Cherokee hero's medals to be returned

Two boys from New York will return military service medals to the family of Medal of Honor recipient and EBCI tribal member Charles George in a ceremony the day after Veteran's Day on Monday, Nov. 12.

Michael, 10 and Mario, 8, Mazarello from Walkill, New York were in an antique shop last spring and saw three medals. The boys decided to try to return the medals to the rightful owner. When they examined, they found the name Charles George. Their research led them to the Steve Youngdeer Post of the American Legion in Cherokee. Further research yielded few answers, but the boys could not find any other Charles George.

The return ceremony will begin at 11am in the exhibition hall at Cherokee Indian Fairgrounds. Lunch will follow. The public is invited to attend.

Cherokee Indian Hospital and Press Ganey

Have you been a patient on Inpatient, been to the Emergency Room or visited Outpatient lately? If you have, you could be getting a phone call. Cherokee Indian Hospital is required by the Center for Medicare/Medicaid Services to survey its patients. So, if you've had a hospital stay, a doctor's appointment or been to the Emergency Room, a man or woman from Press Ganey may be calling.

Press Ganey is the company that Cherokee Indian Hospital contracts with to conduct their surveys. The surveyor will ask you questions about your stay, your visit and the care you were provided. It should take less than fifteen minutes.

This survey is very important to Cherokee Indian Hospital and affects our reimbursement rates. It also helps us improve services, environments, and care. This survey lets Medicare/Medicaid know how we are ranked against other similar sized hospitals. We need your help! If you get a call from Press Ganey, please take the survey and give your feedback. Your input can help improve the care you receive. Thank for taking the time.

Harrah's Cherokee donates 342 pounds of sweet potatoes

Manna Food Bank received a bounty of sweet potatoes, 342 pounds worth, grown and harvested in Harrah's Cherokee Casino Resort's HERO (Harrah's Employee's Reaching Out) garden. Volunteers from the HERO program learned to garden and planted the potatoes earlier in the year in its effort help end hunger in Western North Carolina and support Manna Food Bank.

Manna Food Bank has a region-wide distribution system and continues to collect, store and warehouse food items. Beginning in 2013, Manna Food Bank and Harrah's Cherokee Casino Resort will promote the "Grow a Row for Hunger" project, encouraging the gardening community to add an extra row in their garden to donate to the food bank. The program will increase fresh produce available to families and agencies served by Manna programs.

"It is a great feeling to be able to have fertile land to grow a garden and create a crop to help feed hungry people...it's priceless," said Heather Queen, HRSS Analyst, HERO and HERO Board Member.

Harrah's Cherokee Casino Resort related they are proud to support Manna Food Bank's fresh produce and gardening initiatives and to increase awareness for their programs to help eliminate hunger. To learn more about Manna Food Bank and the programs they offer or find out event information visit www.MANNAFoodbank.org.

Hey Babe,

It's been a year since you had to go away to that land of golden streets. But yet it seems it was only yesterday we were sitting under that big old oak tree and laughing about what Cy, Bray, Jacey or Kaniah were doing. You would be so proud of them, babe. They have grown so much and are as beautiful as ever.

Kailey said to tell you she likes it when you come to see her. She said she gets all excited and giggles and kicks her little feet trying to get to you.

Bug says he's gonna get the 'bike' rolling again but he may need a little nudge from you. So if you can, please reach down and help him along.

Yes babe, it has been a year but your memories will forever linger in our hearts and this is where we find comfort in our time of need. So, "ride on", babe, until we all gather home.

With Love,
Mary Gean

Returning to encourage

Three CHS grads return to encourage students to pursue college

Cherokee High School had some very special guests on Friday, Oct. 19. Alisha Long, Meshay Long, and Kayla Smith, CHS graduates and EBCI tribal members, are all students currently attending the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill. As part of the high school's initiative to encourage and increase postsecondary education among CHS rising and graduating seniors, these ladies stopped in during lunch to talk to the students about their experiences at the university and answer questions about the application process and enrollment requirements.

Alisha Long is a junior at UNC-Chapel Hill majoring in education. Kayla Smith is a sophomore majoring in sports administration. Meshay Long is a freshman, and she is still exploring her options in choosing a major. She has expressed interest in pre-med, psychology, and nursing.

As volunteers, these ladies decided to come back to their old high school as part of a recruitment program at UNC. They answered questions about FASFA (financial aid paperwork), gave advice on applying to colleges, and discussed some of the benefits interested students would have at UNC-Chapel Hill.

UNC – Chapel Hill students and former CHS graduates Kayla Smith, Alisha Long and Meshay Long met with students at Cherokee High School on Friday, Oct. 19 to encourage them to pursue higher education.

The Native American Center on the university campus was a large topic of discussion among the students. They also discussed a program at UNC, in which these ladies are involved, called "Tarheel Target," which deals with diversity and multicultural affairs.

They encouraged CHS juniors to check out another program offered by the university called "Project Uplift." It can be located online at www.unc.edu; just search "Project Uplift" on the university's site. Up to 15 students can be nominated by Deb Lambert, CHS guidance counselor, to have the benefit of getting an all-expenses-paid glimpse of the college experience. The program is designed for "high-achieving rising seniors." The selected students can spend "two days visiting classes, meeting with faculty and staff, interacting with Carolina students, and participating in cultural and social activities."

When asked what advice you would give a CHS senior, the ladies responded, "Apply anywhere at any time, and always meet your deadlines."

If any seniors are interested in attending UNC-Chapel Hill for the 2013-14 school year, the application deadline is Jan. 5, 2013. If you have any questions about applying, please contact these ladies at the following e-mail addresses: Meshay Long meshay1@live.unc.edu, Alisha Long arlong@live.unc.edu, and Kayla Smith kaylajs@live.unc.edu.

"Cherokee High School students and administration would like to extend a special thank you to these ladies for coming to talk to the students and providing useful insight and information about the college experience," said CHS officials.

"They walk the Sacred Path with our students by exhibiting leadership, generosity, inspiration, and empowering our students. Don't wait parents and CHS seniors. Come in and see your guidance counselors today and get the ball rolling on the application process. Cherokee High School and the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill welcome your questions and will be there to help you navigate the application and financial aid process. Success is found through education. Encourage a CHS junior or senior today!"

Friends of the Smokies to host hike on Smokemont Loop Trail

Fresh air, rushing waters and stunning vistas, it's Fall and time to get out into our backyard national treasure, Great Smoky Mountains National Park. Friends of the Smokies will hold its next guided "Classic Hikes of the Smokies" series on Thursday, Nov. 15 as they hike amidst flowing creeks and intriguing historic remnants along the Smokemont Loop Trail. Beginning at one of the most popular campsites in the park the Smokemont Loop Trail receives relatively little traffic despite the scenic creek and history found along the trail.

Friends of the Smokies hiking enthusiast and author of two regional hiking guides Danny Bernstein will lead this 6.2 mile hike that is moderate in difficulty and has a total elevation gain of 1,400 ft. The originally scheduled Hyatt Ridge Discovery hike has been postponed, due to Park road closure.

Participants will gather for the all day excursion in Asheville at 8:30 a.m., Maggie Valley at 9 a.m., or at the Park at 9:45. A donation of $35 to go to the Friends' Smokies Trails Forever program is requested, and includes a complimentary membership to Friends of the Smokies. Current Friends of the Smokies members hike for $10. Hikers who bring a friend hike for free.

The next and last Friends of the Smokies guided hike in the 2012 series will be a half-day hike along

Chief Youngdeer to sign memoirs on Sunday

Chief Robert Youngdeer will be speaking about his life and signing books at a special Veterans Day weekend event at the Museum of the Cherokee Indian on Sunday, Nov. 11 at 2pm. The Memoirs of Robert Youngdeer: Marine, Chief, and Proud American, has just been published by the Museum Press. Copies will be available for sale through the Museum Store.

"We are proud to publish this outstanding work—Cherokee history by a Cherokee author," said Ken Blankenship, Executive Director of the Museum.

Youngdeer describes growing up in Cherokee, attending boarding school, joining the Marines, and being wounded in at Guadalcanal in World War II, for which he received the Purple Heart. He became an Army Paratrooper, and then worked as an Indian Policeman on reservations with the Lakota, Choctaw, Apache, Anishinabe, Inuit, and more. From 1983-1987 he served as Principal Chief of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians.

"Principal Chief Youngdeer has produced an extraordinary history for the Cherokee people through the telling of his life history. The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians has been blessed with

TSALI MANOR NEWS

By AMY PETE-OCHOA

This Halloween was busy and fun. The seniors made "Tsali Manor Ghouls" to decorate their homes. This project was fun to sew and make.

The Cherokee Senior Citizens Program had a table at the Safe Trick or Treat Night on Wednesday, Oct. 31. We would like to thank those seniors who volunteered for this event. On Wednesday, Tsali Manor had a Halloween party with snacks and ghoulish music.

As Thanksgiving will soon be upon us, we will make crafts that celebrate the season.

Come and join us to socialize, make crafts and eat lunch. We always have a great time and welcome any seniors. For more information or to call in for a lunch reservation, please call 554-6860.

Samantha Crowe-Hernandez is a Western Carolina University Alum and a current WCU Graduate student. She is teacher of 3rd grade homeroom and 1st-3rd Grade Math Teacher at the New Kituwah Academy. Western is very proud to have graduated excellent teachers who work with our community's children. She is assisted by Irene Smoker.

They recently took their students on a field trip to the Mountain Heritage Center which exhibits Cherokee and Appalachian topics. Currently, an exhibit from the Smithsonian Institute called "Journey Stories" is on display. Peter Koch, Museum Educator Associate, served as the guide and instructor on Nov. 2. The students in attendance were Haley (Nokwisi) Smith, Makala (Kwana) Washington, Praire (Iwodi) Toineeta, Donnavin (Unole) Groenewold, Joryn (Taliqwo) Walker, and Abigail (Salalisi) Taylor. The New Kituwah Academy is a Cherokee Immersion School located on the Qualla Boundary.

Nov. 19-20 has been scheduled for the Native American Expo 2012 in Cullowhee, University Grand Room. Please contact the WCU-Cherokee Center to request an

Lily effort takes root at WCU

CULLOWHEE – An effort to re-establish a favorite local flower while at the same time growing a scholarship fund at Western Carolina University is off to a blooming start.

Sales of Cullowhee lily bulbs and note cards, along with memberships into the Cullowhee Lily Society, have generated more than $6,000 so far toward the WCU Alumni Scholarship Fund, which provides annual, need-based support to a current WCU student with close ties to Cata-mountain alumni.

“WCU alumni and the local community have rallied around this special initiative. Their response has been outstanding,” said Marty Ramsey, alumni affairs director.

Led by Susan Belcher, wife of Chancellor David O. Belcher; Betty Allen, past president of the Alumni Association; and Frances Owl-Smith, Alumni Association president-elect, the effort to re-establish the Cullowhee lily on campus and regionally while at the same time raising scholarship money began to take shape last spring. This fall, bulbs and note cards were available for purchase at events on campus and at local establishments. WCU Homecoming activities included a ceremonial bulb planting and an a cappella performance of an original song, titled “Valley of the Lilies,” about Cullowhee by alumna Kim Shuler. Some proceeds from sales go toward maintenance of lily flowerbeds on campus.

A white flower with six petals formally named Zephyranthes atam- asca, the Cullowhee lily once common at Western Carolina now grows in only a few spots on campus. Some speculate the water-loving plant began to disappear from the Cullowhee region when the low valley wetlands were drained first for farm use then later during construction. The proliferation of aggressive kudzu along the riverbanks may have been another factor in the disappearance of this noncompetitive lily.

The initiative’s success is in large part because of community response. “The community has embraced this initiative and they also want to see the Cullowhee lily brought back to our entire region,” Susan Belcher said. “We feel that, by cultivating the lily, we are cultivating our partnerships, our heritage, and most importantly, the future of our students.”

Local radio station WRGC-AM has produced promotional spots about the lily effort, and sales of bulbs and note cards at events such as Mountain Heritage Day, Homecoming and Catamount football games, as well as through local retailers, have been steady. Bulbs and note cards are available for $10 each at Bryson Farm Supply and Country Road Farms Nursery & Garden Center in Sylva, Ray’s Florist & Greenhouse in Dillsboro and Tuckasegee Trading Co. in Cullowhee while supplies last; planting information for the bulbs is included in the package.

Purchases of the bulb at Bryson Farm Supply have come from regular customers and people coming in specifically to buy the bulbs, said owner Randy Hooper. “Probably three or four customers have said they remember the lily, and a couple people have told me they still have the old lily,” Hooper said.

To watch a video about the lily initiative, go online to alumni.wcu.edu and select “Cullowhee lily” from the left-hand column. For more information about the Cullowhee Lily Initiative, contact Cindi Magill with the Office of Alumni Affairs at 828-227-7335 or magill@wcu.edu. Direct gifts to the Alumni Association Scholarship also can be made online at give.wcu.edu.

Veteran offers special thanks

SCOTT MCKIE B.P./One Feather

Warren Dupree, Steve Youngdeer Post 143 service officer, reads a Commendation for Lt. Col. (Ret.) Kina R. Swayney during a ceremony honoring women veterans in October 2011.

I want to offer my sincere gratitude and thanks to family and friends for the support they've given my family over the last two years after our return home after 24 years in the military.

We've recently moved to Pittsburgh, Penn. to be near the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center where I will undergo a double lung transplant. The transplant team here in Pittsburgh is world class and leads the way in transplantation. The need for this life saving procedure was caused by a rare auto immune condition that causes fibrosis of vital organs, in this case, my lungs. I was diagnosed almost 10 years ago and continued to serve for eight more years in the military until retirement.

I also want to offer a special thanks to the congregations of local churches for their prayers, the Cherokee Indian Hospital staff for their diligence in moving my preparation for transplant forward, and finally, the VFW Post 143 for welcoming our military family home and offering tremendous support with addressing my health care benefits with the VA and TRICARE, our military insurance carrier.

I'm thankful and grateful for this chance to continue my life among my family and people. I ask for your continued prayers for my family in the days ahead. We remain in high spirits and hold hope that all will go well and we'll return home soon.

On Veterans Day 2012, I pay tribute to my fellow Veterans and honor our fallen comrades!

Dan Lipinski said, "On this Veterans Day, let us remember the service of our veterans, and let us renew our national promise to fulfill our sacred obligations to our veterans and their families who have sacrificed so much so that we can live free."

Kina B. Swayney

Lieutenant Colonel (Retired),
U.S. Army

Thank you

We, the family of John Allen Smith, would like to say thank you to the Swain County EMT's, Swain County ER staff, VFW Post 8013, USMC Honor Guard, Wolfetown Free Labor, Wrights Creek Baptist Church, Brother Dan Lambert, Chaplain Lewis Hardin, Big Y Community, Pall Bearers, Bill Miller, Mike Crisp and staff and extended family and friends who brought comfort, food and flowers. We'd like to give a special thank you to Phyllis Shell for the beautiful songs. To my brothers and sisters- thank you all for being here for me during this most difficult time.

Respectfully,

Lucetta French

Thank you for making Trick-or-Treat Night a success

See you next year!

Farewell to our warrior in pink

Betty Dupree, eighty-three-years-old went home to rest Oct. 18, 2012. For weeks she'd say, "I'm getting tired now." At the eve of her passing she was actively involved with the Cherokee Cancer Support Group with she helped to start in July 1998. She alone with four women and one male, worked tirelessly to give support to those stricken with cancer. Betty was also a cancer survivor.

Betty prospered in everything she did, because she visualized what could be. By her own example she encouraged and motivated others to be the best that they could be.

As a self-taught business woman, she'd say, "use what works." Her management of funds from donations, memorials, tribal assistance and fundraising has allowed financial assistance for travel to are cancer treatment centers for both female and male clients, mastectomy products for breast cancer survivors or whatever a client needs.

Betty will be missed by many. A vibrant and vocal lady, although not augmentative, she'd say, "I've said my piece now let's move on." In reading about Paul's ministry in Acts 20:33-35, I think these verses seem fitting to Betty as well: Verse 34, Yea, ye yourselves know that these hands have ministered unto my necessities, and to them that were with me. Verse 35, I have showed you all things how that so laboring you ought to support the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, IT IS MORE BLESSED TO GIVE THEN TO RECEIVE.

After 15 years of looking to Betty for instruction and guidance, I've lost a true friend and like Jesus at Lazarus' tomb, I too wept.

To each person who knew Betty, may we continue this pattern in our lives. With God's love in our hearts we can.

Forever in our hearts,

Flora Bradley

New Kituwah Academy would like to thank the following: Cherokee Youth Center, Cherokee WIC Program, New Kituwah Academy Parent Group, Tribal Construction, Cherokee Diabetes Program, Cherokee Water Department, Qualla Library, Cherokee Life Center and the HOPE Center. We greatly appreciate their participation in the Halloween Carnival held at New Kituwah Academy on Oct. 31 for all classrooms. The children had a great time, and your kindness does not go unappreciated! The Cherokee Youth Center set up several games for the children to enjoy and provided snacks and prizes as well. The New Kituwah Academy Parent Group helped provide prizes for the children and provided the decorations for the carnival. The other programs named above sat tables up and handed out candy and healthy snacks to the children.

Veteran's Day and the Wall

The bringing of the Vietnam Traveling Memorial Wall to Cherokee in October was a remarkable healing experience for many of our veterans and their families. On Monday, November 12, we will publically celebrate that and honor the service of each one in a special way.

Knowing that the Creator of the universe is infinite love, healing and forgiveness is one step for many of us. Allowing that awareness to break through the pain barriers caused by the horror of war is quite another. The tears that we witnessed at the Wall, the acceptance and peace that they brought about made all our collective efforts worthwhile. Sometimes, serving each other means more than ordinary day-to-day helping. This was one of those times.

The Youngdeer Cherokee American Legion Post is grateful to all those who helped. You know who you are. We thank you.

To honor the service and the healing, please be with us at 11am on Monday, Nov. 12 in the exhibit hall at the Cherokee Indian Fairgrounds. We will present awards, have special music and a great meal. We want you to be a part of this.

Thank you,
L. H. Harding

Thank you from the Dupree Family

The children of Betty Ann Craig Dupree wish to take this opportunity to express our deepest appreciation to the Cherokee community for the kindness, caring and expressions of love shown for our dear mother during this very difficult time of her passing.

The outpouring of sympathy, compassion and support has been heart-warming, and we, her children, will never forget your kindness.

Our dear mother loved her community which was her family, and her memory will be long remembered, and we will miss her so much.

Thank you to the Long House Funeral Home for making our loss easier to bear.

With much love,
Charmaine, Warren and David

Cherokee Runners busy in October

By GERRI GRADY
CHEROKEE RUNNERS

The month of October was a very busy time for the Cherokee Runners. In addition to general training and group runs, members participated in local 5K races, half marathons and marathons. On the final days of the month Samantha Ferguson, Christi and Matthew Climbingear, Julie Dixon-Lambert, Alicia Jacobs, Deb Conseen-Bradley, Shayna Ledford, Tinker Jenks, Brandes Conway, Michael Henson and Elnora Thompson ran in the power of Pink 5K in Haywood County. Matthew Climbingear came in 2nd overall (2 seconds behind the first place finisher), Michael Henson and Elnora Thompson placed 2nd in their age groups, and Deb Conseen-Bradley placed 3rd in her age group. The Power of Pink organizers use raise money for breast cancer research.

While the Power of Pink was being conducted, another group of Cherokee Runners traveled to Washington, DC to participate in the 37th Marine Corps Marathon. Robin and Stephan Swimmer, Gerri Grady, Chad Bowman, Marlene Arch, Angel and Priscilla Squirrel, Skye Little-dave, Thomas Benedict and Jimmy Oocumma ran and completed the full marathon (26.2 miles). It was the fourth marathon for Robin, Steph and Gerri and the third for Jimmy, Skye and Chad (who completed the grueling Great Wall Marathon in China in spring 2012). Congratulations to first timers Marlene, Angel and Priscilla, and Thomas. Great job! Runners Dawna Paul, Sean Grady, Dave Schwartz and Brian Driver completed the Marine Corps 10K (6.2 miles) from the Smithsonian to the Iwo Jima Memorial. The group would like to thank Chief Hicks for his continued support for fitness through running and for helping the group with transportation for this event. The Cherokee Runners would also like to acknowledge Janet Ingersoll and Tamara and James Nuttle of Walkersville, Maryland, for providing a pasta dinner on the eve of the marathon.

The Cherokee Runners invite anyone interested in fitness through running to join them. Meetings are held twice a month at the Age Link Conference Room at 6pm on the 1st & 15th. It does not matter the fitness level – it only requires a commitment to fitness through running or walking. Visit our website at www.cherokeerunners.com or join us on Facebook at Cherokee Runners.

Area youths say, "Stop bullying!"

The Cherokee Youth Council and the surrounding seven county youth councils came together recently at the 4th Annual Regional Youth Council Summit at Fontana Village Resort. This Summit hosted around 60 youth and county advisors and was the kick-off to a regional youth partnership and collaboration. "We are working hard to establish this much-needed collaboration within the region and our youth are so excited to make an impact throughout North Carolina," said Sky Kanott, Cherokee Youth Council program manager. The Summit was dedicated in loving memory to Damien Heater and the ongoing fight against bullying. The youth are shown wearing t-shirts representing their youth council including: EBCI – neon yellow, Haywood – royal blue, Macon – purple, Cherokee – orange, Swain – red, Jackson – dark red and Graham – baby blue. Gettin' Wild: Hickory Nuts

By DR. DAVID COZZO
RTCAR PROJECT DIRECTOR

Once asked a fellow here in Cherokee why I did not see many hickory trees and he said, "You won't see many above the road."

His point was hickory trees make the best firewood and a good tree would be cut for winter's fuel. It is also a very heavy wood, so hauling one down the hill is a lot more sensible than hauling one up hill. Hickory has tough, durable wood which had a wide range of uses, such as tool handles, chair parts, and basket handles. The inner bark of hickory is good for finishing basket rims, and weaving a chair seat from that same inner bark will last for generations. But this series is about wild foods, and with that in mind there is a great reason to encourage more hickory trees: the nuts.

Hickory nuts are a highly nutritious and tasty food. They contain nearly as much protein as chicken and are a great source of minerals, especially calcium, magnesium, phosphorous, and potassium. They are also a good source of folate (folic acid), one of the vitamins important to expectant mothers. Hickory nuts are high in fat, but it is really good fat. The bulk of the oil consists of monounsaturated fatty acids, the beneficial kind found in olive oil and avocados. Oils high in monounsaturated fatty acids tend to lower LDL cholesterol (the 'bad' cholesterol), prevent heart disease, and decrease insulin resistance, making hickory nuts a good food for diabetics. Even though they are high in fat, nuts are also considered great food for dieters. The dense nutrients and fiber tend to satisfy hunger longer, lessening the urge for a snack. But be careful you don't overdo it or you will lose those good effects.

If you have ever cracked hickory nuts, you know how much work it can be. The shells are very tough and picking out the nut meats is time consuming. One study determined it would take around eight hours of work to get enough calories to meet one person's daily needs. However, this is where native technology made the process more efficient. Hickory nuts were cracked and the largest part of the shell removed. The remaining nut meats and pieces of shell were placed in the corn mortar (kanona) and pounded into a paste. The resulting paste was rolled into a large ball that was placed in boiling water to make a soup broth (kanuchi). The shells that remained in the paste would separate from the paste and sink to the bottom of the pot. So how much more efficient was the mortaring process than cracking and picking out the nut meats? The same study mentioned above found that using the corn mortar provided from 12 to 35 times more energy (depending on the type of hickory nut) than just cracking and picking. Now that's good technology! And the taste? I once had hickory nut milk made in a blender. It had a great flavor and it was like sipping the finest cream. I can only imagine how good that soup tasted.

Cherokee Indian Hospital and Press Ganey

Have you been a patient on Inpatient, been to the Emergency Room or visited Outpatient lately? If you have, you could be getting a phone call. Cherokee Indian Hospital is required by the Center for Medicare/Medicaid Services to survey its patients. So, if you've had a hospital stay, a doctor's appointment or been to the Emergency Room, a man or woman from Press Ganey may be calling.

Press Ganey is the company that Cherokee Indian Hospital contracts with to conduct their surveys. The surveyor will ask you questions about your stay, your visit and the care you were provided. It should take less than fifteen minutes.

This survey is very important to Cherokee Indian Hospital and affects our reimbursement rates. It also helps us improve services, environments, and care. This survey lets Medicare/Medicaid know how we are ranked against other similar sized hospitals. We need your help! If you get a call from Press Ganey, please take the survey and give your feedback. Your input can help improve the care you receive. Thank for taking the time.

Qualla Housing Authority Tenant Recertification Final Notice!

As stated in section 28 of the signed lease agreement, tenants must participate in an annual recertification process. This process is to serve both the tenant and QHA's needs in maintaining accurate tenant information and ensuring that both parties are informed of any changes to ensure the HUD policies and guidelines are being met. Failure to participate in the annual recertification process is considered non-compliance to the lease agreement and is grounds for commencement of the eviction process. The tenants listed below have been informed on several occasions of their need to participate in the recertification process and have failed to do so as of October 29, 2012. This posting will serve as an additional final notice. Upon failure to schedule AND participate in the recertification process by Monday, November 12, 2012, QHA will commence the eviction process.

James Kanott	Jessica George
Brandi Lambert	Jessie Honeycutt
Gary Sequoyah	Jessica Burrell
Mike Walkingstick	Clarissa Wilnoty

The names listed below have commenced their recertification but as of October 29, 2012 have failed to provide the additional documents required to complete their recertification. Failure to complete the recertification is considered ground for eviction.

Denise Panther
Cynthia Whitecotton
Jeff Frady
Hannah Frady
Cheryl Maney
Charles Owle

If you have already contacted QHA and participated in the Recertification Process prior to this posting, please disregard this notice. If you still have not completed your Annual Recertification, please call the Rental Occupancy Specialist, Kim Smith, at 497-9161 and schedule an appointment for recertification by Monday, November 12, 2012. 11/8
