Four Cherokee elders were honored during a day named in honor of a late Snowbird leader. EBCI Beloved Woman Myrtle Driver, Tom Belt, Ida Elliot and Lucy Bigmeat all received the Distinguished Citizen Award from members of the Junaluska Leadership Council during the 16th Annual Ned Long Day held at the Cherokee Youth Center on Wednesday, Oct. 29.

Driver, named a Beloved Woman of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians several years ago, is a fluent Cherokee speaker who has dedicated many years of her life to language preservation. She has translated several books, including the popular children's book Charlotte's Web, into the Cherokee language.

As she was honored on Wednesday, she thanked the many people who helped her through foster care as a child. "If there's any good about me, it's from them."

Driver recognized Amy Thompson during the event and said she is a "beautiful lady who took me in" and treated her like family.

Members of the Junaluska Leadership Council interviewed each elder prior to Wednesday's event, and Driver told the students who interviewed her, "Be at peace with yourself and anyone."

Belt, a Cherokee Nation citizen originally from Oklahoma, is also a fluent Cherokee speaker. He is the Western Carolina University Cherokee Language Program coordinator and enjoys reading and writing in the Cherokee syllabary.

He told the students, "Get the best education you can and go as far as you can."

Elliot, an avid bird watcher, was a long-time bank employee in the Bryson City area. She related to the students, "Think about any decision that you make and make sure it is the right one because it will affect you for the rest of your life."

Bigmeat, an avid bowler, is known for taking care of the ill and sick in her Painttown Community. She encouraged the youth to avoid the perils of drugs and asks for more education geared towards young people on the subject.

The Kristyn Jones Youth Leadership Award was given to Tagan Crowe during Wednesday's event. Crowe was on the Junaluska Leadership Council all four of his high school years and served as Vice Chairman and Chairman during his stint.

Kate Cooper, Junaluska Leadership Council, commented as she presented the award to Crowe, "Tagan sets an example of how all EBCI youth should serve their community. He demonstrates a passion for tribal leadership."

The Cherokee High School JROTC Color Guard presented the colors to open the program followed by the Cherokee High School Cherokee Language Class reciting the Pledge of Allegiance and singing "America the Beautiful" in the Cherokee language.

With the loss of a loved one, it is hard to deal
It seems like a nightmare...this can't be...
One moment they're here; the next, they're gone...
He now lives in our hearts and hearts do go on...

Keep alive the good times shared,
For no others shall be compared...
To those we miss so much,
And by whom we've all been touched...

They made us laugh; they made us cry;
Within our hearts, they shall never die...
He kept us going; He kept a smile on our faces,
Because he's gone on, gone onto a better place,

A place in which he'll feel no pain.
No one's at fault; non one's to blame...
Everything has a purpose; there is reason for it all
Sometimes at night, I can hear him call...

He says, "He's fine," and "Don't be blue,
Cause someday soon I'll be with you...
Together again, like the times before,
When you get here we'll be smiling
Standing at Heaven's Door..."

VETERANS CORNER*Veterans Day Celebration planned in Cherokee for Nov. 11*COMMANDER LEW HARDING

This year, the Cherokee community will honor its veterans again at the Cherokee Indian Fairgrounds Exhibition Hall on Tuesday, Nov. 11 at 11am. Men and women who served their country in uniform are part of almost every Cherokee related family, either directly or indirectly. In the 236th year of our American independence, to those who fought to keep us free, we extend hearts full of gratitude. Truly, we are a blessed people.

Our veterans have been very much a part of preserving the freedoms so important to all of us. The commitment, dedication, sacrifice and service of these brave men and women has been a source of pride for our Cherokee people and all Americans.

How many of us know the parent, wife, brother, sister, neighbor or friend of someone killed in action? It seems sad that our evening news rarely mentions our fallen heroes anymore. Could it be that our military men and women as individuals are seen as extensions of a dysfunctional governmental system? It is up to us, each of us, not to align ourselves with such an idea.

The lack of recognition and respect that our society pays our heroes on their day is sometimes disturbing. Have you ever been offended by all the commercials for Veterans Day sales events? With 364 other retail opportunities each year, one would imagine that this day could be treated with a little more thoughtfulness and appreciation. Perhaps we could wait until next week to buy a car or a chair, and set aside some quiet time to reflect and say thank you.

Remember, all the political reasons for our wars cannot begin to heal the pain and grief of families who have lost loved ones. We honor them here, and now. Their loss is our loss. Their tears are our tears. May it ever be so.

Let us take one hour of one day next Tuesday and honor our veterans. They are everywhere among us. We will celebrate with music and food and speeches and awards. Come and be with us and show them we care.

Obituary*James Anderson Saunooke

James Anderson Saunooke, 73, of Chicago, Ill., passed away unexpectedly following a brief illness on Sept. 19, 2014. He made his home in Illinois, but was from Cherokee, NC.

Known as Jimmy to his family, he was the son of the late Joseph Anderson Saunooke and Stacey (Powell) Saunooke. He left home as a young man just after high school in the late fifties in pursuit of training for his future and only returned for visits with his family.

James is survived by one sister, Edna Goshorn of Whittier; nieces, Diane L. Goshorn of also of Jackson Co., Debrah S. with husband Tom Pendergraft of Tulsa, Okla., Donna Beck of Jackson Co., Sherry Young of Cherokee, Sophia and husband Bill Lequire, of Swain Co., and Stacy Washington with husband Josh of Cherokee; nephews, Kirk G. Saunooke of Cherokee and Robert "Bob" Price of Cherokee.

Along with his parents, he was preceded in death by brothers, Robert and Joseph Saunooke and one sister, Valeria Saunooke.

The family received friends on Saturday, Nov. 1 from 12-2pm at the Cherokee Baptist Church. A funeral service followed at 2pm in the church with Rev. Percy Cunningham and Pastor Merritt Youngdeer officiating. An immediate burial followed in the Saunooke Family Cemetery with T.W. Saunooke, Tivon Saunooke, Harley Young, Josh Washington, Derick Jenkins and Kirk Saunooke act as pall bearers.

Long House Funeral Home of Cherokee assisted in bringing James home to be placed at rest.

Energy Tip of the Week

Presented by Cameron Cooper,
Energy Program Coordinator

ccoper@nc-cherokee.com

WINTER...

- Set your thermostat no higher than 68 degrees when you are home and lower the temperature when you go to bed or when you are not at home. For every degree you lower your thermostat you save about 2 percent off your heating bill.
- Weatherize your home by caulking and weather-stripping all doors and windows. Also use locks on your windows to make them tighter and draft resistant.
- Reducing air leaks could cut 10 percent from an average household's monthly energy bill. The most common places where air escapes homes are: floors, walls, ceilings, ducts, fireplaces, plumbing penetrations, doors, windows, fans, vents and electrical outlets.
- Keep shades and curtains open during the day on the south side of your home to allow solar heating. Close them at night to retain heat.
- Don't block your radiators or heating vents with furniture or draperies. Keep your radiators, registers and baseboard heaters dirt and dust free. Close vents and doors in unused rooms.

The face of your business

ROBERT JUMPER
ONE FEATHER EDITOR

I recently viewed a post on Facebook that read, "Treat employees like they make a difference and they will." It is very important to remember as an employer and/or manager that everyone is valuable, including those who serve you.

There are many business and governmental employees that provide services and products to the Qualla Boundary and immediately surrounding counties commonly known as the Cherokee Indian Reservation. As a business owner, it is important to know what your employees think of you and your business, as much as those who are buying your product. Those "front line" employees are the ones who interact directly with your customers and product. They control the image and quality of both.

There has been much research toward the end of identifying what motivates the people who work for companies. Key motivators for workers are not the fear of firing or promise of high wages, as some would guess. I recently reviewed an article at the Forbes magazine website (<http://www.forbes.com/sites/ken-sundheim/2013/11/26/what-really-motivates-employees/>) and found that being able to be creative and have a sense of self-worth will produce employees that are invested in your business and equate your business success to their own personal success.

In my nearly 30 years of employment, I have served as both employee and employer. It has been my experience that when employees are properly treated and motivated, a bond of trust is created that benefits both the owner/management and the worker. If the worker cares about the work that they do, there is a resulting increase in productivity.

Many of you are leaders of people in the workforce. I urge you to examine the relationship between you and the people who are the face of your business, for the sake of your business and the future of the community.

There are many great resources on the Boundary to assist you with assessment and curriculum on managerial and employee assessment like the Cherokee Chamber of Commerce (offices located in the future home of the Fly Fishing Museum next to the Cherokee Welcome Center), the Sequoyah Fund and the EBCI Business Development Office located in the Ginger Lynn Welch Complex.

Museum to celebrate Native American Heritage Month on Nov. 8-9

The Museum of the Cherokee Indian will be offering two special events on Nov 8-9 to celebrate Native American Heritage Month. A "Cherokee Experience" for families will be offered on Saturday, Nov. 8 and Cherokee Hymn Singing will occur on Sunday, Nov. 9. The Museum Store will feature a new "Cherokee Ultimate Bookshelf" of staff picks for browsing and purchasing.

"We want to provide an in-depth cultural experience," said Bo Taylor, executive director. "People can learn more about our history and culture, meet some of our artists, and taste our food, and spend a family day at the Museum."

The "Cherokee Experience" for families runs from 10am - 2pm on Saturday. It starts with a tour of the Museum's award-winning exhibits. A program on Cherokee music and dance will involve the audience in traditional dances, presented by Taylor whose recent CD of dance songs received a NAMMY (Native American Music award). A "tasting lunch" of Cherokee foods will include bear meat, bean bread, chestnut bread, beans and hominy, herb tea, and blueberry bread. During lunch, storyteller

On Sunday afternoon at 2 pm, the Snowbird Choir will lead singing in the Cherokee language from the new Cherokee Hymnbook. Joyce Cooper will provide piano accompaniment as well. If you don't know the Cherokee language, fluent speaker Shirley Oswalt will provide instruction in singing with the phonetic words provided. - Museum of the Cherokee Indian

This North American native is particularly abundant in the Appalachian Mountains, growing in moist, shaded sites in forests and clearings. With its leaves almost gone, the witch hazel comes into glorious bloom in late October to early November. Its fragrant yellow flowers are often the only sign of color in the woods. Early European settlers observed Native Americans using a forked branch of this plant to "dowse" for water.
