Impeachment proceedings rescheduled following ruling day after the Cherokee Supreme Court issued a ruling on several appeals involving the impeachment proceedings against Principal Chief Patrick Lambert, Tribal Council approved a new date for the impeachment hearing. In a two-page order issued Wednesday, May 10, three Cherokee Supreme Court Justices affirmed several orders previously issued by Judge Sharon Barrett and lifted the stay on the impeachment proceedings.

During its regular monthly session on Thursday, Tribal Council approved Res. No. 590, in a 9-2 vote, and set the new date for the impeachment hearing for Thursday, May 18. Big Cove Rep. Teresa McCoy and Painttown Rep. Tommye Saunooke were the two dissenting votes and Big Cove Rep. Richard French was absent.

The three-panel Cherokee Supreme Court which issued Wednesday's order included Brenda Toineeta Pipestem, Presiding Chief Justice; Robert C. Hunter, Associate Justice; and Jerry Waddell, Associate Justice sitting by Designation.

In their order, they wrote, "The Orders dated April 18, 2017 and April 26, 2017, issued by Judge Sharon Tracey Barrett are hereby affirmed as to the issues raised by the Attorney General. The issues not raised by the Attorney General are found not to be properly before the trial court at the preliminary injunction stage of proceedings. Section 22 of the Charter and Governing Document of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians includes the power to impeach and remove. The stay over the impeachment proceedings currently pending before the Tribal Council is removed. The Petition for Writ of Mandamus and Prohibition is denied."

Chief Lambert said in a statement on Monday, May 15, "The order entered by the Court allows Tribal Council to proceed forward with their impeachment process. It doesn't say that the current attempt to impeach me being made by Tribal Council is fair or even legal. I do not believe anyone thinks Tribal Council intends to give me a fair trial."

He went on to say, "Doing the right thing often leads to conflict with those who would rather continue to allow wrongdoings to prosper. The mere fact that a criminal investigation by the FBI is currently underway should cause those in the highest elected positions to step up in support of cleaning up our government. Likewise, should targets of a federal investigation be allowed to vote on impeachment? Instead, they have turned their full attention to me in an effort that I can only imagine is a response to the sharp stance I have made against those who have taken advantage of the Tribe. If an honest trial would be given, I would have no issue with the process. I will continue to take a stand and expose the corruption that has stained our government and thrown a veil over the real issue at hand – criminal fraudulent theft of Tribal resources."

On Thursday, Tribal Council will discuss, debate, and possibly rule on the 12 various Articles of Impeachment. It has not been stated publicly when a ruling following Thursday's hearing will be issued, but a ruling is expected sometime on Thursday as that is the only date that has been set for the Hearing.

Tribal Council Chairman Bill Taylor was contacted for comment on this issue, and a response was not received by press time.

New turf being installed at Cherokee High, lawsuit filed ay Kinsland Stadium at Cherokee Central Schools is getting a new look. The turf on the field is currently being replaced due to degradation, and a lawsuit has been filed by the school system against the original installers.

"The synthetic turf installed by FieldTurf in 2009 has been steadily breaking up for the past several years," said Dr. Scott Penland, Cherokee Central Schools superintendent. "It has an eight year warranty. We asked them to come in a couple of years ago and address our concerns. They did come and make some corrections, but did not attempt to fix the fibers that were breaking up."

He added, "I found out that several other schools were suing FieldTurf because they knowingly installed a 'faulty' product at that time."

Dr. Penland contacted attorneys involved in a larger class-action lawsuit who visited Cherokee. "Once they saw it, they agreed to add us to the 'class action' lawsuit at no cost to Cherokee. If successful with the case, the attorneys will get a percentage of the amount we are awarded. It is a win-win for us."

Cherokee Central Schools filed a complaint in the Western District of North Carolina court against FieldTurf USA, Inc., a Florida-based corporation; FieldTurf, Inc., a Montreal-based corporation; and FieldTurf Tarkett SAS, a Frenchbased corporation.

The lawsuit complaint alleges, "This action involves the deceptive and unfair business practices of FieldTurf in connection with its manufacturing, marketing, sale, and installation of defective artificial turf sports fields installed in January of 2009 at Cherokee Central Schools."

Patrick M. Wallace, a Raleigh-based attorney with Whit-field, Bryson, & Mason LLP, is working on the suit for the school system and stated, "As early as 2006, FieldTurf knew that athletic fields installed with its Duraspine artificial turf were showing signs of a defect that caused grass fibers to prematurely break down. As with many other schools, FieldTurf chose silence over customer service by not disclosing the defect. Cherokee High School's Duraspine field failed in the exact way that FieldTurf knew it would fail. But, when Cherokee High School asked FieldTurf to fix the field, FieldTurf stonewalled them. We are proud to stand by Cherokee High School as it fights to vindicate its legal rights."

Most of the complaints surround the FieldTurf fields, including the one in Cherokee, and deal with the company's use of its Duraspine monofilament turf which it began to promote around 2005.

Complaints would come in soon after.

According to the suit, "FieldTurf knew that its representations about the durability and longevity of its Defective Product were false and likely to deceive its customers, including Plaintiff herein, based upon its knowledge of the Evolution fibers' failures beginning as early as 2006."

While the suit has been filed, the turf at Ray Kinsland Stadium could not wait for an outcome. "We really had to proceed with a new turf, as it was getting dangerous in places that were worn down," said Dr. Penland. "Players did not have enough of the fibers to dig their feet into. We were concerned about injuries. We definitely want all athletes to have the very best playing field that is possible."

While the field turf is being replaced, another safety issue is being addressed. "Safety of our students is always our first concern," Dr. Penland noted. "The School Board has had many discussions about the concrete that was poured on both sidelines. Players seemed to end up on this concrete. We are taking advantage of this timing to put turf all the way to the walls on both sidelines. This will make a much safer playing field for everyone."

FieldTurf has issued a five-page document entitled "FieldTurf in the Media: Separating Fact from Fiction" in which it outlines its case against many of the claims against the company. In that document, FieldTurf officials note, "The suggestion that FieldTurf 'covered up' or stonewalled' customers around the Duraspine issue is simply not true. In 2011, we sued our fiber supplier, publicly declaring what we believed the defect to be – inability to stand up to the sun – and stating which types of customers we expected to be impacted."

The statement continued, "While we did not proactively reach out to every customer on the Duraspine issue, since it did not impact every customer, we have been proactive in dealing with the issue."

The school is seeking at least $500,000 in the case but is leaving the exact amount open "because Plaintiff's damages are continuous and progressive over time". They are seeking the Defendant to pay general and compensatory damages, punitive damages, costs of suit, and any further relief deemed appropriate by the court.

The original cost of the turf in 2009 was $636,000 according to the Cherokee Boys Club. Last month, the Cherokee School Board approved $615,485 for the installation of the new field which goes to the lowest bidder, Medallion Athletic Products of Mooresville.

Tribe looking at counting military service towards tribal service

o honor veterans and military service, the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians is looking into the possibility of counting military service time towards a tribal employee's time when figuring retirement. A resolution, submitted by Birdtown Rep. Travis Smith, to form a team to look into all aspects of the proposal was approved unanimously by Tribal Council during their regular session on Thursday, May 11.

The resolution forms a team consisting of members from the EBCI Veterans Service Office, EBCI Human Resources, Tribal Benefits Office, and EBCI Legal Office that is tasked with researching the idea and bringing a detailed, formal proposal back to Tribal Council during the August monthly session.

Rep. Smith said veterans should be honored, "What they did out there, that's priceless for them to go out there and put their life on the line for us...giving them a few years of service, that's nothing."

He added, "For the amount of money that we spend on things around here, the little bit we could give to them to show the appreciation, I think that's very meaningful."

J.D. Arch, EBCI veterans service officer and U.S. Navy veteran, said he fully supports the idea and is looking forward to working with the team. "It's definitely a benefit to get this going, and I think it would honor our veterans... I support it, and I think it'll be a good move to improve the relationship between our veteran's community and the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians."

SCOTT MCKIE B.P./One Feather

The resolution itself states in part, "The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians believes the sacrifice of veterans is tremendous and their contributions to our community upon their return from service is vital to the success of our Tribe, and the sacrifice of veterans deserves recognition which is meaningful."

Cherokee County – Snowbird Rep. Adam Wachacha, a U.S. Army veteran, explained how the federal government works on the issue, "For instance, if you serve 20 years in the military, full active service, and when you get out the Postal Service, or some of the other federal entities will take that same 20 years, and you can transfer it into the Postal Service and then you've only got to work 10 years there. Then, you're fully vested at 30 years."

He went on to say, "I think the proposal is looking at options like that for full vested military service. We're not saying we're going to mirror what they do. We may do something less. I agree with Travis (Smith). I think there's more that we could do. Men and women go and put their life on the line for our freedom, and what better way to pay them back?"

Currently, the EBCI Personnel Policy makes some concessions for military service such as Sec. 4.00 which states in part, "If two enrolled members of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians meet the minimum requirements and are of equal qualification, preference will be given to the enrolled member who is also an honorably discharged veteran."

Local bail bondsmen arrested in criminal complaint

SCOTT MCKIE B.P.

ONE FEATHER STAFF

Phillip S. Armachain Sr., 50, an EBCI tribal member and local bail bondsmen, was arrested by federal officials on Wednesday, May 10 on various allegations involving repayment of loans. He was named in a 10-page Criminal Complaint on the charges of forced labor and sexual abuse of a minor in Indian Country.

The Complaint alleges, "The Cherokee Indian Police Department (CIPD) and the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) have learned that enrolled members of the EBCI doing business with Armachain are sending their per capita casino distribution checks to Armachain as collateral for personal loans and to repay bond fees. Additionally, three women have disclosed that they participated in sexual intercourse or other sexual acts with Armachain in return for their bond fees or to have their personal loans from Armachain paid."

It continues, "Armachain is also known to loan money at an interest rate of one hundred percent."

The Complaint further alleges that Armachain instructed individuals to change the address to which their EBCI per capita distribution was sent to his Post Office box, and it is went on to allege that he "requests power of attorney from the loan recipients in order to cash the per capita checks".

According to the Complaint, over 300 checks, totaling over 150 EBCI tribal members, were mailed to his Post Office box in the year 2015.

A total of four women were referenced in the Criminal Complaint, identified as Victim Number One (V1), Victim Number Two (V2), Victim Number Three (V3), and Victim Number Four (V4).

The Complaint alleges, "In August of 2016, V1 participated in sexual intercourse with Armachain in return for a $400 loan. Due to the sexual intercourse, Armachain did not make V1 repay the loan."

V2 allegedly was bonded out of jail by Armachain and the Complaint alleges "...V2 participated in sexual intercourse with Armachain to pay for the bond. V2 never had to pay for the bond and Armachain told V2 to 'keep it between you and me' and that 'maybe we can do this again sometime".

Of V3, the Complaint stated, "V3 stated that she participated in sexual intercourse with Armachain 'so I would not have to pay loans and bonds'." It further alleges, "V3 would try to avoid having sexual intercourse with Armachain but told investigators 'He made me do it'."

V4, a minor who had not obtained the age of 16, alleged sexual abuse. The Complaint states that V4 was taken to Armachain's residence by her mother on "number occasions". It went on to allege, "Armachain would not loan money to the mother unless she brought V4 to pick up the money. The mother waited in the vehicle and send V4 inside to obtain the loan money."

The Complaint went on to say, "V4 stated that the sexual abuse happened every time she was dropped off to obtain loan money from Armachain."

According to the U.S. Attorney's Office, Armachain was still in federal custody on Friday, May 12. He was originally scheduled for a Preliminary Hearing and Detention Hearing on Friday, May 12 at 9:45am in Courtroom 2, 100 Otis St., Asheville before Magistrate Judge Dennis Howell, but that hearing was moved to Wednesday, May 17 at 10:30 because, according to the U.S. Attorney's Office, Armachain had not yet retained an attorney.

ELECT TERRIHENRY

PAINT TOWN TRIBAL COUNCIL REPRESENTATIVE

A proven leader who respects the People

Dear Paint Town Citizens,

In 2009, you placed your faith in me to lead as your Tribal Council representative. While I was not perfect in executing my mandate, I own my mistakes and tried to remedy them where possible, always respecting the greater good of the whole tribe. After much self-reflection and analysis of the current state of our Tribal government, I put my name forward to be included on the ballot for the upcoming 2017 Tribal Election. I humbly ask you for your support in the upcoming primary election.

Like you, I have been watching the Tribal Council's conduct in its sessions. And like you, I have concerns. Like you, my interests are for the greater good of the Tribe. Respect for the People is also very important.

Our Charter and Governing Document of 1986 outlines the authorized scope of a Tribal Council member's work. The role of our Tribal Council is to develop the laws for the Tribe; to legislate and develop policy. The intent of Tribal law is to create standards for us all to live by, to create programs that positively impact the lives of our People and demonstrate that we can work in the interest of the greater good. Tribal Council's task is to update the Tribal law and policy in relation to the needs of the People.

Experienced leadership is necessary in the current climate of our tribal government. I will bring experience and respect to Council and work for our community and our tribe.

- Personally and professionally involved in the drafting process and advancing major pieces of federal legislation¹ and advocacy for our Tribe's issue interests.
- Drafted, presented, and advocated for numerous pieces of tribal legislation in the Tribal Council House.
- As Chairwoman, I executed the administrative duties of the Council daily, including chairing the Council sessions and the Tri-Council of the Cherokees, work sessions and represented the Tribe at various national, state and inter-tribal leader organization meetings.
- Serve as Co-Chair the NCAI Task Force on Violence Against Native Women, serve on a national Indian Board of Directors, and, as a North American expert on the United Nations Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues.²

My experience in serving six-years as a Tribal Council member and Chairwoman has given me a unique perspective about how the Tribal government functions. My additional experience as your Secretary of State created opportunities to represent the Eastern Band in pursuit of our external interests. Public service is a position of honor. An elected leader must respect the People you serve and the people you work with.

My standard of public service for Cherokee People is to carry the needs and interests of our communities into the House of the People, and you work to bring those ideas into being. To meet this standard, in my experience, I have conducted myself in a professional manner and, when chairing or conducting a meeting, to maintain decorum as facilitator of the Council sessions in the Council chambers. I will work to maintain a functional government for all of us, keeping in mind that our government is by and for the People.

In our mind, our heart and our spirit one fire must burn as we continue our mission of nation building in perfecting our tribal sovereignty. I am committed to working in the interest of the greater good of our People.

I am eternally grateful to my family, the Paint Town community and the other communities for their belief and faith in me. I humbly ask for your support. On June 1st, 2017, please vote Terri Henry for Paint Town Tribal Council Representative.

Respectfully, Terri Henry

Roberts awarded MAAC Special Olympics Award

SHEVILLE - Jennifer Roberts, an EBCI tribal member, was awarded the 2017 Mountain Amateur Athletics Club (MAAC) Special Olympics Award at the organization's annual awards banquet held Sunday, May 7 at the Omni Grove Park Inn in Asheville.

Along with her award, a $1,000 grant, sponsored by MAAC Board members Keith Roden and Stan Pamfilis, was given to the WNC Special Olympics in Roberts' name.

Roberts has participated on the Qualla Boundary Special Olympics team for seven years and has received over 30 medals during her time representing the Tribe. She has competed in events throughout western North Carolina and at the State Games in Cary.

Her father, William Terry Roberts, along with her brother William D. Roberts, stated they are both very proud of Jennifer in her accomplishments and representing the Tribe.

Jennifer's brother, William, commented, "We hope she has many more years and accomplishments ahead of her. It should show us all that even if you have a disability, you can be an excellent representative to your community. A strong Tribe deserves this young woman to remind us that with determination and a big heart you can accomplish anything you desire!"

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

As Head Coach, Chris Mintz has collected an extensive list of achievements, including; Career record 327-87 win/loss record, 7 conference championships, 8 sectional championships. 3 final 4 appearances, 2010 Citizen-Times coach of the year, 2005 Times-News coach of the year, Chosen to coach Blue/White game twice, Chosen to coach West/ Midwest game, 6-time Smoky Mountain Coach of the Year.

What drives you to put in the work every day as a coach?

A. I absolutely hate to lose. I try to make sure I put my team and myself in the right positions to make sure we do not lose. I also enjoy the relationships and watching a player grow from when they are a freshman to when they graduate.

What do you think was the biggest contributing factor to all the success you've had this year?

A. First, I had great players that bought into what we were trying to accomplish. They worked hard and played well together.

Who were/are some of your biggest Influences as a coach?

of sports and helping me understand athletics growing up. Throughout all my playing days, there were a bunch of coaches that made me want to join the profession. When I first started coaching, I tried to talk to all the successful coaches to see what they were doing in the area and now some of them are my best friends in coaching.

What is one idea or philosophy that you try to impress upon each of your athletes?

A. To be successful, you have to put in work. No matter if it's in the classroom or on the court, if you don't out work people, you are not going to beat them. Along with our success on the court, we have had a great record in the classroom including four valedictorians and almost A. My dad was always big in my life every girl has went on to college.

ASHEVILLE CHEVROLET is proud to promote local high school coaches because they understand how impactful they are on student athletes. Growing up, Stan and Bobby played high school sports and they remember the influence that their coaches had on them and how they helped shape their lives. This spotlight is to provide recognition to the men and women who put so much time and energy to helping our kids grow both on and off the field.

uzene Hill, an EBCI tribal member, is known worldwide for her interesting and thought-provoking visual arts. Entitled "Enate", her new installation located at the Portland Art Museum in Portland, Ore., is part of a larger exhibit entitled "Connecting Lines" and addresses the serious issue of violence against Native American women as well as tribal sovereignty issues. "'Enate' is a multi-media installation addressing the issue of violence against women, specifically Native American women," said Hill. "I use material volume as a device to present numbers and statistics. This work includes two silk capes, cochineal, and a video of my shapeshifting action wearing the capes."

She started working on her installation in September 2016 when she was invited to participate in a two-person show, "Connecting Lines", along with Brenda Mallory, a Cherokee Nation citizen.

"Last summer, I was experimenting with cochineal as a pigment and around the same time saw images of 5,000-year-old goddess figures from the coastal region of Ecuador," Hill commented. "I cut silhouettes, based on those figures, out of silk taffeta. The first step was dyeing strips of fabric, using various mordants and solution ratios to get a range of hues, from scarlet to crimson. Then, I began cutting out the 6,956 silhouettes."

Hill had a reason for making that many silhouettes.

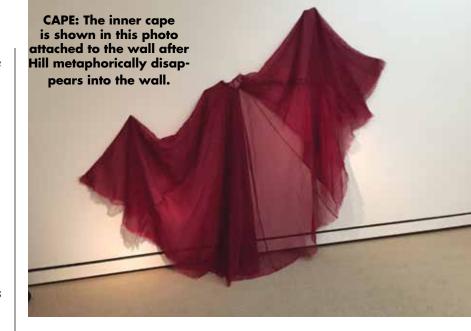

"My goal is to draw attention to the great number of Native women who are sexually assaulted, displaying these statistics through material volume," she noted. "Just reading a number, like 6,956, doesn't have the impact that seeing the number in a mass of material. Six thousand nine hundred and fifty-six (6,956) is the average number of Native women assaulted each year, but only 16 percent of sexual assaults are ever reported. It's the least reported violent crime. This number, as material volume, is presented in the outer cape, which is full length and covered with the female figures."

Once the silhouettes were completed, "The third step for the outer cape was to group the figures into clusters of three, tacked in the center, which created a feather-like triangle. These I sewed onto a heavy silk full-length cape. Cochineal dye comes from small insects that live on cacti in Central and South America, which were cultivated and used extensively for painting and dyeing textiles prior to Spanish contact. When the Spanish saw the intense red hues, they plundered and hoarded it, and cochineal became their second most important export, after silver."

Part of her art for the installations is not just visual, but active. "My other goal for 'Enate' is to show, through my shapeshifting action, empowerment and sovereignty. I begin the action on the floor covered with the cape, which looks shapeless, amorphous. I begin to animate it and rise up as it becomes a moving entity. Then, I emerge, a woman enveloped in a mantle of empowerment and protection. The cape lifts up and I'm left wearing a gossamer inner cape, symbolically a layer of cochineal protection. The intense red color in cochineal comes from carminic acid, found in the female bugs and is a deterrent against predators. The 6,956 survivors are transformed into goddesses, imbued with cochineal protection and empowered by their unity."

On "Connecting Lines", Hill was able to work with other Cherokee women in addition to Mallory, partnerships that she said evolved gradually as the project moved along. "We chose Ashley Holland, Cherokee Nation, to write the essay, since she's a scholar and is familiar with both our work. It was important to us that the title of the show, and titles of our two installations, be in syllabary as an expression of Cherokee culture and language sovereignty. My cousin, Laura Pinnix, had translated a title for my first large installation, 'The Pilgrimage Ribbon'. She agreed and generously gave us her time and expertise for the translations.

The other Cherokee woman is my daughter, Samantha Page Mc-Daniel, who is a costume designer, taught to sew by my grandmother."

Hill added, "The fabric cutout cluster idea came from a capelet, featuring a flower motif, which my grandmother made for me when I was in college. Sam's involvement and my grandmother's influence is a personal expression of matrilineal bonds. 'Enate' is a synonym for matriline, connections through the mother, and the overall concept for this work is to draw strength through matrilineal culture."

A 2016 NACF (Native Arts and Cultures Foundation) Fellow. Hill never slows down with her artwork, and she's already planning her next work. "I have a new installation planned, 'Traces and Wounds', that will use cochineal and principles of the Inka khipu counting system to address the issue of violence against Native American women. As soon as I return from the Native Arts and Cultures Fellowship convening in June, I will begin that fabrication. I'm currently making new drawings, exploring ways to print with hand held rollers, methods used by women in pre-contact societies, and continuing my research of matrilineal culture in the Americas."

"Connecting Lines" will show at the Portland Art Museum now through Oct. 29. For more information, visit www.portlandartmuseum.org or call (503) 226-2811 or (503) 276-4249. The Museum is located at 1219 SW Avenue in Portland, Ore. and is open six days a week (closed on Monday) with the following hours: Tues. 10am – 5pm, Wed. 10am – 5pm, Thurs. 10am – 8pm, Fri. 10am – 8pm, Sat. 10am – 5pm, and Sun. 10am – 5pm.

Tribal member tells stories through rap here is a long-standing tradition of outstanding Cherokee storytellers. That history is continuing on with the new generation, some of which are taking it to new places.

SCOTT MCKIE B.P.

ONE FEATHER STAFF

Davis Grae Crowe, a 22-yearold EBCI tribal member, goes by the stage name of Banished DG and tells stories through his rap and R&B music. He recently finished and released online a six-track project entitled "Influx".

"I've always been into music growing up," said Crowe who related his interest in music started in early childhood. "I was in bands going through high school and in chorus in high school too. I've always been interested in playing the guitar and learning to write."

His grandmother paid for music lessons in Hendersonville. "My grandmother got me and one of my younger brothers into it. He plays drums, and I play guitar. That creative outlet – she pushed it on us."

Crowe says some of his earliest influences were late 1980s, early 1990s R&B and rap. "My mom brought us up on it. It was good stuff, but I listened to everything. Being in bands in high school, I also got into metal, alternative, and indie."

But, he was drawn to rap, "Rappers inspired me because they were storytellers. Rap is very narrative-driven. The lyrics are complex and its poetry."

Crowe added, "I can't listen to something without meaning behind it."

Since putting his music online, the tracks have garnered nearly 300,000 plays. After posting the tracks, he did some small promotions of the project through his friends on social media, and then it blew up. "I just woke up one day, and it had jumped up to 32,000. Apparently, larger pages and people with massive followings shared my music. People were connecting with it and leaving comments."

Crowe said he wanted the six tracks to tell a story. "Everything is connected in a way."

He never stops working on his music. "I try to write every day, creating every day."

Making a million dollars or selling out arenas has never been in his mind-set of working his music. "I just wanted to share my experiences. I was touching on subjects that are very personal to me. I've gone through some hard times, and I'm using music as a way to express things that I couldn't. I always wanted to share it because growing up on the reservation a lot of people go through different hardships...I know people make careers out of this, but I just wanted people to hear the story and to share my story."

The high online numbers surprise Crowe. "It still bewilders me that people listen that much."

In addition to continuing to work on his music, he does plan to attend Full Sail University in the future to study digital cinematography. "In high school, there was a video filming and editing class, and I thoroughly enjoyed that...other than music, cinema is something that's always inspired me."

"Rappers inspired me because they were storytellers."

OBITUARIES

Lucy Lee McLaughlin

Lucy Lee McLaughlin, born March 11,1940 in Raton, NM, passed away on May 7,2017 at her residence. She was the daughter of the late Ernest and Mildred Buffington McLaughlin.

Lucy grew up in Sulphur Springs, Texas. After high school, she attended East Texas State University where she obtained her bachelor's of science degree in math and science in 1960. In 1964, she received her master's degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary on religious education. From 1960-62, she taught school in Lake Jackson, Texas. In 1962, she went on the mission field working with African American children. In 1964, she went to Cherokee as a missionary to Cherokee Baptist Church where she served as director of the day care program. In 1965, she was sent to do mission work in Denver, Colo. in a Hispanic church.

After her time in Denver, Lucy felt led to return to Cherokee so she left the mission board and returned to Cherokee as a missionary and school teacher. Lucy was a school teacher with Cherokee Central Schools for 37 years. Among all her many accomplishments and recognitions received during her lifetime, Lucy was most honored by being made an honorary member of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians in 1988, and she was given the Cherokee name for "Beloved Teacher". During her time in Cherokee, she was a Sunday school teacher, piano instructor, worked with youth groups, helped at Camp Cherokee, visited shut-ins, served on various boards including VOC, and was a member of Delta Kappa Gamma. In the summer when she wasn't teaching, she continued her mission work by helping with several church camps on other reservations including the Choctaw reservations in Mississippi and Oklahoma and she attended the Indian Baptist Missions Camp meeting annually. She was a humble servant of God who loved her Lord and Savior.

In addition to her parents, Lucy is preceded in death by two sisters, Margaret Driggers and Helen Ferguson; and her "foster" parents, Russell and Elizabeth "Lizzie"(-French) Smith that took her into their family when she came to Cherokee as a missionary.

Lucy is survived by a brother, Paul McLaughlin (Millie); and three sisters, Lois Ferguson (Boyd), Joyce Bayless, and Dorothy Weaver (Gene). In addition to her immediate, family Lucy is survived by numerous nieces and nephews and an extensive foster family in Cherokee as well as friends everywhere. She will be greatly missed by her best friend, Katherine Smith and her sister Maxine Smith; her foster daughter Lizzie McCoy Bernal; son-in-law German Bernal; grand-children Malaciah Taylor, Colby Yanez, Omar Yanez, Sidnie Yanez, Rachel Taylor, and Keisha Sogueco; and great grandchildren Evelyn, Gracelyn, Marvin, Dezmond, Levi, and Iaden.

Funeral services were held on Thursday, May 11 at Rock Springs Baptist Church. Burial was at the Russell Smith Family Cemetery on Soco. Pastors Greg Morgan, Ed Kilgore, and Bo Parris officiated.

Pall bearers were Malaciah Taylor, Colby Yanez, Omar Yanez, Sam Wolfe, Rick McCoy, Terry Smith, Chebon Postoak, and Dylan Saunooke.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to either of the following organizations in memory of Lucy. Indian Baptist Missions Fellowship PO Box 72 Canadian, OK 74425 or New Kituwah Academy in Cherokee NC for language revitalization.

Long House Funeral Home assisted the McLaughlin family.

Thomas Jay McCoy

Thomas Jay McCoy, 64, affectionately known as "Jay Boy", went to meet his creator, Friday morning, May 12, 2017.

Jay Boy was born on May 27, 1953 to William Thomas McCoy and Emily Conseen McCoy. A native of Swain County, he was born and raised on the Cherokee Indian Reservation, where he proudly resided his entire life.

In addition to his parents, he is preceded in death by his brother, William McCoy; his sister, Tommie Ruth McCoy; his three nephews, Shane Wilson McCoy, "Lil"...Tom McCoy, and Terry Allen McCoy; and his niece, Peaches Casso. He leaves behind one son, Jayson Dale and husband Richard Crusenberry of Johnson City, Tenn.; and a step-daughter, Claudette Long of Cherokee. He is also survived by three close nephews whom he loved and cared for like sons, Roger McCoy, Roy Bradley, and Mike Oocumma, all of Cherokee.

In addition, he is survived by several loving sisters and brothers:
Bertha Bradock, Richard McCoy,
Maxine and Bud Burgess, Peggy and Moses Oocumma, Albert McCoy, Frances McCoy, Agnes and Herbert Bradley, Mildred McCoy,
Larry Paul and Jackie McCoy, Mary
McCoy, Carla Faye McCoy, Ray McCoy, and special sister Rosie.
Jay Boy was always a proud McCoy, he loved every member of his family in their own unique way, and being "Uncle Jay" gave him some of the greatest joys of his life. He leaves behind many nieces, nephews, cousins, and numerous close friends.

He was not only a proud son, brother, uncle, and father, but also friend to many. Formerly a carpenter and wood carver, also known for his green thumb, good company, and grand stories, Jay Boy brought a smile to those of us who enjoyed his great sense of humor. He lived his life, loved his life, and left memories with us all that will forever make us smile in our remembrance of him. Funeral services were held on Monday, May 15 at Bethabara Baptist Church. Pastor Logan Parton officiated. Burial was in the Birdtown Cemetery.

Huskey named Harrah's Cherokee Regional Direct Marketing Manager

arrah's Cherokee Casinos announced on Friday, May 12 the recent promotion of Gavin Huskey, an EBCI tribal member, to Regional Direct Marketing Manager. In his new role, Huskey will oversee the development and implementation of marketing campaigns tailored specifically for Total Rewards customers for both Harrah's Cherokee Casino Resort and Harrah's Cherokee Valley River Casino & Hotel.

Huskey joined the Harrah's Cherokee team in 2012 as a Cherokee Development Program Associate before advancing to positions within Finance, Operations, and Marketing. He has a bachelor's of science degree in business administration from Western Carolina University and a bachelor's of arts degree in psychology from Yale University.

The Cherokee Development Program is designed to develop and train enrolled members of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians for leadership positions at Harrah's Cherokee Casinos.

"Gavin is bright and capable with the capacity to achieve any goal he sets for himself," said Paula Wojtkowski, Regional Vice President of Talent Acquisition & Development. "He has held roles in several operating departments which has expanded his understanding of our business and the industry,"

"The Cherokee Development Program is responsible for many of the current leaders in our organization," said Regional Senior Vice President and General Manager Brooks Robinson. "Providing development opportunities for members of the Eastern Band continues to be a priority of our leadership team and I am proud of the success we have had with the program."

THANK YOU LETTERS

Thank you Tsali Care Center

Tsali Care Center, this letter is to express our profound appreciation to all involved in the care of dear loved one. We feel that the care he received was second to none from the time he entered the Center until his death on April 15. The care he required was both extensive and time-consuming; however dayby-day, the staff embraced their responsibilities without question with many taking on double shifts and extra days in order to meet the needs of the Center's residents.

Our family took care of our loved one for almost three years so we know how difficult it can be both physically and mentally in order to meet the needs of just one individual. The entire staff at Tsali Care Center do a tremendous job at this and kudos to all! During his last days and hours with us on this Earth, the nursing staff went above and beyond the norm to help us face one of the most difficult times in our lives. Your love, care, and dedicated attention will never be forgotten nor ignored. Thanks again for all you do in helping those who can't always help themselves. Sincerely yours,

The family if Jerome Brady

Thank you Tsali Care Center

Hi, my name is Joy Smith, and I reside in the Big Y Community with my husband John Wilbur Smith Sr. On March 13, John had an accident and broke his knee. He stayed in the Cherokee Hospital for a few days and the Harris Regional for few days. His last stop was at the Tsail Care Center to recover and begin physical therapy. I would like to thank Tsali Care Center for all their hard work, and kindness they showed my family. I have never been in a place where the nurses, aids, housekeeping, kitchen, and janitors were so nice. From the time we came, to the time we left I never heard a curse work, and everyone we seen were so kind, and courteous.

I have heard negative things said about the Tsali Care Center. however, my experience was the total opposite. We could not have asked for better care, and hospitality. I was also brought coffee and refreshments, and became good friends with many people, Martha Blevins included. John has been home since Easter, and he is still using a cane. Every day he gets stronger and stronger. He is slowly getting back to himself and we are excited to be back in church, at the Bethabara. Our lives are betting back to normal and words cannot express how much we are grateful for all the loving people down at the Tsali Care Center. Martha Blevins. Becca Brendle, Paula M. Allison, Angela Watty, Ally Dills, Tiffinay Allure, Madison Lail, Heather Osbourne, Shari Taylor, Marion Smith, Bryan King, Kylie Kinsley, Amanda Gibbs, Kristie B. Walkins, Kelly Walkingstick, Clinton Barlow, Molly Hyatt, Patty Green. I apologize if I missed anyone who cared for John, and just know that we love you all, and may God bless each of you!

Thank you,

Tribal member shares thoughts on Lumbees with Senator

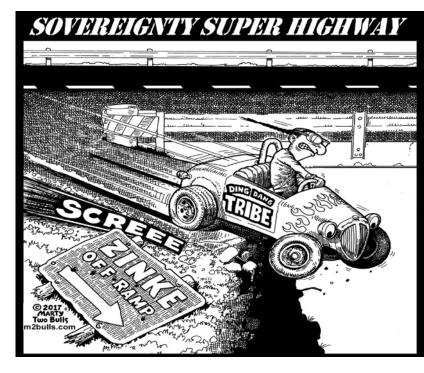

The following letter was sent to Senator Burr expressing my concern with his support of the Lumbee Recognition Act. This is my opinion but one that I believe will truly affect Native America as a whole. Please understand amongst our own internal struggles and conflicts, that there are issues going on in our state that can also affect our tribe just as gravely. Please do not be silent to these problems as these are issues that should not be taken lightly.

Dear Senator Richard Burr, I am member of the federally recognized tribe in North Carolina, the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians. As a member of the EBCI, I have the opportunity of being raised in the culture and traditions of my ancestors. I take great pride in knowing who I am as a Cherokee individual. The Cherokee have deep roots in this area's history. Tragically we were subjugated to generations of colonization, assimilation, acculturation and Americanization. As the Cherokee have done for those generations, we have persevered and continue to survive in our homeland. We might have a fraction of land and power but we are an important part of not only North Carolina history but America's history. History is what I am writing you about today.

As aforementioned, the Cherokee have been a fixture in this area and many places still bare former Cherokee town names or words. The Cherokee of course were not alone in this area as diverse tribes stretched from our mountains to the coast. Unfortunately because of vulnerability to new diseases and destruction and removal of homelands; it devastated many tribes. Many tribes went extinct. Those that remained had to endure racial and social injustices. The Cherokee ultimately survived and are striving today. There were 1200 Cherokee that either owned private reservations or hid in the mountains to avoid the notorious Trail of Tears. These individuals laid the foundation and are ancestors for many of the 16,000 members that make up the EBCI today.

This history is what instills the pride I have being Cherokee vet some believe the benefits and opportunities we have and receive are privileged or unwarranted. Some also see these services as a means to bolster their own beliefs and try to get a "piece of the pie." On Jan. 7, 2015, you introduced the Lumbee Recognition Act. Then, on May 4, 2016, the bill was introduced to both houses. The bill is another attempt to recognize the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina. The Bill asks that they receive the full benefits bestowed upon 567 other federally recognized tribes in America. The Bill however is an attempt to circumvent the recognition process through the Bureau of Indian Affairs. The BIA has set requirements for tribes to meet when in consideration for recognition.

The Lumbee have tried several times in the past to garner federal recognition but such attempts have failed to garner actions. In fact they garnered their initial recognition status only by claiming they were the Cherokee of Roberson County. A claim later dismissed and the Lumbee have continued to attach themselves to many extinct and former tribes of the Carolinas. They have adapted and copied customs from recognized tribes in the Southeast and past them off as Lumbee. Culture and traditions are not "one size fits all" notions. Some of these traditions are unique to certain people and for the Lumbee to past them off as original is disgraceful to those who have sacrificed centuries of hardship to preserve.

I urge you Senator, to look into their actual history. This bill is a way for them to be recognized by outsiders and not by the actual people who are educated in the process and help out the generations of Natives recovering from generations of trauma. Their history was gone until they found it beneficial and relevant for them. I thank you for taking time to listen to my concerns and I will give you an open invitation to come to the motherland of the Cherokee. Come and enjoy the scenery of our ancestors and the home we still call home.

Sincerely, Jakeli SwimmerRobbinsville

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Concentrate your focus on what needs to be done, and avoid frittering away your energies on less-important pursuits. There'll be time later for fun and games.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Although the conflicts seem to be letting up, you still need to be wary of being drawn into workplace intrigues. Plan a special weekend event for family and/or friends.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your quick wit helps you work through an already difficult situation without creating more problems. Creative aspects begin to dominate by the week's end.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Be patient. You'll soon receive news about a project that means so much to you. Meanwhile, you might want to reconsider a suggestion you previously turned down.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) There are still some aspects about that new job offer you need to resolve. In the meantime, another possibility seems promising. Be sure to check that out as well.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Opening up your emotional floodgates could leave you vulnerable to being hurt later on. Watch what you say, in order to avoid having your words come back to haunt you.

BORN THIS WEEK: You're usually the life of the party, which gets you on everyone's invitation list. You also have a flair for politics.

© 2017 King Features Synd., Inc.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You might have to turn your Arian charm up a few degrees if you hope to persuade that persistent pessimist to see the possibilities in your project. Whatever you do, don't give up.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A "tip" about a co-worker's "betrayal" might well raise the Bovine's rage levels. But before charging into a confrontation, let an unbiased colleague do some fact checking.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Although a relationship still seems to be moving too slowly to suit your expectations, it's best not to push it. Let it develop at its own pace. You'll soon get news about a workplace change.

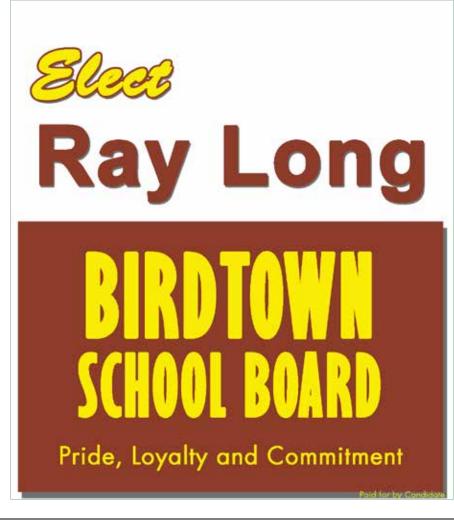

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A continually changing personal situation makes you feel as if you're riding an emotional roller coaster. But hold on tight; stability starts to set in early next week.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Believe it or not, someone might dare to say "No!" to the Regal One's suggestion. But instead of being miffed, use this rebuff to recheck the proposition and, perhaps, make some changes.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You might find it difficult to make a decision about a family matter. But delay can only lead to more problems. Seek out trusted counsel and then make that important decision.
