applications is July 20, 2013.

Oklahoma relief drop-off points in Cherokee

In the wake of the storms that passed through Oklahoma, there may be Chickasaw, Absentee Shawnee, Potawatomi, along with other tribes, who have been directly affected. Many have asked how they might be able to assist with providing relief for the storm victims and first responders.

The EBCI Emergency Management program and the EBCI Executive office will be conducting a donation drive for the following items: bottled water, diapers, formula, non-perishable food items, Gatorade, first aid supplies, blankets and hygiene products.

Please make monetary donations by check to EBCI Emergency Management. The EM program will send one check comprised of all monetary donations to the Red Cross.

The drop-off points are as follows: Council House, Tsali Manor, Boys Club Lobby, EBCI Health & Medical Lobby, and the Shawn Blanton Emergency Operations Center. The deadline is June 7 for all donations.

If your department is interested in conducting a donation drive, please contact Emergency Management 554-6434 554-6433.

As the summer season approaches, we need to keep in mind a few tips for preventing heat-related illness.

HEAT EXHAUSTION AND STROKE – KNOW THE SIGNS

As the temperature rises across much of the nation, it is important to review heat safety with workers. Preventing heat-related illness by providing rest and plenty of cold fluids is key. But recognizing when employees are suffering from this condition is also crucial.

Two serious forms of heat illness are heat exhaustion and heat stroke. These conditions can be fatal if supervisors and co-workers don't take the right first-aid steps.

Here are keys for recognizing and treating both conditions:

Heat Exhaustion

Signs of heat exhaustion include headache, nausea, dizziness, heavy sweating, weakness, irritability and extreme thirst. To treat heat exhaustion:

1. Take the worker to a shady or cool area. Provide him or her with water or other cold liquids to drink, and ice packs to cool down.
2. Give the worker the day off.
3. If symptoms don't improve after an hour, get the worker to an emergency room or clinic.

Heat Stroke

Signs of heat stroke include confusion, fainting, seizures, excessively red or hot skin and very high body temperature.

Treatment to administer:

1. Call 911 immediately. While waiting for help to arrive, place the worker in a cool area.
2. Loosen or remove outer layers of clothes.
3. Fan the worker and put ice packs in the armpits.
4. Wet the worker with cold water.
5. Provide cold fluids to drink.
6. Don't leave the worker's side until help arrives.

War Eagles battle in IFL Playoffs

The Western Carolina War Eagles (5-4) were sent to Kingsport, Tenn. on Saturday, June 15 to play the Tennessee Crusaders (7-3) to see who would play in the Imperial Football League championship game. Coming out of a three week span of not playing a game proved to be a difficult obstacle for the War Eagles to overcome as they lost 28-0.

To say that the Crusaders came out hot in the beginning of the game would be an understatement. They were able to score three quick times to put the War Eagles in a 22 point deficit to start the second quarter.

The first half of play for the War Eagles saw scattered successes on the offensive side of the ball with decent runs by Josue Otero and Kris Quinn, but then would be lost the next play by some phantom penalties. Going into the half time break the War Eagles seemed to be down and out of gas with the Crusaders leading 28-0.

To start the second half of play, the War Eagles received the kickoff and started their offensive series without a hitch to slow them down. They were able to gash the Crusaders defense with multiple big runs that average 8 to 10 yards per carry. War Eagles lineman, led by Ian McCauley and Brett Robertson, were able to push the defensive line around with force in the remaining two quarters of the game, but a few miscommunications during certain plays were able to sputter out drives that put the War Eagles in scoring positions.

Defensively, the War Eagles, in the second half, were able to prevent the Crusaders from putting any more points on the board. The effort was led by the defensive lineman: Haile Gibson, Evan Cagle and Stephen Little. These linemen were able to free their linebackers up so they could make series ending stops, which allowed the War Eagles offense to try to score. The second half proved to be a much better experience for the War Eagles, but the Crusaders did enough in the first quarter offensively to secure enough points and their defense shut down the War Eagles offense in crucial moments.

Offensive leaders: Rushing – Josue Otero, 103 yards. Andre Dewhurst, 74 yards. Kris Quinn, 44 yards.

Defensive leaders: Brett Robertson – 8 Tackles, 1 QB sack. Andre Dewhurst – 5 Tackles, 1 TFL. Austin Curtice – 5 Tackles. Antonio Johnson – 4 Tackles, 1 QB Sack. Demakus Staton – 4 Tackles.

War Eagles officials stated, "The Western Carolina War Eagles would like to thank everybody who supported them this year making the second year of their team better than the first. A big thank you to all of their sponsors, boosters, cheerleaders, game crew, field staff, coaches, team trainer John Mitzel, players, fans, The One Feather and a special thank you to Mr. Ray Kinsland for being the voice of the War Eagles. Please come back out next and let us try to make next year another great season and strive to become the IFL champions!"
