"True Founders of Gaming" retire from TGC Commission

By SHERRI BOOTH

A special farewell was held for out-going Tribal Casino Gaming (TGC) Commissioners JL Burgess and Tom Haigler on Friday, Nov. 12. They served as TGC commissioners for almost 20 years, which is even prior to the gaming compact with the State of North Carolina.

Patrick Lambert, TGC executive director, called Burgess and Haigler the "True Founders of Gaming" and added, "JL was originally appointed to the Gaming Commission in 1991 and served as Chairman until recently. He has nearly 20 years of continuous service and experience and has served our Tribe and the Gaming operations with Honor and Distinction.

He will be sorely missed!"

Lambert continued, "Tom was originally appointed to the Commission in 1993 and has been a vital member of the Commission since its inception. Tom always maintained a calm demeanor and had the ability to keep a steady hand in the face of fast and furious change in our gaming operations. He added a great amount of stability and taught us all a bit of cuthness! We will miss him."

Many colleagues in the gaming industries showed up to see Burgess and Haigler presented with a Pendleton blanket and a clock plaque in appreciation for their many years of service to the Gaming Commission and to the Tribe.

Tom Haigler (left) and JL Burgess were honored recently as they retired from the Tribal Casino Gaming (TGC) Commission after almost 20 years of service.

Food Pantry gets much-needed Donations

By SCOTT MCKIE B.P.
ONE FEATHER STAFF

The Food Pantry in Cherokee was getting low on food so the Tribal Benefits Program decided to help out by soliciting donations from vendors and Tribal employees participating in last week's Open Benefits Enrollment program.

"We knew it was low," said Jane Blankenship with the Benefits Program. "So, we decided to have the food drive in conjunction with the Open Enrollment program."

Over twenty boxes and bags of food were given to the Food Pantry on Wednesday, Nov. 17 as a result of the food drive.

"We get minimum funds to keep it going," Barbara Jones, an employee at the Food Pantry, said of their program. "Most of it really comes from donations."

Ashley Hood works with Willis, a company providing outside benefits consulting, and was on hand during the Open Enrollment Program. "Our company likes to do something for Christmas each year," she said of Willis' donation to the Food Pantry. "We decided to make it part of our Christmas project as well."

Five Arrested for Armed Robberies in Cherokee

By SCOTT MCKIE B.P.
ONE FEATHER STAFF

Five people have been arrested in connection to a string of armed robberies in Cherokee over the last five months. The robberies occurred between June 30 and Nov. 15 at three local businesses including the Holiday Inn Express, the Original Moccasin Shop, and the Quality Inn which was robbed four separate times.

Those arrested, all of Cherokee, include: John West, 43; Stephen McCoy, 23; Jarrett Sneed, 21; Shaylene Welch, 29; and George Hernandez, 19. According to Cherokee Chief of Police Ben Reed, each faces various tribal charges and federal charges are pending. The exact charge for each defendant was not available by press time.

"Our officers, detectives, and the FBI did an outstanding job in utilizing the available information to put this case together," Reed said. "This is a very dangerous crime and I thank God no one was hurt during the robberies or the arrests."

Reed said this type of crime is "very unusual" for the reservation. "It alarmed us, community members and community businesses so we took appropriate action."

Note: It is important to remember that the following have only been charged and should be presumed innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

DOJ establishes Office of Tribal Justice

WASHINGTON – Attorney General Eric Holder announced on Wednesday, Nov. 17 the establishment of the Office of Tribal Justice as a separate component within the organizational structure of the Department of Justice. The action underscores the department's commitment to tribal issues, and is required by the Tribal Law and Order Act of 2010, which was signed into law by the president on July 29, 2010. The statute was adopted with the support of the department and the administration.

President Obama declared November 2010 National Native American Heritage Month.

"I am proud to say today we have formally established the Office of Tribal Justice (OTJ) as a component of the Justice Department," said Attorney General Holder. "In the coming years, OTJ will play an important role in continuing the critical dialogue between the department and tribal governments on matters including public safety. The establishment of OTJ as a permanent component in the department has been a priority for me and this administration, and it is a critical step in our work to improve coordination and collaboration with tribal communities."

The Office of Tribal Justice was originally established in 1995 as a unit within the Office of the Deputy Attorney General in response to tribal concerns. Since that time, the Office of Tribal Justice has served as the primary channel for tribes to communicate their concerns to the department, helped coordinate policy on Indian affairs both within the department and with other federal agencies, and sought to ensure that the department and its components work with tribes on a government-to-government basis.

"In the coming years, OTJ will play an important role in continuing the critical dialogue between the department and tribal governments on matters including public safety."

- U.S. Attorney General Eric Holder

The Office of Tribal Justice takes its place today as a standalone, permanent component within the department's organizational structure, with internal managerial authority and an established reporting structure through the associate and deputy attorneys general. Over the course of the last 15 years, the Office of Tribal Justice has gained wide acceptance and support throughout the government and among Indian tribes. It is recognized by many as the expert within the federal government on a wide variety of legal issues affecting Indian country.

In addition to fulfilling its historical mission, the Office of Tribal Justice continues to play a key role in the department's ongoing initiative to improve public safety in Indian country. In September, hundreds of American Indian and Alaska Native communities received almost $127 million to enhance law enforcement, bolster justice systems, prevent youth substance abuse, serve sexual assault and elder victims, and support other efforts to combat crime. These grants are the first under the Coordinated Tribal Assistance Solicitation, a new effort combining 10 different Department of Justice grant programs into a single solicitation.

In January 2010, the deputy attorney general directed all U.S. Attorneys' Offices with districts containing Indian Country (44 out of 93) to: meet and consult with tribes in their district annually; develop an operational plan addressing public safety in Indian country; work closely with tribal law enforcement on improving public safety in tribal communities, and to pay particular attention to violence against women in Indian country and make prosecuting these crimes a priority.

The Office of Tribal Justice continues to fulfill the department and administration's commitment to a consultation and coordination policy that ensures effective communication with Indian tribes. The director of the office is the official designated to ensure departmental compliance with Executive Order 13175, Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments. The office frequently engages in tribal consultations and related government-to-

Basketmakers discuss Environmental Threats to Their Trade

By BETH JOHNSON
RTCAR

American Indian, Native Hawaiian, and Gullah basketweavers converged in Cherokee on Nov. 12-14 to discuss environmental threats to basketry materials at a conference called Gathering Places: Traditional Basketmaking and the Environment. Issues ranged from the emerald ash borer which is devastating ash trees and forcing basketweavers to record traditions with film, save seeds, and look for alternative materials to attempts by the Tennessee Tree Improvement Program to grow basketry quality white oak in tubes.

Presentations by basketweavers from the Lowcountry of South Carolina and the Hawaiian Islands introduced participants to other issues and traditions.

The conversation frequently sidetracked off the environmental emphasis of the conference to the subject of maintaining cultural traditions and the important role basketry plays in shaping cultural identity. The basketry program at Cherokee High School was presented as a model of what high school age students can do when given the opportunity of having quality materials and an instructor in the classroom.

The conference was organized by RTCAR, Revitalization of Cherokee Artisan Resources, and funded by the Cherokee Preservation Foundation.

Cherokee Nation develops Virtual Library

The Cherokee Nation is in the beginning stages of developing a Virtual Library of Cherokee Knowledge, a web-based system designed to provide Cherokee citizens and the general public access to a comprehensive digital space filled with authentic Cherokee knowledge related to the tribe's history, language, traditions, culture and leaders.

The Cherokee Nation Education Services group recently received an Institute of Museum and Library Services grant that will help fund the project as well as optimize the opportunity for Cherokee students, citizens, researchers and scholars to access reference information on sources related to Cherokee history and events.

Corey Bunch, deputy group leader for Cherokee Nation Education Services, says this project will enable the tribe to secure professional consultation services from digital library specialists, historians and museum and library professionals.

"Anyone using this new development of preservation will be able to obtain the technology, software and equipment necessary for scanning, digitizing and cataloguing many of the tribe's most significant documents," said Bunch.

The virtual library will include many of the tribe's most noteworthy documents and materials from the 1830s till present day. Currently the tribe's archives contain thousands of important papers, writings, manuscripts, books, photographs and artifacts that document the epic history of the Cherokee people but access is limited by the location, form and fragility of the items.

This project will allow the tribe, through the consultation with professionals in the fields of digitization and historical documentation, to establish a leading database for all Cherokee cultural records to be placed in one centralized location for cultural preservation.

Once online, the database will offer a critically important educational program to encourage cultural literacy and further develop technological capabilities of the Cherokee Nation and its citizens.

"We look forward to the completion of this project and to providing other tribes in the nation the model and format so they, too, may collect, present and preserve their invaluable tribal records for generations to come, unlocking and interpreting the past for the education of their future generations," said Bunch.

The project is expected to be completed in the spring of 2011. For more information regarding the Virtual Library of Cherokee Knowledge please call 918-453-5254.

Appreciated Acquoni Events Center for Convention Site

To Whom It May Concern;

We were in Cherokee on November 10-14 for the 17th Annual Convention held this year at what I understand was the High School. This building was very pleasant to be in. It has served our needs well for our dinners and Pow wow, and the speakers in the auditorium were phenomenal. We enjoyed the history painted on the walls, the kitchen in which our meals were prepared down to the outside area for cooling off from the noonday sun.

We travel from far and wide to attend this convention. In my 16 years of attending, I do believe this is the best venue.

Thank you for allowing the committee to procure this for us.

Sincerely,
Randy and Sharon Church

SBA wants to help Native Businesses

Dear Editor:

Since a Presidential Declaration on August 3, 1990, November is annually recognized as the National American Indian Heritage Month honoring America's Tribal people. As a country, we appreciate their contributions in the areas as agriculture, government, trade, literature, economics and the arts to name a few.

This month provides a platform for native people not only to highlight their culture, traditions, crafts, and concepts of life but it provides an opportunity for native people to express to their concerns and solutions with local, state, and federal leadership that can lead to the building bridges of understanding and friendship.

In North Carolina, we celebrate our Native American Tribes who have a history of expressing their creativity and innovation through entrepreneurship. At SBA, our Office of Native Affairs is committed to help Native American entrepreneurs have full access to the necessary business development and expansion tools available through the Agency's entrepreneurial development, lending and procurement programs.

SBA wants to assist entrepreneurs no matter where they are in the journey whether it is financial, procurement or education. Value added educational courses and publications such as Small Business Strategies for Success can be accessed through the Small Business Training Network. To benefit from SBA's assistance, please visit, <http://www.sba.gov/training/index.html> or call 1-800-U ASK SBA for further information.

Sincerely,
Lynn L. Douthett,
SBA North Carolina District Director

Belated Thank You

I apologize for the delay but would like to express my thanks to all who supported me in the Jr. Miss Cherokee Pageant. First of all, I would like to thank my sponsors: The Cherokee Boys Club, Patrick Lambert, Cherokee Historical Association, Huskey Cabin Rentals, Cherokee by Design, Big Cove Grocery, Ken Wilson Ford and Ultimate Sound. A special thank you to Bernice Bottchenbaugh for her time and help and to Ty Bradley and the three young ladies who assisted me during the talent portion of the pageant. Thank you Kelley Hill for driving me in your cool convertible for the parade (it beats riding in mom's old car). Thank you to the pageant committee for helping us prepare for the pageant. Thanks to all of my family and friends but most of all, I thank God for giving me such a great opportunity. It was a wonderful experience, I sincerely apologize if I have forgotten anyone! I would like to wish all of our Cherokee Royalty the best throughout their reign.

Jr. Miss Cherokee Contest,
Hannah Ledford

Support Small Business Saturday

Ensuring that we have a vibrant economy -- one that creates good-paying jobs for our families and brings prosperity to our cities and towns across the country -- is a responsibility we all share. I'm proud to announce that Cherokee is joining a nationwide movement to help revive one of the most important engines of our economy, independently-owned small businesses.

We are teaming up with dozens of partners to launch the first-ever Small Business SaturdaySM. Department stores and large retailers have Black Friday. Online retailers have Cyber Monday. And now, starting on Nov. 27 of this year, small business owners will have Small Business Saturday.

We envision Small Business Saturday as a day when everyone, across the country, comes together to show their support for the independently-owned, local merchants they love in their own hometowns. Over time, we hope that Small Business Saturday will be known as the day when everyone makes a special effort to "shop small."

Small businesses were among the hardest hit sectors during the recession, and they need our support to get back on their feet. The stakes are high. Over the past two decades, small businesses have created more than 65 percent of the new jobs in this country. For every $100 spent in locally-owned, independent stores, $68 returns to the community through taxes, payroll and other expenditures. When small businesses succeed we all benefit.

More than anything else, owners of these businesses say they need more people coming into their shops and buying their goods and services. To drive foot traffic, we are supporting a major social media and advertising campaign that we hope will put Small Business Saturday on the map.

Here's how you can help:

- Learn more about this effort by visiting the Small Business Saturday page on Facebook, which is part of a major social media campaign. Join the many thousands of people who have "liked" Small Business Saturday on Facebook. You can also give a shout-out for your favorite local shops and restaurants and spread the word through your own social networks.
- Check out free shopping benefits courtesy of our partner American Express, and free Facebook advertising credits for small business owners who qualify.
- Most of all, I encourage you to do some of your holiday and everyday shopping at small businesses, especially on Small Business Saturday.

We're working with some terrific partners, including American Express Company, Facebook, the National Trust for Historic Preservation's Main Streets Center, and the National Association of Women's Business Owners, to make the upcoming holiday season a success for small business owners across America.

Shining a light on the local businesses that contribute so much to our communities is something we can all get behind. Please join the movement and spread the word to make the first Small Business Saturday a success.

Frank Teesateskie, 68, of 91 Ike Tooni Road, Cherokee, passed away at home on Thursday November 18, 2010 following an extended illness.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Noah and Winnie W. Teesateskie.

He is survived by his wife of 47 years, Marion Tooni Teesateskie, daughter, Marlene Junaluska and husband, Dennis; sons, Bobby Teesateskie and wife, Dulcie, and Benny Teesateskie; grandchildren, Makayla, Noah, and Caden Teesateskie, and Jennie Junaluska; and also, close family friend, Kirk Saunooke.

A memorial service and visitation was held at the home on Sunday, November 21, 2010 from 1 PM to 5 PM. The family requests that in lieu of flowers, donations should be made in memory of Frank to Tsali Manor. Long House Funeral Home is assisting the family. An online register is available at www.longhousefunerals.com.

THANKSGIVING DAY AND TSALI DAY

The Tribe, the School and the Club will observe Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 25 and Tsali Day, Friday, November 26 as holidays. Both of these designated days are most appropriate and should be observed with deep respect and reverence.

Thanksgiving Day has been designated as a special day of thanks to the Lord for His many wonderful blessings (past, present and future). These include both spiritual and material blessings which He has bountifully provided even though we don't deserve them and blessings which we often fail to appreciate. May we resolve never to take these blessings for granted. May we thank Him continuously for all our blessings every day and not just on the day designated as Thanksgiving Day.

Tsali Day has been designated as a day to honor and appreciate the sacrifice of Tsali who gave his own life, and even more difficult, the life of his sons. Without the sacrifice, our great Tribe would not have remained in our sacred and beautiful homeland. The Lord has blessed us with many people over many years that have served and sacrificed to earn the freedom and opportunities which we enjoy. May we continuously thank and appreciate Him and them.

Twenty-six Cherokee Middle School students were inducted into the Junior Beta Club on Monday, Nov. 8.

Junior Beta Club inducts 26 at CMS

By BETTE FITZGERALD
CMS BETA SPONSOR

Twenty-six new members were inducted into the National Junior Beta Club at Cherokee Middle School on Monday, Nov. 8. These students were selected from the eighth grade class based on academics, behavior, attendance, teacher recommendations and principal approval.

The ceremony was held in the Cultural Arts Center with a reception in the gallery lobby following the program. On display in the lobby were six of the beta club banners that have been framed by Nancy Martin who donated her time and materials to preserve these outstanding examples of student artwork. They will be on permanent display in the Middle School.

The following students were inducted as Junior Beta Club Members: Lacey Arch, Ashley Bradley, Gracia Bradley, Jaron Bradley, Nesta Bradley, Brandon Buchanan, Dre Crowe, Aidan Galloway (Secretary), Elicio George, Corey Hill, Nick Hill, Mack Lackey, Olivia LaCombe, Meli Lambert, Nigel Ledford, Madison Long (Treasurer), Kaycee Lossiah, Simon Montelongo, Jared Panther, Makayla Pheasant, Gabe

Rodriguez, Xan Sadongei (Vice President), Kendall Toineeta, Kobe Toineeta, Cole Wildcatt (President), and Peri Wildcatt.

The students will now prepare to compete at the NC Junior Beta Convention in Greensboro on Feb. 6-8, 2011. The students will compete in: banner, scrapbook, living literature, arts (drawing, painting, water colors, pastels, poster design, photography and sculpture), crafts (knitting, embroidering, cross stitch, jewelry, and woodworking) and academics (math, science, social studies, spelling, poetry, speech, power point and quiz bowl).

Last year, Cherokee Middle School placed first in the banner (Chicoah Ledford, Justin Buchanan, Dylan Thompson), first in woodworking (Jeremy Saunooke), first in acrylic painting (Tagan Crowe) and second in embroidery (BraDe Brady). The theme of this year's convention is "Beta...A Volunteer State of Mind," with nationals in Knoxville, TN in June.

The CMS Junior Beta Club related they would like to extend a special thanks to Cherokee Central Schools and the GEAR UP program who make this convention possible each year.

Park receives Hybrids through NCDOT Grant

Great Smoky Mountains National Park recently took delivery of seven Ford Escape Hybrid vehicles that were purchased using a $197,550 grant from the North Carolina Department of Transportation's Congestion Mitigation and Air Quality (CMAQ) Program. The CMAQ funding is U.S. Department of Transportation money which came through the State of North Carolina and was allocated by the Rural Planning Organizations (RPOs) of the Land-of-Sky Regional Council and Southwestern Commission.

The goal of the CMAQ Program is to reduce air emissions in counties where air quality is in non-attainment of EPA Clean Air Act standards. The portions of Swain and Haywood Counties that lie within Great Smoky Mountains National Park are both in non-attainment due to elevated levels of ground level ozone.

The Park's new cleaner hybrids will replace seven much more polluting vehicles, including two full-size pickups, three station wagons, and a sedan, some of which are over 20 years old, so emissions reduction are projected to be substantial. The new vehicles will be used in North Carolina Park operations ranging from Ranger patrols in the campgrounds to trail maintenance.

"One of the most serious threats that the Smokies faces is the impact of air pollution on the Park's plants, soils and aquatic life," Park Deputy Superintendent Kevin FitzGerald said. "We strive, through education and through our own example, to inform the public of ways that they can work towards cleaner air. One way we do this is by gradually transitioning our vehicles and equipment towards cleaner technology."

Fitzgerald continued, "We sincerely appreciate the support channeled through the Land-of-Sky Regional Council and Southwestern Commission to help us clean up our fleet. In 2006 we used a $33,600 state grant to acquire the infrastructure to convert all of our heavy equipment and large trucks to run on B-50 bio-diesel and we received a second grant of $31,900 to purchase two emission-free electric vehicles. Those grants required at least a 20% match from the Friends of the Smokies, but this latest one funded purchase of the hybrids 100%"

With the addition of these new Escape Hybrids the Park now has 16 hybrid vehicles in service.

EQIP Funding available to Local Farmers

The Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) is again available for farmers and agricultural producers on the Qualla Boundary. While the EQIP has a continuous sign up, the batching deadline for 2011 funds is Dec. 17.

This USDA program offers financial and technical assistance to eligible farmers and agricultural landowners, including those with woodland tracts, to install certain conservation practices on land they own or operate. These Best Management Practices (BMPs) are designed to protect and sustain the natural resource base on the farm. A multitude of BMPs are available to address soil quality, water quality, pasture and hay land management and even wildlife habitat on the farm.

In recent years, several parcel holders have completed projects which involved the repair of agricultural use roads in Jackson and Swain counties. Such roads can be a major source of erosion and sedimentation on the farm. Such roads may include access to barns, pastures, or other fields. Woodland access roads also qualify.

Other qualifying practices include: seeding and stabilization of critically eroded areas, livestock watering tanks, livestock travel lanes, heavy-use area protection around barns and feeding areas, fencing, pasture management, rotational grazing practices, wildlife habitat enhancement, stream bank restoration and numerous other erosion control practices.

Crop land conservation practices are also available.

While the EQIP has a continuous sign up, there will only be one batching deadline for 2011 funding. Parcel holders are encouraged to sign up early in order to begin installation of practices sooner. Applications are ranked according to resource concerns identified in their conservation plan. This ranking process is based on national, state, and local resource concerns.

For more information or if you are interested in signing up, contact John McCoy at 497-1858, the USDA Service Center in Bryson City at (828)488-3785 ext.3, the Jackson Soil and Water Conservation District at (828)586-6344, or the Graham Soil and Water Conservation District at (828)479-9268.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) prohibits discrimination in all its programs and activities on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age, disability, political beliefs, sexual orientation, or marital or family status. (Not all prohibited bases apply to all programs.) Persons with disabilities who require alternative means for communication of program information (Braille, large print, audiotape, etc.) should contact USDA's TARGET Center at (202)720-5964 (voice and TDD).

Double Rainbow over Cherokee

This amazing double rainbow was seen from the New Kituwah Academy on Tuesday, Nov. 16. According to the National Center for Atmospheric Research, "The rainbow we normally see is called the primary rainbow and is produced by one internal reflection; the secondary rainbow arises from two internal reflections and the rays exit the drop at an angle of 50 degrees rather than the 42 degrees for the red primary bow. Blue light emerges at an even larger angle of 53 degrees. This effect produces a secondary rainbow that has its colors reversed compared to the primary."

Miss Cherokee having a Busy Fall

By TONYA CARROLL
MISS CHEROKEE 2010

After being crowned Miss Cherokee 2010 on Saturday, Oct. 2, I have attended several events as the Ambassador for the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians.

I participated in the Annual Cherokee Indian Fair parade on Tuesday, Oct. 5 and also attended the Cherokee Indian Fair Oct. 5-9. On Tuesday, after the parade, I officially welcomed everyone to Cherokee and the Fair.

On Wednesday, Oct. 6, I attended and spoke at the Annual Prayer Breakfast held at the Cherokee Youth Center in the morning and then that evening I again welcomed everyone to the Fair.

Thursday I was able to eat lunch at the Fair with some visiting princesses from Oklahoma and Mississippi. During that time, I was able to visit with some of our elders and get my picture taken with them, then I worked in the NAIWA food booth that evening.

On Friday, I went to Veteran's Day in the morning and was able to meet our Grand Marshall Reuben Taylor and have my photo made with him and his family. It was an honor to be able to meet the veterans because I was able to thank them for the sacrifices they made and continue to make for our freedom. Friday evening I went back to the Fair to welcome everyone and to congratulate the newly crowned Little and Junior Miss Cherokee princesses Ailyah Bigmeat and Kaley Locust. I watched Andrea Cedillo be crowned Miss Teen Cherokee on Friday evening and was able to have my photo taken with all three princesses on stage.

Finally, I attended the last evening of the Fair on Saturday and again addressed the audience that evening. Attending the fair was a lot of work, but I enjoyed it tremendously. I got to meet the visiting princesses, Tone Loc, Dan "The Handler" Hornbuckle, Masters Touch, and many of our tribal brothers and sisters from Oklahoma.

I made my official introduction as Miss Cherokee 2010 to our Tribal Council on the morning of Monday, Oct. 25 where I was able to meet all of our Council members as well as our State House Representative Phil Haire.

On Veteran's Day, Thursday, Nov. 11, I participated in the Cherokee Veteran's Parade to honor all of the veterans. I was honored by the veterans when they requested that I lead the parade as the first car. Although there was not a large audience viewing the parade I had a great time.

The next day, I was invited to speak at the Native American Expo at Western Carolina University, my alma mater. I arrived at 11am and spoke for about 20-25 minutes on my duties as Miss Cherokee, my education, Qualla Arts and Crafts, and my traditional Cherokee clothing.

After I spoke, a classroom from the New Kituwah Academy sang a few songs and I was able to have my picture made with all of the children. This was a wonderful experience and everyone at Western was respectful and curious about Cherokee culture.

I am looking forward to upcoming events including the 15th Annual American Indian Heritage celebration in Raleigh, the Sylva, Waynesville, and Cherokee Christmas parades, and the 2010 Jingle Bell Run/Walk for Arthritis in Asheville, NC on Dec. 4.

Finally, I would like to thank the seven women who volunteer their time on the Royalty Board. I appreciate their hard work and dedication. They do many things to ensure that Miss Cherokee is well taken care of and is able to represent the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians to the best of her ability.

CMS FIRST LEGO Robotics Program ready to Compete

By KIERAN SEQUOYAH

There are four teams that make up the RezBots this year. They are: 1)The Brain Invaders, 2)The GoGo Power Rangers, 3)The Bone Shakers, and 4)The Tsa-la-gi Tsi-to-li (Cherokee Eyes).

Three teams meet after school on Tuesdays, and one team meets every day during school. This year's challenge is improving the human body. So, the teams each have to come up with a solution to help the part of the body they have selected. In the order of the teams listed above, they have decided to work on: the brain, muscles, the spine, and the eyes. The teams will each focus on a problem related to their body parts, and will come up with a solution.

For example, The Brain Invaders team is focusing on helping people who get concussions. Our solution to brain swelling is to have doctors use a big needle in order to take out brain fluid and help the brain not be under so much pressure. All teams will present their research projects to the community at our RezBots Parent and Family Night on Monday, Nov. 29. Then, on Saturday, Dec. 11, we will travel to Cullowhee to compete at the Regional Lego Robotics Tournament in the Ramsey Center on campus at WCU.

If we do really well at the Regional Competition, we might get to go to the State FIRST LEGO League Tournament in Greensboro. The teams would like to thank our sponsors, including everyone who has bought a raffle ticket or a HexBug, SCC GEAR UP, The Cherokees, and Cherokee Tribal Gaming Commission.

CES Students learn about Animal Adaptations

By JESSICA METZ

The fourth grade students of Cherokee Elementary School presented the Balsam Mountain Trust with a donation of over $150 on Thursday, Nov. 18. As part of their study of animal adaptations, the students have been enjoying a series of visits by Blair Ogburn, one of the naturalists from the Balsam Mountain Trust's Nature Center. Topics studied during the visits have included reptiles, nocturnal animals, and most recently birds of prey.

The Balsam Mountain Trust provides these programs free of charge as part of their educational outreach program. The "hands on" experience that the Balsam Mountain Trust provides via live interaction with the animals and artifacts is an exciting and educational treat for students. Because of the experiential aspect of the Nature Center's visits, children get a chance to touch and observe animals that they would normally only encounter via text books or nature programming.

Jessica is a 4th grade teacher at Cherokee Elementary School.

Family caregivers: What You Should know About Burnout

Learn as much as you can about your family member's illness and about how to be a caregiver as you can. The more you know, the more effective you'll be, and the better you'll feel about your efforts.

Know your limits. Be realistic about how much of your time and yourself you can give. Set clear limits, and communicate those limits to doctors, family members, and other people involved.

Accept your feelings. Caregiving can trigger a host of difficult emotions, including anger, fear, resentment, guilt, helplessness, and grief. As long as you don't compromise the well-being of the care receiver, allow yourself to feel what you feel.

 Confide in others. Talk to people what you feel; don't keep your emotions bottled up. Caregivers support groups are invaluable, but trusted friends and family members can help too. You may also benefit from seeing a therapist or counselor.

For information contact Tsali caregivers Support Program at 828-554-6872 and speak with Tavish Panozzo, caregiver Case Manager or Heather Bird, Outreach Worker II at 828-554-6860

Siyo,

I am the daughter of Susie Goings, granddaughter of Nellie "Pushbutton" Ledford - Littlejohn and Great-granddaughter of Amy Bird Roberts.

I am running for Principal Chief

I will be visiting in your communities to listen to you. I want to hear FROM YOU, your ideas and concerns. I believe I am the Candidate who can best steer our Tribe to a prosperous and secure future.

After we talk, I believe you will agree

Look for me in your community.
