QUOTE OF THE WEEK

"It's a good day for stickball."

- Leroy Littlejohn, an elder of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, said before each stickball game played during the 107th Cherokee Indian Fair. A fluent Cherokee speaker, Littlejohn told the history and taught Cherokee language words to those present as he called each game played during the Fair.

Veterans honored at 107th Cherokee Indian Fair

Photos by Scott McKie B.P./One Feather

Principal Chief Richard G. Sneed, a U.S. Marine Corps veteran, was awarded the Chapel of the Four Chaplains Bronze Medallion during the Veteran's Day honoring event at the 107th Cherokee Indian Fair at the Cherokee Indian Fairgrounds on the afternoon of Friday, Oct. 11. In the first photo, Gregory Hunt, right, reads the award nomination while EBCI First Lady Trina Sneed and Chief Sneed listen.

Chief Sneed spoke at the event and said it is important to honor all veterans. "We call them heroes. But, if you ask any veteran, they would say they were just doing their duty. They are out brightest and our best who were willing to lay down their lives for the cost of freedom."

During the program, the Museum of the Cherokee Indian presented the newest copy of "The Journal of Cherokee Studies", which details the heroics of PFC Charles George, Medal of Honor recipient, and the efforts to get bronze statues of him made. Shown, left to right, are - Col. Robert Blankenship (Ret.), Museum of the Cherokee Indian board of directors; Lew Harding, Steve Youngdeer American Legion Post 143 Commander; Joyce Cooper, co-author of the Journal; Dawn Arneach, Museum of the Cherokee Indian interim executive director; and Gregory Hunt, Post 143.

Maj. Gen. Mike Regner (USMC Ret.) is presented a "Grateful Nation" Pendleton blanket by Chief Sneed. Maj. Gen. Regner spoke during the event and greeted veterans.

Col. Blankenship, left, is greeted by Maj. Gen. Regner during a gift presentation from the Office of the Principal Chief in which each veteran present received a special commemorative hat. Col. Blankenship, a member of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, served in the Vietnam War and received a Bronze Star and multiple Air Medals for his service and valor.

Ethan Ledford, right, a member of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians and a veteran, is presented with a Quilt of Valor from Carli Nichols of the Smoky Mountain Quilters Guild. As of this event, the Guild has presented 1,138 quilts to veterans.

Remember the Removal Bike Ride

Trail of Tears Memorial

Now Accepting Applications for 2020
Due: Friday November 8, 2019 by 4:30 to Cherokee Choices
For more information or to download an application visit:
<http://cherokee-phhs.com/cherokee-choices/>

Sponsored by: The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians & Cherokee Nation of Oklahoma

The Remember the Removal Bike Ride is a 3 week, 950 mile bicycle journey from New Echota, Georgia to Tahlequah, Oklahoma following the Northern Route of the trail of tears. While on this ride, you will retrace the steps of your ancestors as they were forced to march through the wild into an unknown land. You will in some ways get to relive a part of that terrible experience and yet celebrate the human triumph of our people. Learn and utilize traditional Cherokee values to reconnect with your heritage, culture and tradition as you follow the path of ones that came before you.

Eligibility requirements:

- ✓ You must be at least 15 years of age to ride by January 1, 2020.
- ✓ You must be an Enrolled member of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians. (Official Enrollment Card required upon applying)
- ✓ If selected to do so, must be willing to participate in Interview process.
- ✓ If selected, must be willing to do a background check.
- ✓ Must have a letter of support from current supervisor if holding an EBCI job (i.e., Tribal, CIHA, Boys club, and CCS).
- ✓ The ride is completely supported and funded, and open to any EBCI Enrolled member that is interested and physically able.
- ✓ If selected, must be willing to commit to 5 months of training leading up to the ride and the 3 weeks for the ride itself.
- ✓ If selected, must be willing to get and pass a physical by January 2020.
- ✓ Must be willing to raise money to cover all remaining costs for the trip if applicable.
- ✓ If selected, must be willing to commit up to 40 hours of education specific to Cherokee history and values.

If you have the desire to take on this life changing opportunity, apply today! -- <http://cherokee-phhs.com/cherokee-choices/>

*Note: Only a limited amount of slots are available and riders will be selected through an application process and panel interview.

Brian Clowdus looks to bring a new Halloween tradition with Sleepy Hollow

JONAH LOSSIAH
ONE FEATHER STAFF

The Sleepy Hollow Experience is coming to Cherokee starting this Thursday, Oct. 17.

Brian Clowdus, the producer and director, wants to make the show as impactful for the audience as possible. He is presenting the show as a 360 degrees experience that will take advantage of what the Mountainside Theatre has to offer.

"For me it's thrilling, it's the only way that I produce. My company is called Brian Clowdus Experiences because I don't like calling things plays. I don't like saying you're coming to a musical or theatre. Because I feel like the general public thinks that's kind of boring. And the great thing about these experiential pieces is that it really is accessible and entertaining and immersive for everyone."

Clowdus says that it's been a blast of nostalgia to be back in Cherokee. He grew up in Alabama, and he distinctly remembers his trips to Cherokee and the mountains of North Carolina for family vacations.

Clowdus got his start in theatre as an actor but realized about 11 years ago that the producer/director role is his passion. The Sleepy

Hollow Experience has been a significant part of his growth over the past few years.

"This show has actually been in development for seven years. Cherokee will mark our fifth opening this month."

The other four locations are in Tarrytown, New York; Columbus, Ohio; Boston, Mass.; and the original location in Atlanta, Ga. Clowdus says that an essential facet of each show is embracing what each area and theatre has to offer.

"We're going to utilize this incredible set. Funny enough, there's a scene that takes place in a schoolhouse, so we're going to use the cabin. There's a church seen, so we're going to use the church. It's kind of crazy how all of these scenic pieces that are used for Unto These Hills, we're going to get to repurpose and creep out for Sleepy Hollow."

Clowdus says that he hopes to make everything in the theatre something for the audience to take in. This is one of the primary reasons that attendance is being limited to the first 500 seats in the theatre.

"Once the audience members get out of their cars, they are in the world," said Sarah Elaine, who is playing Katrina Van Tassel.

"They are in Sleepy Hollow. You get the experience right when you step foot outside. There's pre-show stuff that always happens; there's so much audience interaction."

Elaine is one of five primary actors in this production. She and one other, Karley Rene, are from Atlanta and have worked with Clowdus before. Elaine says that she has enjoyed working with Clowdus in the past, but this production has been different.

"Not only do I love the collaborative effort we as a cast and production crew have been able to have, I just love the area we're in too. It's so beautiful here, and I've really enjoyed being able to come here and do a show. Everyone's been so welcoming, and it's been such a refreshing new change of pace.”

Farley Norman, the man playing Ichabod Crane, has been on a shortlist for some time. The other two were locally cast, which is something that Clowdus likes to do with his experiences.

“I always hold local auditions because I also like the projects to feel like they’re based in the community. I think you do that, outside of the local touches on the show, by incorporating locals into the show.” Cody Taylor and Thaddeus Walker were both in recent performances of Unto These Hills. Taylor, who portrayed Reverend John F. Schermerhorn in this past season of Unto These Hills, will be of the two storytellers in the Sleepy Hollow cast. Walker, who was Junaluska in Unto These Hills, will play the role of Brom Bones. There will be 11 actors as ‘creepy critters,’ all of whom were also brought via the Unto These Hills cast.

“It’s incredibly strange, especially because I’m used to working with like 70 or so people. It’s a big, big space and a big backspace. It’s very strange to have mostly five characters running around this separate world, basically, but it’s incredibly fun,” said Taylor.

Along with the size of the space and the small cast, all the actors will have the challenge of singing and playing instruments during the twenty-four shows over the next three weeks.

There will be two shows every Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday until Nov. 3. Ticket information can be found at <https://www.cherokeehistorical.org/the-sleepy-hollow-experience/>. “The goal is for this to come back every year. Of course, it’s all based on year one, but the goal is that it becomes a Halloween tradition for Cherokee,” said Clowdus.

“All the other venues I’m in, it has become really successful for the community, and it’s something that has become a tradition. I love this space. I love this community.”

Owl named leader of CLA tribal government practice

ARLINGTON, Va. - CLA (CliftonLarsonAllen LLP), a national professional services firm, has announced Samuel Owl, CPA, as leader of its national tribal government practice.

Samuel T. Owl Jr., CPA, CGMA, is a member of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians who grew up in a tribal community and recognizes the unique opportunity he has to serve tribes with CLA. Combined with his nearly 17 years of experience in the tribal community, Sam will lead CLA's national tribal practice to provide opportunities, exceptional services, and create lasting value for clients.

"CLA is a professional services firm with a national presence that is committed to serving tribal governments and entities," said Owl. "Since joining CLA in 2017, it has become clear our professionals in the tribal services industry understand tribal sovereignty and value the firm's evolving relationships with tribes."

"My peers and I are immersed in both the challenges and opportunities facing Indian Country. Our goal is always to be seen as a strategic advisor and create opportunities for the tribes, tribal enterprises, and tribal organizations we work with to assist them in realizing their potential through economic development."

Prior to his role with CLA, Owl served as the chief financial officer with the National Congress of American Indians and in the Transaction Services team at PricewaterhouseCoopers.

Harrah's Cherokee receives Readers' Choice award from ConventionSouth

ConventionSouth Magazine has presented Harrah's Cherokee Casino Resort with a 2019 Readers' Choice Award. ConventionSouth is a national multimedia resource for planning events in the South and this is the 3rd time Harrah's Cherokee has received the award.

"ConventionSouth readers and fans have voted to decide the best meeting sites in the South, and it is no surprise to us that Harrah's Cherokee Casino Resort has been selected to receive our annual Readers' Choice Award," said ConventionSouth Senior Editor Marcia Bradford.

Throughout 2019 over 7,000 voters participated in the selection process with the highest participation rates to date. This is the third year in row that Harrah's Cherokee Casino Resort has received the award.

Harrah's Cherokee Casino Resort conference resources are expanding to add 83,000 square feet of convention space in addition to 725 new hotel rooms. The Cherokee Convention Center and The Cherokee at Harrah's Cherokee are slated to open in 2021.

Celebrating over 30 years as a leading meeting planning resource, ConventionSouth magazine is based in Gulf Shores, Ala., and is distributed to more than 18,000 meeting professionals located across the country who book meetings held within the South, according to O'Connor.

OBITUARIES

Alexander Hornbuckle

Alexander Hornbuckle, 81, of Cherokee, passed away following a period of declining health at the Cherokee Indian Hospital on Oct. 6, 2019.

Alexander was the son of the late John Russell Hornbuckle Sr. and Stacy (Crowe) Hornbuckle of Cherokee. He was bright, spirited man who loved his garden and the outdoors in general. He was a lover of all Cherokee sports and was known to hand out Gatorade and other support products to assist the many athletes to do their best in whatever rivalry they may be competing.

Alexander was also a veteran of the U.S. Navy serving in the Pacific Theater and retired from custodial work with the US Government. He will be missed.

Alexander leaves behind his children, two sons, Mingo Hornbuckle (Renee) of Cherokee, Buddy Hornbuckle (Terry) of Robbinsville; one daughter, Stacey Hornbuckle Harsh (Chris) of Cherokee; eight grandchildren, Shawnee of Messa, Ariz. and Adrian, Hali, Ajai, Chayton, Darius, Avi, and Uriah; and four great grandchildren of North Carolina.

Along with his parents, Alexander was preceded in death by nine Siblings.

Funeral services were held on Thursday, Oct. 10 at Wright's Creek Baptist Church. A burial followed the services in the Birdtown Cemetery with pallbearers being Tim Smith, Bunsey Crowe, Bo Lossiah, Pete Taylor, and Chayton and Darius Thompson. Graveside services honoring his duty to his country were held.

Long House Funeral Home assisted the family in the final arrangements.

Ronald "Ron" Sheridan Haigler

Ronald "Ron" Sheridan Haigler, 77, born Oct. 12, 1941 passed away peacefully on Oct. 09, 2019 at the Midwest Harris Hospital in Sylva following a period of declining health do to diabetes and COPD. He was the son of the late Don Haigler and Cora (McLeymore) Haigler and a member of the Eastern Band of the Cherokee Indians and a life-long resident of Cherokee and Bryson City.

Along with his parents, Ronald was preceded in death by brothers, LeRoy, Robert, Edward, Eugene and William Haigler; and two sisters, Evelyn Kay and Betty Elaine Haigler.

Ronald was always a pleasant and fun to be around and his "candid" and dry humor will be missed. Rest in Peace "Ron".

Ronald is survived by brothers, Frank Haigler of Lincoln, Calif., Tom Haigler (wife Rosemarie) of Bryson City, John Lowery Haigler (wife Melba) of Cherokee; sister, Mary Lou Salter of Richmond, Ky. and Milton, Fla.; and, many nieces and nephews.

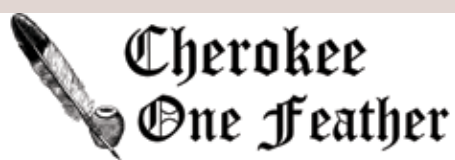

Funeral services were held Friday, Oct. 11 in the Chapel of Long House Funeral Home with the Rev. James "Bo" Parris officiating. An immediate burial followed the service in the Birdtown Cemetery of the Cherokee Community with friends of the family acting as Pall Bearers.

Something fishy at the Fairgrounds

At the carnival at this year's Cherokee Indian Fair, goldfish and turtles were given as prizes for some of the games.

ROBERT JUMPER
ONE FEATHER EDITOR

For years, the Cherokee Indian Fairgrounds was an "animal prize" free zone. I know because I was the one who instituted the policy during the years that game vendors with live prizes were turned away. This year, for whatever reason, that policy was reversed or ignored.

The reason I chose to keep live animal prize vendors off the grounds is my convictions against animal cruelty. Don't get me wrong; I am not one of those who think fishers, hunters, and zookeepers should be banished from the planet. Many of those groups are animal conservationists, some by accident and some on purpose. For example, hunters help control prey game whose populations would explode beyond our ability to feed them because changes in the environment have eliminated or retarded natural predation. The same is valid with fishers. In the case of zoos, those animal keepers, when providing suitable, clean environments, allow domesticated animals and wild animals that have become a danger to themselves or society and are unable to return to the wild, a place to live out their remaining years and remind us through education what conservation is all about.

But, there are instances where we, as a people, show our disregard for the sanctity of life. We show how inconsequential life is to us, even life as small as a goldfish or a turtle. We, as a native people, have revered life, all life, in our faith and culture. It is a common theme among tribes; the love of natural things and life being chief among them. A common theme in native cultures is the belief that all animals have spirits and are to be treated with respect. You will see in many of the histories of Native tribes' that they respected life so much that, when they killed an animal they prayed to the Creator for having to take the life and prayed thanks to the animal. Animals were not to be treated inhumanely, and killing an animal had to have a purpose in Native cultures. It was part necessity, part tradition that when an animal was taken, all parts of the animal would be used for the continuation of the killer's life. Meat and fat were taken for food. Hides were taken for shelter and clothing. Bones were used for weapons and utensils. Animals were not traditionally killed for a quick profit or personal gratification.

From an animal perspective, it is cruel and inhumane to deprive animals of a living environment conducive to their survival. Average day temperatures at the Fair have been in the seventies and eighties. The ideal water temperature for the common goldfish is between 65 and 68 degrees, which is cooler than tropical fish aquariums. The goldfish at the Fairgrounds are at an open carnival booth in a 10 to 20-gallon tank. Giving the benefit of the doubt, the fish may be in a livable temperature while in the aquarium. Oxygen is another consideration for the fish. Fish "breathe" oxygen from the water. Oxygen is transferred to the water through the surface of the water, where the water meets the air; the less exposed surface area in the tank, the less its capacity to sustain life. Fishkeeping experts say that, for goldfish, the rule of thumb is one fish for every 10 gallons of water. So, for a 20-gallon tank, the maximum capacity would be two goldfish. It is possible to artificially infuse oxygen into an aquarium with an air pump or bubbler, but I did not see one in use at the tank at the Fair. Also, in that tank, there were 30 or more goldfish.

These goldfish were there to be given for prizes if you played and won a carnival game. If you win, the vendor takes a small clear container, possibly holding two pints of water, scoops a goldfish out of the aquarium and deposits it in your little container. Now, you have been given an already stressed goldfish that may already be oxygen-deprived in a container that cannot possibly sustain its life for than a couple of hours, maybe even minutes. What do you do?

From a human perspective: I was taking my turn at the One Feather booth where we were taking entries for our camera giveaway. A fair-goer came by the booth and was carrying one of the little, water-filled, plastic containers with a small body inside it, floating at the top of the water. The lady carrying the container hadn't noticed that she was carrying a dead body around the Fairgrounds as she enjoyed shopping and sightseeing at the Fair. Dramatic? Possibly. Reality? Absolutely.

Teaching our children the value of life is essential. Some of our adults need the same education. We worry about video games messing up our kids' minds when they enter a fantasy world and experience simulated death. What do you think it does to a person's psyche when they experience the death of a real living creature, and it is treated as a sideshow at a carnival or something to be dumped in a big green trash can at the Cherokee Indian Fair? If any of you think that any life is tiny and meaningless, I believe more's the pity. We should not get so preoccupied with our momentary satisfaction that we ignore suffering and death, no matter how small that life may be. Also, from a human perspective: Reptiles are known for their disease-carrying capacity. Most states have banned the sale and transfer of turtles because of the turtles' tendency to carry Salmonella. "Salmonella infection (salmonellosis) is a common bacterial disease that affects the intestinal tract. Salmonella bacteria typically live in animal and human intestines and are shed through feces. Humans become infected most frequently through contaminated water or food. Typically, people with salmonella infection have no symptoms" (www.mayoclinic.org). The fact that turtles are known to possibly carry this bacterium prompted the Federal Food and Drug Administration to ban the sale and transfer of "baby" turtles. Now, there is a caveat in the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) concerning the distribution of turtles over four inches, which looks to be the case at the Fair, that it is acceptable to sell those. I guess the reasoning is that people are less likely to handle the larger turtles. They still are bacteria carriers, just less likely to be in contact with people. Still, it is disheartening to see turtles, which are revered in our Cherokee stories and part of our Cherokee culture, in a fish tank in a prize booth at, of all places, our Cherokee Indian Fair.

These are not stuffed animals or balloon figures. They are living, breathing creatures. "I think I will go to the Fair and win myself a pet," said no one ever. We do not honor ourselves or these animals by allowing this practice to continue. There is no honor in the needless suffering of any creature, great or small. I hope that our tribal leadership will consider a complete ban on this practice.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Tribal member wants juvenile justice laws changed

Last year, my wife's car was stolen from the Casino parking deck. The next day, we got it back with thousands of dollars worth of damages. The three juveniles (tribal members) were caught on video stealing it. The police named them all. Do you know what happened to them? NOTHING. So, apparently juveniles can do whatever they want with no repercussions. When will the Tribe change these laws to make sense?

SPEAKING OF FAITH

REV. TIMOTHY L. MELTON, PASTOR
CHEROKEE PENTECOSTAL HOLINESS
CHURCH

Read and Study Acts 9:1-22 (KJV)

“Josephus, a Roman historian of that era, chronicled Saul as a lost man, a secular man, and many agreed with him. Saul, who later was called Paul, was described as short (about 4-foot), bow-legged, cross-eyed, a unified brow, (caveman-like). It really does not matter what one looks like or one’s background, especially when the Holy Spirit is on the scene.

“On the day of Pentecost, Peter and the other disciples, after the Holy Spirit had come upon them, went out into the streets of Jerusalem, their ‘threshing floor.’ Sharing their testimony, at least 3,000 heard and were baptized—the beginning of the Church. As Jesus had promised them and all believers, and stated in Acts 1:8, ‘You shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you, you shall be witnesses...’—‘commensurate’—in direct proportion to the amount of time spent with the Lord. They had been told to ‘tarry—remain there’ until they’d been empowered.

“As stated in Acts 9, Paul began to ‘exercise’ the giving of his testimony, for he knew he had not been empowered just ‘to do nothing’. Paul spent his time also learning more about Jesus from the other believers in Damascus before he was to begin his worldwide ministry. He no longer waited to begin giving his own witness to others. Although no one should rush into a ministry unprepared, no one needs to wait before telling others what’s happened to them. Who can really argue with someone’s testimony? The church can’t be lazy in doing the same.”

“Paul’s most powerful witness was always in them seeing his changed life for themselves. People knew what Paul taught was genuine and real because they could see the evidence in the way he lived. It’s important to know what the Bible teaches and how to defend the faith, but a life should also back up their words as a regular experience, not a performance to just amaze others.” (From NLT Study Bible.)

“He was saying, ‘Jesus—He’s a free gift—just ask for Him. He started telling everyone—and he’s never stopped—even to this day.”

“He began getting stronger every day. His prayers were bold. There were healings and raisings from the dead. He ‘exercised’ and there was increase! Love is God’s Plan to bring Himself into our earthly realm and into His Kingdom!”

(In remembering an earlier historical event given to us from the Old Testament, of three kings who were facing their enemies, the Assyrians, and how thirsty they were as they sought help from God. They were told by Him to dig ditches, ‘bunches of them,’ all over that particular dry valley. They were to dig deep for the ditches were to hold much water. Overnight, after they had obeyed God in carrying out His commandment, and without even a storm having been heard, God filled all of the water ditches they had dug. Their previous lack of water was quietly and abundantly being filled to overflowing, turning into the ‘much water’ they’d needed to show up in that valley. (This should prove, ‘God is the same, yesterday, today and forever.’)

What added to the whole picture was God’s ‘red dawn’, with the rising of the sun. To the Assyrians looking towards the direction of the sunrise, they saw what looked like a valley full of bloody water—as if there had been a great slaughter. The Assyrians coming down to that valley weren’t prepared for what they saw and so they actually fled! Praise God for His faithfulness and wisdom in their time of need for water. He ‘fought their battle’ and won it without a fight!

“If you love me, obey my commandments. And, I will ask the Father, and he will give you another Advocate, who will never leave you. He is the Holy Spirit, who leads into all truth. The world cannot receive him, because it is not looking for him. But you know him, because he lives with you now and later will be in you.”
John 14:15-17 (NLT)

The Holy Spirit is the very presence of God within us as believers, helping us live as God wants and building Christ’s church on earth. By faith, we can appropriate the Spirit’s power each day.

The Holy Spirit has been, since the Acts’ Pentecost, coming to live in all believers. Many are unaware of the Holy Spirit’s activities, but to those who hear Christ’s words and understand the Spirit’s power, the Spirit gives a new way to look at life.

Dressing Up Pooch for Halloween

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: My 2-year-old pooch "Sookie" and I have been invited to three separate Halloween-themed play dates, plus we are walking in a doggy parade to raise funds for the local shelter. Naturally, costumes are expected at all these events. Problem is, Sookie cannot stand to wear anything heavier than a doggie jumper. What kind of costume would work for this type of dog? — Geraldine, via email

DEAR GERALDINE: Halloween-themed play dates with costumes are pretty much for the guests' entertainment — the dogs could care less. They just want to socialize with the other dogs. Wearing a costume that your dog is clearly uncomfortable in is no fun for Sookie.

Look for practical costuming ideas that Sookie won't notice. If she is OK with doggie sweaters, how about a sweater with a superhero emblem printed on it? What about a Halloween-themed bandanna, if she's comfortable wearing one? A decorated collar or leash also is fine. If you don't want to design the costume yourself, pet stores stock a range of ready-made costumes, or you can order one online. Or four, if you want her to wear a different outfit to each party.

You don't have to go all out, even if the Instagram photos of elaborately costumed pups tempt you to do so. Put Sookie's comfort and safety first.

If you really want her to walk into the parties wearing some creative headgear, try it out at home first. If Sookie can wear a tiara or devil horns for a few minutes without discomfort, you can take it off after showing her to the other guests. If she shakes the headgear off, whines or otherwise seems distressed, don't use it.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) It might not be wise to pursue goals involving others, unless you can stop impulsively rejecting new ideas. Either open your mind or wait until next week, when this "ornery" mood passes.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It's a good time for the Bovine to be creative and practical for yourself and your surroundings. Shop wisely, not impulsively, and keep your Bull's eye focused on quality, not quantity.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You should feel more confident about moving ahead with plans that had to be delayed by an unexpected turn of events. Also, family matters might need more time than first anticipated.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Be considerate of others as you move into a new area in your professional life. Take time to meet people and discuss mutual goals. The more you get to know each other, the better.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Creating a fuss could get your ideas noticed quickly. But it would be best to present your case, and then wait for a reaction to follow in due course, rather than try to force it to happen.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Unkept promises might cause plans to go awry this week. You can either grumble about people "letting you down" or find a way to make the best of it and move on. The choice is yours.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Putting off making a commitment early in the week could be a good move. It's best to act when you know you're making an informed decision. Expect more facts to emerge by the week's end.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A recent act of kindness on your part could take on special meaning this week. Also, look for signs of upcoming changes in both your personal and professional relationships.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Many of the tougher communication barriers between you and others in the workplace or at home could begin breaking down this week. Expect some surprises to emerge.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Your "tough love" attitude toward someone you care for could be misunderstood. Try to be less judgmental and show more consideration in the way you relate to that person.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) An unexpected workplace challenge could be daunting. But take what you know (and you know more than you realize) and apply it to the problem, and you should see positive results.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Recent relationship changes for both single and paired Pisces continue to influence much of your week. Keep your focus on developing the positive aspects as you move along.

BORN THIS WEEK: You set your goals with assurance and influence others to follow suit. You would be an excellent philosopher and teacher.
