Groundbreaking held for new MRI room at Hospital

By SCOTT MCKIE B.P.
ONE FEATHER STAFF

Thanks to a huge donation from Caesar's Entertainment, Inc., a new MRI room will be open at Cherokee Indian Hospital early in 2013. A groundbreaking was held at the site on Wednesday, Oct. 24 as well as a $2 million check presentation that will fund the machine in its entirety and the operation for five years.

"Rarely does a rural, small hospital have such a project and we owe it to the leadership of our Tribal Council and our Chief and also the executives at Harrah's casino for negotiating and providing us with this wonderful gift," said Carmaleta Monteith, Cherokee Indian Hospital Authority board. "We will be able to provide very valuable services and shorten the period of time for consultation and analyses."

Casey Cooper, Cherokee Indian Hospital CEO, related that he hopes to have a ribbon cutting sometime in February to officially open the new facility.

"In my opinion, as the CEO, this type of technology in a small, rural hospital of our size is really uncommon," said Cooper. "And, it clearly would not be possible without the partnership that we have with the Eastern Band and without the hard work of the casino staff and the casino employees. We are extremely grateful to be a beneficiary of their hard work."

He said the benefits of having a MRI machine on site are tremendous. "It's going to help us shorten that time when patients are stressed and they have anxiety because they haven't received a diagnosis."

Cooper said it will cut out the days or even weeks it sometimes takes now for patients to be sent elsewhere for a MRI. "It's going to help us with the diagnosis of malignant neoplasms or cancers. It's going to help us with muscle and skeletal injuries and joint disorders. It's going to help in a tremendous amount of ways."

Principal Chief Michell Hicks commented, "This Tribe is blessed and technology has brought us a long way."

"The whole vision was to bring something that would be a benefit for our people."

Chief Hicks told the crowd that earlier in the day he signed legislation that will provide for a new hospital to be built on a site adjacent to the current facility. "We will provide better services than we ever have in the past and this new technology will help us do that. We will continue to grow and we have to grow smart. I want to thank the casino for all of the resources. We couldn't do it without you."

He said the MRI and the new hospital is an investment. "It's investing in the future and it's investing in our people. And, that's what we do."

Brooks Robinson, Harrah's Cherokee senior vice president and general manager, commented, "This is a great opportunity for me to really thank the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians for the partnership that we've had the last 15 years."

He said that Caesar's has a commitment to giving back and being a part of the communities they are involved in. "To date, we've had over $4 million in donations to the surrounding communities. We've added jobs. About 60 percent of our upper management at the property are tribally-enrolled members. That's something that we're very proud of."

Robinson continued, "We're proud to be a part of this."

According to WebMD, MRI is defined as, "Magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) is a test that uses a magnetic field and pulses of radio wave energy to make pictures of organs and structures inside the body. In many cases, MRI gives different information about structures in the body than can be seen with an x-ray, ultrasound, or computed tomography (CT) scan."

2nd Annual Cherokee Heritage Festival held in Hayesville

Kevin George and James Wolfe demonstrated flint knapping at the Cherokee Heritage Festival.

Clay County resident Darry Wood entertained visitors with his blow gun skills at the 2nd Annual Cherokee Heritage Festival at the Cherokee Homestead Exhibit in Clay County on Saturday, Oct. 20.

HAYESVILLE - Clay County Communities Revitalizations Association's (CCCRA) second annual Cherokee Heritage Festival was enjoyed by approximately 450 visitors on Saturday, October 20. The Cherokee Homestead Exhibit was alive with Eastern Band of Cherokee Indian (EBCI) demonstrations of Cherokee crafts, dancing, and stick-ball.

Smoke from a small fire filled the air as Joel Queen fired recently built pots. The aroma of Cherokee fry-bread tempted the appetites of many attending the festival.

EBCI artisans Ramona Lossie and Emma Garrett wove rivercane baskets, Karen George and Lori Reed demonstrated fingerweaving, Joel Queen displayed flint knapping, Jack Wachacha brought handmade blow-guns, James Wolf displayed his recently made stone carvings, and Kevin George demonstrated flint knapping when he wasn't singing for the dancers.

Presenters included T.J. Holland who spoke about Hiwassee Valley River town settlements. Lamar Marshall answered questions about Cherokee trading trails and Don Wells talked about trail trees, described in his recently published book, Mystery of the Trees. Clay County resident Darry Wood captivated visitors with demonstrations of flint knapping, fire building, dart making and blow gun.

Funding for the festival was provided by the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area (BRNHA) and the Mary Duke Biddle Foundation. The Junaluska Museum and the Little Tennessee Land Trust (LTLT) sponsored T.J. Holland and Lamar Marshall is associated with Wild South. Clay County Historical & Arts Council's volunteers were on hand to welcome the numerous visitors to the museum, many for the first time. Don Wells donated a percentage of his book sales to CCCRA. Blankenship Seed Company provided hay bales and C&H Services provided port-o-lets for the event.

The recently completed multi-use summer structure, funded by the Creating New Economies Fund (CNEF), and landscaping at the Cherokee Homestead Exhibit made it the ideal site for an event which celebrated the heritage of the Cherokee.

Angie Chandler, of the BRNHA, attended the festival and expressed delight in the success of the event and the appearance of the Cherokee Homestead Exhibit. She commented on the likelihood of the exhibit becoming an attractor for visitors to our area, particularly those interested in history and the Cherokee culture.

The Cherokee Homestead Exhibit is a reconstructed 17th – 18th century homestead featuring a winter house, summer house, food storage crib, multi-use structure, Cherokee garden, and information kiosks. Public art includes hand-forged steel representations of Cherokee clan masks and iconic symbols of Cherokee culture and mythology, and wall-mounted panels depicting Cherokee artifacts, art and symbols. This free self-guided exhibit is open year-round. Additional information may be obtained by calling (828) 389-3045 or by visiting www.cccra.net.

Lady Braves lose
3-0 in playoffs

The Lady Braves ended their season with a 3-0 loss to Allegheny in the first round of the state 1A volleyball playoffs on Saturday, Oct. 20.

"We were excited to make post-season play," said coach Kim Arkansas. "However, this match was plagued with hitting, serving and setting errors – the types of errors you would not expect from a team at the end of their season in the playoffs."

"Senior Deija Burgess and junior Avery Mintz played well overall. Senior Ashley Bottchenbaugh had some nice digs filling in at the Libero position."

Arkansas is optimistic about next year's campaign. "The Lady Braves lose only two seniors from the starting line-up and look to be a force in the Smoky Mountain Conference next year."

WCU campus master planning committee to hold community forum Nov. 5

CULLOWHEE – A steering committee overseeing the creation of a comprehensive master plan to guide development and improvements at Western Carolina University's Cullowhee campus will hold its first public forum from 5:30 until 7 p.m. Monday, Nov. 5.

The forum, open to any interested member of the community, will be held at Cullowhee Valley School.

A direct outgrowth of the university's recently approved strategic plan, titled "2020 Vision: Focusing Our Future," the campus master planning process will address issues related to new building needs, utilization of existing space, parking and transportation, technology infrastructure, sustainability, safety and security, preservation of campus heritage and integration of the campus with the surrounding community.

As the committee begins its work, one of its first tasks will be to solicit feedback and input from the community, said Melissa Canady Wargo, assistant vice chancellor for planning and effectiveness.

"The university recognizes that its Cullowhee campus is a major focal point, with tremendous impact on Jackson County and Western North Carolina, and is committed to community involvement in the master planning process," said Wargo, who is co-chairing the steering committee with Sam Miller, vice chancellor for student affairs.

The committee also will hold a campus forum from 3:30 until 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7, in the theater of A.K. Hinds University Center.

Members of the committee are Craig Fowler, chief information officer; Robert Edwards, vice chancellor for administration and finance; Darrell Parker, dean, College of Business; Joe Walker, associate vice chancellor for facilities management; Gerald Green, director, Jackson County Planning Department; Mark Lord, interim associate provost; Kim Ruebel, associate dean, College of Education and Allied Professions; Maurice Phipps, professor, parks and recreation management; Peg Connolly, associate professor, recreational therapy; Larry Hammer, university registrar; Roger Hartley, associate professor, political science and public affairs; Shawna Young, director, student affairs outreach and assessment; Alecia Page, president, Student Government Association; and Benjamin Ward, Graduate Student Association.

Additional meetings of the master planning steering committee will be scheduled. For more information about the master planning effort, contact the Office of Institutional Planning and Effectiveness (828) 227-7239 or email wargo@wcu.edu.

Obama has worked for Native Americans

Native Americans have had few friends in the White House, but in recent history Native Americans have had no better advocate then President Obama.

"One Who Helps People Throughout the Land", his adopted Crow name, is symbolic of how seriously he is committed to taking action on Indian issues. He included $3 Billion in stimulus money directly targeted for Indian Country. It included money for job creation, renovation of schools, improved health services, police, and improved housing.

The Affordable Care Act signed into law in March of 2010, permanently authorized the Indian Health Care Improvement Act. This comprehensive health care service will directly help 1.9 million Native peoples to receive better health care.

The Obama administration has provided $300 million dollars for Tribal controlled Colleges and Universities, and has promoted Native Language restoration. An Annual White House Tribal Nations Conference has been held every year since President Obama took office, and he has appointed a Native American as Senior Policy Advisor for Native American Affairs.

In the fight to renew the Violence Against Women Act, the President insisted that tribal authorities be given the right to arrest any person who commits domestic violence on a reservation, even a non native. Some Native Americans have done very well recently, but not all. Many Native people still live in third world conditions. What this President has done for them is life changing. President Obama deserves your support. Your vote can make a difference for all Native Americans.

Separation of church and state

The issue of religious differences as the cause of the world's troubles has plagued this country since our beginning.

In 1792, U.S. President George Washington wrote the following: "Of all the animosities which have existed among mankind those which are caused by a difference of sentiments in religion appear to be the most inveterate and distressing and ought to be deprecated."

The country should continue to consider his words when certain groups or sects are trying to push their religious beliefs on this country.

Thank you

There are not enough words to express how thankful we are for all the love we have been shown during the illness and passing of our beloved husband, daddy, and Papaw Charlie. There are some people we want to say a special thank you to. The doctors and nurses at Cherokee Hospital, in both the ER and Inpatient, for all the love and compassion you all showed every time we were there. For everyone who brought food to the house and the church. All the singers who came, Antioch for singing at the service, the pall bearers, Donald, Bo and Roland. Thank you all from the bottom of our hearts. And to all of our friends and family, thank you all for the kind words, love and especially the prayers you sent up. We love you all.

May God bless you all,
The Family of Charlie Smith

Thank you

The family of Beth Owle would like to express our appreciation for the prayers, visits, phone calls and words of comfort given when she was sick. To our families and friends, thank you for being there; your support meant so much. A special thank you to Pastor Greg Morgan and to the churches that kept her in prayer.

What is Encephalitis? Encephalitis is inflammation (swelling and irritation) of the brain, usually caused by infection. In some cases encephalitis can let to severe trauma and life threatening conditions.

What are the Symptoms? When Encephalitis happens after a common illness like chickenpox, the signs and symptoms of that illness come before and inflammation in the brain. Symptoms such as high fever, severe headaches, sensitivity to light (called photophobia: light hurts your eyes) Nausea, vomiting, stiff neck, confusion, drowsiness, irritability or poor temper control.

Where does Encephalitis come from? Encephalitis comes from infected mosquitoes which are called Tree-Hole mosquitoes. Tree Hole mosquitoes lay there larva eggs in any object that holds water such as buckets, gutters, ponds, old tires, trash and any object that may hold standing water. Once the eggs are laid, it takes only 5 whole days for the larva to hatch. It is very important to empty any object that holds standing water especially after a good rain.

How do I protect myself? Protecting yourself from Tree Hole Mosquitoes is very important. One good way is to apply bug-repellant that contains "DEET" to any open bare-skin each time a person is outside. Apply bug-repellant as followed by directions. Another way to protect yourself by wearing long sleeves and pants during outdoor activities.

If you any questions about Encephalitis please contact Healthy Cherokee/ Injury Prevention 497-7460.
