Location selected for new hospital

By SCOTT MCKIE B.P. ONE FEATHER STAFF

our years ago, it was decided by the Health Board that it would be more feasible to build a completely new Cherokee Indian Hospital than try to remodel the current

one. Now, a site has been selected for the new facility.

Tribal Council approved a site known as the Long Blanket Tract which is adjacent to the current facility. This is the same tract that was originally slated for the Wal-Mart which didn't come to fruition.

Council approved a resolution unanimously last month that will "allow the CIHA (Cherokee Indian Hospital Authority) to survey 10.5 acres of the existing property, identified as Part of Parcel No. 60-A in the Upper Cherokee Community, and subsequently approve the transfer of that new parcel of land to the CIHA for the purposes of constructing a new hospital facility."

Casey Cooper, Cherokee Indian Hospital CEO, related that an exact price tag for the new facility has not been established yet, but he estimates it will cost between $50 -65 million. He said that recent forecasts show the hospital will need 140,000 square feet in order to handle the patient load in the next 12-15 years. The current hospital is around 85,000 square feet.

"It's a significant increase," said Cooper who noted that in using comparables he feels the construction cost of the 140,000 square foot facility will be around $300-325 per square foot.

He said it is too early in the process to be more exact with a price as the final cost will be dependent on other factors including equipment costs and furnishings.

"The actual construction phase

"I think having a new facility that belongs to the people, is built by the people for the people is going to do tremendous things in the healing process."

- Casey Cooper, Cherokee Indian Hospital CEO

of this could be 24 months or less, but we believe we are a year or close to two years to really getting to breaking ground and starting the construction part of it. There's a lot of work to do between now and then."

Some of that work will involve: programming for the new facility, schematic design, final design, and development of construction documents.

"One of the things that is going to be absolutely vital is to have community input sessions," said Cooper. "We really want to make sure that we're resonating with the community and what the community really wants out of this facility. It's the community's facility."

"We want to get a lot of input from the community to ensure that what we finish with is a facility that actually promotes healing. We don't want sick patients to come to a facility that's more stressful."

Cooper said that between now and February 2013, they are hoping to do more analysis on the site including geological surveys and engineering assessments. He is also hopeful that within that time frame, they can get more exact cost estimates and develop a financing strategy for the project.

"Once we have all of that in place, we are full steam ahead."

Cooper said that the facility is not the only positive change occurring at Cherokee Indian Hospital.

"We're advancing a strategy that organizes our workflow and our primary care teams. We're organizing that now in the hopes of having our organizational processes and our organizational culture where we want it to be so that the new facility matches that."

These changes will bring "incremental" additions in staff over the next few years to fully meet the needs of the new processes and facility. "The new facility is not a precursor to us adding new staff," said Cooper. "We're doing that now. The thing that the new facility will do is give us the flexibility to bring back some of the general specialties that the community wants."

Cooper added, "The most fundamental purpose that we have is to improve the health of the population. We could be successful in the implementation of technology and not improve the community's health. We could be really, really good with case management services of the terminally ill and not improve the public's health. We could be profitable and still be unsuccessful with population health."

"The changes that we're making to primary care, I am convinced are going to help us to finally improve the population's health."

Cooper said he thinks the new processes will help with the management of those patients with chronic diseases currently and help them live longer and healthier lives.

He said a new facility will be another step for the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians in self-determination as well. "I think having a new facility that belongs to the people, is built by the people for the people is going to do tremendous things in the healing process."

Carmaleta Monteith, Cherokee Indian Hospital Authority governing board, commented, 'There is much excitement centered around the building of a new hospital that will enable the community to receive the quality of service they deserve. The crowded space in the current hospital greatly affects the quality of serve ice to our customers as well as their safety. The overcrowdedness we now experience creates a stressful environment for the people we serve as well as the employees who serve them."

She continued, "With a new, well designed facility, waiting areas will allow for the separation of well customers from ill customers and children from the adult population. In addition, the new facility will allow for easier access to services, privacy, and expanded services. The limited and inconvenient parking will be improved to provide for easier access to the departments and services sought by the customers. With more space to provide services, privacy is dramatically enhanced. By providing expanded services with new and improved technology, we will be able to provide many services so that customers will not have to travel out of Cherokee. One of the greatest improvements we will provide is for our local people to be proud of a facility that they will help design and make recommendations for the new services to be delivered."

DAR donates to New Kituwah

By SCOTT MCKIE B.P. ONE FEATHER STAFF

hristmas came early for students at the New Kituwah Academy. Members of the Spencer Clack Chapter of DAR (Daughters of the American Revolution) from Sevierville, Tenn. brought school supplies for the students.

The supplies were presented to New Kituwah students in the 3-4 year old and pre-K classrooms during at event at the Qualla Public Library on Thursday, Nov. 15. Prior to the presentation, the students performed the Cherokee Buffalo dance for the DAR members present.

"This is our pleasure," said Clellene Cole, Regent of the Spencer Clack Chapter. "These kids are our future. We're pleased to be here, and hope to be back to with more things."

Cole related that a chapter member named Linda Jones visited the Qualla Public Library earlier in the year. "She happened to be here when the children were here, and they were learning their language and singing in their language. She became very interested in trying to help this library and help this program with the needs that they had."

The DAR ladies collected and donated many items including: inflatable globes, crayons, baby wipes and diapers, paper, construction paper, glue, scissors and more.

"We don't receive a lot of recognition, but the kids get asked to perform a lot and come out and do different ceremonies and stuff, and it's rare that an organization demonstrates such gratitude the way that they have," said Renissa McLaughlin, New Kituwah program manager. "We're just really grateful because there are a lot of agencies, entities, universities and schools out there that really are supportive of what we do at Immersion so anytime that people give back to us it's a blessing."

The DAR Spencer Clack Chapter was formed on May 23, 1928 in honor of Lt. Spencer Clack, an American Revolution soldier from Virginia. Following the war, Clack relocated to Sevier County, Tenn. and was involved in the area's growth including serving on the first constitutional convention of Tennessee.

The DAR supports the Indian Youth of America Summer Camp Program and also sponsors the DAR American Indian Scholarship Fund. For more information on the DAR, visit www.dar.org.

Miss Cherokee 2012 off to a busy start

By KARYL FRANKIEWICZ

MISS CHEROKEE 2012

hi-yo! Ni-ga-da, On Sept. 29, I was crowned the 2012 Miss Cherokee. I then signed my contract with the royalty board the next day. On Oct. 1, I made my first appearance at the induction of the new board members for the Cherokee Boys Club.

The very next day, the Tribe celebrated our 100th year for our Fall Festival. We started off with the parade and during the opening I danced with the Anikituwah warriors. On Children's day, we had a breakfast and prayer meeting with all three of the Cherokee tribes. I also watched the Teen Miss Cherokee pageant that evening.

The next day, Elders day, I started off by introducing myself to the elders, and I also helped out on presenting the colors with the Steve Youngdeer American Legion Post 143 and sang the Star-Spangled Banner. Later on, I watched the Junior Miss Cherokee pageant, and then shortly after, I had a meet and greet with Sawyer Brown.

On the Fair's Veteran's day, I started off at the Expo center to present gifts to the veterans at the Vietnam Veterans Traveling Memorial Wall Ceremonies. That evening, we finished off the day with the Little Miss Cherokee pageant.

On the final day, Community day, I watched the last stickball game and later had another meet and greet with Lonestar and watched the Chief Joyce Dugan Cultural Arts Center to listen to Chaske Spencer speak about his life and how he had grown up dealing with drugs and alcohol after which we had the privilege to have dinner with him at Brio Tuscan restaurant at Harrah's Cherokee Casino Resort.

I would like to thank the judges during the pageant that have believed in me to be the representative of our Tribe. Also, I would like to thank Kelly Driver for making this year's pageant a wonderful experience for the both of us. I'd like to thank Jonnie and Nancy for making my traditional attire for the pageant and working with me for the rest of the year. A special thank you to my family for believing in me for another time during the pageant. To Deb West and Lula Jackson on preparing both Kelly and me for the pageant. For the royalty board, for all you have done so far, as I carry my title, for this is only the beginning. For the parade: thanks to my walkers Raven Frankiewicz, Redbird Sequovah, Kenzie Garcia, Micala, Elijah, and Cain Arch. Terry Bradley for driving the car and for more parades to come. Thank you Tommy Lambert for letting me participate in the induction of the New Board members for the Boys Club. Thank you Steve Youngdeer Post 143 for letting me sing during the presenting of the colors. Also, Warren Dupree for inviting me to participate in the ceremonies and present the gifts to very special people that have fought for our country at the Memorial Wall. I'd also like to make a special recognition to miss Bradley Welch, miss Aliyah Bigmeat, and miss Marcela Garcia. I'm looking forward to working with you young ladies for the rest of the year. If there is anyone that I have forgotten I apologize. It is a great honor to receive this title; I will work to the best of my abilities to represent this tribe well.

Sgi, Thank you.

Family dinners are meaningful

By SARAH MCCLELLAN-WELCH EBCI AGRICULTURE EXTENSION AGENT

olumbia University has been studying family dinners and how this family time impacts teenagers. They asked teens what they considered the best part of a family dinner--other than the food. Most of them said that talking, sharing, catching up and interacting with family members is the best part of a family dinner.

This study found reveals teens that ate dinner with their families. five to seven times per week, are more likely to report having an excellent relationship with their parents. The study reveals that teens who say they have excellent relationships with their parents are less likely to use drugs, drink or smoke.

"If I could wave a magic wand, I would make sure that every child in America had dinner with his or her parents at least five times a week. Dinner serves as an ideal time to strengthen the quality of family relationships and helps kids grow up healthy and drug free," says Dr. Joseph Califano, former US Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

He is the founder and chairman of the National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University that recently published, The Importance of Family Dinners VIII, summarizing the results of seventeen years of research.

Nearly half of teens in this study reported feeling a high level of stress in their lives. The study found that these teens are three times likelier to have used marijuana and twice as likely to have used alcohol or smoke tobacco than those who did not report stress. However, teens who have dinner with their parents, at least five times per week, are less likely to report high levels of stress in their lives and less likely to engage in these unhealthy behaviors.

This research fuels the power of local foods. Harvesting wild and home-grown foods connects the dinner table directly with nature, agriculture and cultural traditions. A Cherokee family who dines on foods like deer, turkey, trout, sochan, wishi, ramps, pork, chicken, October beans, hominy, chestnut bread, apple cake and candy roaster fosters the deeper meanings of the family din-

Turtle Mountain author wins National Book Award

Louise Erdrich was named the National Book Award winner in the Fiction category on Wednesday, Nov. 14. She won the award for her novel, The Round House, which is about an attack on a woman on a reservation in North Dakota and the ensuing drama that unfolds.

Erdrich is an enrolled member of the Turtle Mountain Band of Chippewa Indians and is the owner of an independent bookstore called Birchbark Books. One of her previous novels, The Plague of Doves, won the Anisfield-Wolf Book Award and garnered a finalist spot for that year's Pulitzer Prize.

Erdrich graduated from Dartmouth College in 1976 with a bachelor's degree, and she earned a master's of arts degree in 1979 from Johns Hopkins University.

Other winners of this year's National Book Awards include: Young Peoples Literature – William Alexander, Goblin Secrets; Poetry – David Ferry, Bewilderment: New Poems and Translations; and Nonfiction – Katherine Boo, Behind the Beautiful Forevers: Life, Death, and Hope in a

Park visits in October drop slightly from 2011

The Great Smoky Mountains National Park recorded 1,112,474 visitors during October which is a 1.9 percent decrease over October 2011. The yearly visitation, however, is up 7.3 percent, or 581,244 more visitors, than what was recorded between January and October 2011.

"The slight decrease in visitation is most likely a result of a significant snow event associated with Superstorm Sandy which took place in the last few days of the month," Park officials related. "The upper elevations of the park received a record amount of snowfall, and shut down Highway 441 for several days due to ice and snow. The news reports of the projected weather conditions might have also detoured some visitors from traveling into the park just prior to the storm event."

Even with the storm and the slight decrease in numbers compared with 2011, October 2012 visitation showed a 4 percent increase over the 10 year average visitation for October.

FOOTBALL

Tribal members vital in Swain, Murphy wins

Swain and Murphy are now both one win away from playing for their second consecutive state football championships, and EBCI tribal members have been vital to their success.

Swain defeated Hendersonville 55-24 on Friday, Nov. 16 to advance to the Regional (4th) round of the NC 1AA playoffs this upcoming Friday. Murphy beat conference rival Rosman 56-13 to advance to the Regional round of the 1A playoffs.

Swain QB Raymius Smith is one of the top quarterbacks in all of western North Carolina this season. On Friday, he threw two touchdowns and ran for a third. One of his touchdowns was a 22yd pass to fellow tribal member Greg Tisho.

The Maroon Devils are set to host Monroe (11-2) on Friday.

Murphy's Gage Cox ran for two touchdowns in the game and gained 129 yards on the ground. The Bulldogs play undefeated Albemarle (13-0) on Friday.

WIPE

Before teeth come in, wipe baby's mouth with a moist cloth or special baby "gum" brush.

SMEAR

When teeth start to come in, around 4-8 months, start using a small "smear" of tooth-paste. This is easy if you wipe toothpaste across the brush. Use this amount until your child's second birthday.

BRUSH

After your child reaches age 3, use a "pea size dab" of toothpaste. Use fluoride toothpaste every morning and night. Check after your child brushes to make sure teeth are clean!

Tribe partnering with SCC to start Fire Fighter Academy

The EBCI Department of Public Safety, in partnership with Southwestern Community College (SCC) Jerry Sutton Public Safety Training Center (PSTC), is starting an unprecedented effort to train future fire fighters. In a joint effort to address the shortage of qualified fire fighter applicants, a new program will be offered at SCC-PSTC located in Franklin.

This program will consist of a condensed, intensive 18-week course that will produce qualified firefighter applicants possessing certifications as a Level 1 Firefighter, Basic EMT, Hazmat, Wildfire Firefighter and Commercial Driver's License prep with a focus on gaining Fire Truck/Tanker endorsements.

The Fire Fighter Academy is scheduled to begin the first week of March 2013. A preliminary screening and sign-up program will begin within the next two weeks, so contact the Tribal Education Office or Travis Scruggs, Fire/Rescue coordinator at SCC-PSTC (828) 306-7045 to sign up as there are maximum class size limitations. Assistance in test preparation will be available from SCC. Varying financial aid vehicles will be available to assist in financing the program for applicants.

PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT FROM THE PRINCIPAL CHIEF EASTERN BAND OF CHEROKEE INDIANS

The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians is moving forward to administer more federally funded social welfare programs to enrolled members. In October of this year the federal administrations for Child Support Enforcement and Temporary Assistance For Needy Families (TANF) authorized the EBCI to administer both of these federally funded programs.

The Tribal Child Support Enforcement program, formerly administered through a tribal consortium, is currently in full operation and re-located its offices to the old Transit building at 117 John Crowe Hill Rd. The TANF program will be administered from this same location beginning January 2013. The public can expect an official notice of TANF operations in the One Feather, Tribal Council and Channel 28. Until that time, any TANF assistance sought by tribal members may still be applied for through the county Departments of Social Services. The EBCI and the Counties are in close collaboration as the Tribe moves forward with the administration of these and other social welfare programs.

The Tribe is committed to the tribal administration of other federally funded social welfare programs, including child protective and foster care services, and is currently in the planning process. Until the Tribe announces the official federal authorization for the administration of the child protection and foster care programs, it is important for the safety of children that members of the Tribe and members of our tribal community continue to report to the county Department of Social Services for all suspected cases of child abuse, neglect and dependency.

UNTIL FURTHER OFFICIAL NOTICE: ALL SUSPECTED ABUSE, NEGLECT AND DEPENDENCY REPORTS MUST BE MADE TO COUNTY DEPARTMENTS OF SOCIAL SERVICES. THE COUNTY DEPARTMENTS OF SOCIAL SERVICES WILL CONTINUE TO HAVE AUTHORITY TO ADMINISTER CHILD PROTECTION AND FOSTER CARE SERVICES FOR TRIBAL CHILDREN UNTIL OFFICAL NOTICE HAS BEEN ISSUED BY THIS TRIBE.

Expect a public work session on the progress of the development of a tribal child protection and foster care program by January 2013. Announcements of this work session will be posted in the One Feather and on Channel 28.
