Graham Foundation presents Donations

Cherokee Youth Council gets $7K contribution from Foundation

The Graham Foundation, a family foundation in Greenville, SC, has made an $8,000 donation to the Jones-Bowman Leadership Award Program and a $7,000 contribution to the Cherokee Youth Council. The donation to the Jones-Bowman program is the second large check from the Graham Foundation this year.

Stephen Lambert, Program Director of the Graham Foundation, presented the two checks during an October 15 meeting at Cherokee Preservation Foundation.

Lambert, an EBCI tribal member, said, "We are honored and humbled to contribute to the Cherokee Youth Council and the Jones-Bowman Leadership Award Program. We are happy to be a part of their continuing success."

The Jones-Bowman Leadership Awards Program helps college undergraduates who are members of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians develop leadership skills. The program was established by Cherokee Preservation Foundation in 2007 to honor the late Principal Chief Leon Jones and Mr. James Bowman, founding members of the Foundation's Board of Directors. Since the program's start, 14 young people have received cash awards to apply to development activities such as special academic enrichment programs, travel, leadership training, and sponsored volunteer service. For more information about the Jones-Bowman program, contact Alicia Jacobs at 828/497-5550 or visit www.cpfdn.org/jonesbowman.html.

The Cherokee Youth Council was established in 2007 with help from Cherokee Preservation Foundation and the Cherokee Cooperative Extension Center. Modeled after Cherokee Grand Councils that were conducted for many generations to deliberate on important matters, the Cherokee Youth Council enables Cherokee youth to be involved in addressing issues that directly affect them It provides an atmosphere for its approximately 20 members to voice their opinions and develop leadership skills.

Jessica Munson and Gerard Ball, who are Jones-Bowman Fellows, accepted the $8,000 grant on behalf of the Jones-Bowman Leadership Awards Program, and Karina Bottchenbaugh accepted the $7,000 grant to the Cherokee Youth Council. Representing Cherokee Preservation Foundation (CPFdn) at the event were Luke D. Hyde (Chairman of the CPFdn Board of Directors), Susan Jenkins (Executive Director of CPFdn), Charlie Myers, Bobby Raines, Deb Mintz, Alicia Jacobs and Sasha Watty.

UKB mourns passing of Tribal Secretary

The United Keetoowah Band of Cherokee Indians (UKB) is mourning the passing of the UKB Tribal Secretary Liz Littledave. Mrs. Littledave passed away at Hillcrest Hospital in Tulsa, Oklahoma at approximately 7 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 15. Funeral services were conducted by Reed Culver at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 19 at Twenty-Nine Eleven Church located on 3229 South Muskogee Ave., in Tahlequah.

NEWS ka-no-he-da

Liz's parents were Dick and Hester Guess. Her maternal grandfather was the Reverend Jim Chair. She was married to Hominy Littledave for 28 years. She had two children, Mary Mc-Carter and David McCarter.

Liz and her husband Hominy were members of the Gospel Music Ministry group, The Melody-Aires, a group of four people singing traditional fourpart Southern Gospel Harmony. The other couple in the group was Francine and J.D. Rozell. Each member held a true Christian understanding of what Music Ministry was all about.

Liz Littledave had been with the United Keetoowah Band for the past nine years. She served as Coordinator for the Human Services Department before being elected Tribal Secretary. She was serving her second term in that capacity.

Mrs. Littledave graduated from NSU with a teacher's degree. She taught at Briggs School, served as Lead Residential Coordinator for Talking Leaves Job Corps, and worked at the Oaks Indian Center as Assistant Director, where she served as a court advocate for children and their families. Her working history of 40+ years with only five jobs reflects her reliability, accountability, and dependability. In her role as Tribal Secretary, Liz headed up the Secretary's office as well as the Enrollment Department.

"Liz was very devoted to her family, her religion, her tribe and the cause," said UKB Chief George Wickliffe. "She was very much a part of all the gains that the UKB has made. I think I speak for all the administration and council that she will be missed. Her leadership will be hard to replace. UKB should always continue to honor her in that manner by continuing all of the progress that she stood for."

Traditional Basketmaking and the Environment to be discussed at Cherokee conference

By BETH JOHNSON RTCAR

Gathering Places: Traditional Basketmaking and the Environment is a conference that seeks to bring together basketmakers from diverse tribal and traditional origins to discuss ways of maintaining access to the native materials used in basketry through ecological restoration, propagation of plants, access through public or private lands, education, sustainable harvesting, etc.

Gathering Places, an event supported by the Cherokee Preservation Foundation, will be held Nov. 12-14 at the Great Smokies Center in Cherokee. The conference will present panel discussions and speakers and give participants time to network with others. It is hoped that by sharing strategies, participants will come away with new solutions to the shortage of materials they face and an awareness of issues surrounding traditional basketry from other traditions. It will also be a chance to meet basketmakers from other parts of the The idea of this confercountry. ence grew out of conversations between RTCAR (Revitalization of Traditional Cherokee Artisan Resources) and Joyce V. Coakley, a Sweetgrass basketmaker and member of the Gullah culture of Lowcountry South Carolina about the shortages of materials facing both communities. A desire to share resources and ideas to encourage both traditions led to the idea of expanding the conversation to include members of other Native American traditions.

Details about the program will be finalized later but in addition to presenters from Cherokee, we will have presenters from Hawaii, Oklahoma, South Carolina and Michigan.

One of the first people to sign on was Sabra Kauka, a Hawaiian Studies teacher and cultural practitioner on the island of Kaua'i. She is a basketweaver and will be speaking about the multi-level partnerships that are working there to assure a steady supply of quality basketry materials. Kelly Church (Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa-Chippewa) will talk about the Emerald Ash Borer and the effects of this bug on the ash basketry traditions of the Northeast.

Registration for this conference is limited so please sign up as soon as possible. Applications are available from RTCAR's website www.rtcar.org. Info: Beth Johnson 554-6925

This event is open to the public. Adults and children from Cherokee are welcome and encouraged to attend.

Over the past month it has provided outdoor class room experience to three area school systems, Hayesville (Clay County), Murphy (Cherokee County), and Hiawassee, Ga. (Towns County), through a curriculum developed by Sandy Nicolette (CCCRA) and the EBCI.

Following the dedication, lunch will be provided to those traveling in from Cherokee and beyond at the Spike Buck Mound pavilion in the Clay County Recreation Park, one quarter mile from the exhibit.

Bryson City Tax Return Preparer in Trouble

Justice Department files Civil Injunction against firm

WASHINGTON - The United States has sued a Bryson City, N.C., tax return preparer seeking to bar her and her company from preparing federal tax returns for others, the Justice Department announced on Thursday, Oct. 14. The civil injunction suit alleges that Jody S. Ball, doing business as Jody Ball Accounting and The Tax Lady Inc., claims bogus deductions and credits on customers' federal tax returns.

Ball allegedly included fabricated claims for charitable deductions, business expenses and other deductions on tax returns that she and her businesses have prepared since 2006. According to the government's complaint, Ball, who had penalties imposed against her in 2004 for similar conduct involving customer returns for 2001, 2002 and 2003, prepared more than 1,600 federal income tax returns since 2006. The Internal Revenue Service audited 144 of those returns, and approximately 80 percent of them understated customers' tax liabilities.

In the past 10 years the Justice Department's Tax Division has obtained injunctions against hundreds of tax return preparers and tax fraud promoters. Information about these cases is available on the Justice Department website www.justice.gov/tax/taxpress2010.

Some of the Cherokee Runners group are planning to take part in the 35th Marine Corps Marathon including (left-right) Brian Burgess, Stephen Swimmer, Skye Littledave, Jim Oocumma, Gerri Grady, Sean Grady (will participate in MCM 10K), Chris Reed and Marlene Arch (MCM 10K). Robin Swimmer (not pictured) also plans to run in the marathon.

Tribal Members to participate in Marine Corps Marathon

By SCOTT MCKIE B.P. ONE FEATHER STAFF

Thousands of runners from across the country will converge in Washington, DC on Halloween Day (Sunday, Oct. 31) for the 35th Marine Corps Marathon and several runners from the Cherokee Runners group will be in the pack. A total of six members are planning to run in the event including: Gerri Grady, Robin Swimmer, Stephen Swimmer, Chris Reed, Jimmy Oocumma and Brian Burgess.

"The Cherokee Runners that are participating in the 35th Marine Corps Marathon are a diverse group from all age groups and walks of life," said Grady, an EBCI tribal member and member of the group. "Each one has trained at his or her own pace with the encouragement of the entire group as well as from all of our families and the Tribe. We will represent the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians with pride."

The 26.2 mile race will start near Arlington Memorial Drive and wind through the streets of Washington. Grady related that a 10K race is also being held in conjunction with the event and the following Cherokee Runners are scheduled to participate: Dawna Paul, Pam Sneed, Marlene Arch, Brian Driver, and Grady's husband Sean. Swimmer, president of the Cherokee Runners, ran in last year's event, something he doubted was possible 10 years ago as he laid in a hospital room recovering from very serious injuries sustained in a parachute accident that occurred in Washington state while on a fire-fighting jump.

"It wasn't until I met my wife Robin and started tagging along with her and her sister (Gerri) to races that the spark was rekindled for me to get back involved with running," he said. "So, when we all decided to set goals for each other, I mentioned how I had > always wanted to run the Marine Corps Marathon with all my fellow Marines that didn't make it back home from the war with me. My family talked about it and decided that this would be the goal we all should shoot for."

They ran, and they finished.

"We vowed to do it again," Swimmer said. "This time, with the spread of news from family and friends about the race, we were able to entice several more members from the reservation to take up the challenge with us."

The marathon is one of the most grueling events in all of sports and training takes many hours pounding the pavement in preparation.

Swimmer said training for this event is what initially spurred the interest to start the Cherokee Runners. He said he began slow and started with walking for 20 minutes a day and then increased that to running 20 minutes a day. Soon, he found he could run the length of the entire Oconaluftee Trail (approx. 3 miles).

"Anyone can do this," he said. "What's so neat about running the bigger races is that everyone has the same goal which is just focus on making it to the finish line – walk, run, or crawl. One of the biggest obstacles is getting over the competitive feeling of placing first. In this endeavor, it's all about pushing your own limits. You don't have to worry about finishing last...everyone finishing is treated as a winner."

He concluded with, "So, as a former Marine, I say come take up the challenge. Run…"

One of the few times of the night it seemed that Swain's Colby Hyatt was on the ground. He scored four rushing touchdowns and threw for another to lead the Maroon Devils to a 52-12 win on Friday night.

Cherokee put the ball on the ground eight times and lost six of them as they lost 52-12 to Swain at Ray Kinsland Stadium on Friday, Oct. 15. The Maroon Devils' Colby Hyatt ran for four touch-downs and threw for another as Swain out-gained the Braves in total yards 369 – 199.

Most of Cherokee's 199 yards came from Dorian Walkingstick who gained 162 yards on 24 carries and 1 TD. On the season, he has 1,393 yards on 198 carries and 11 TDs.

Swain took the opening kickoff and started at their own 34-yard line. They put together an 8-play, 66-yard drive ending on a 3-yard touchdown run by Hyatt. Evan Sneed, an EBCI tribal member, kicked the extra point and Swain led 7-0 at the 8:07 mark in the first quarter.

Cherokee had some bad luck on the ensuing kickoff as Walkingstick had problems finding the handle and fumbled out of bounds at the 1-yard line. The Braves got an illegal procedure call on first down which backed the ball up to about the 2-foot line.

They were stopped with no gain on the subsequent first down, and Cherokee QB Jesse Blanton mishandled the ball on second down. Swain defensive lineman Jacob Wildcatt, an EBCI tribal member, recovered the ball in the end zone for Swain's second score. Sneed added the extra point and Swain extended its lead to 14-0.

plays of the season for Cherokee, Greg Bradley fielded the kickoff at his own 1yard line. He moved right and then quickly darted left, found a hole, went up the left sideline and 99 yards later was in the end zone. The two-point conversion was no good and Swain led 14-6 with seven minutes still left in the first quarter. Following a Braves personal foul penalty on the ensuing kickoff, Swain started their next drive at the Cherokee 49yard line. Following runs by Hyatt of 19 yards and 15 yards, the Maroon Devils found themselves with a first and goal from the Cherokee 5-yard line.

Cherokee's defense tightened up and held them out of the end zone following two incomplete passes on second and third down. Swain settled for a field goal which was booted through the uprights and onto the roof of the Field House by Sneed. With 4:42 left in the first, Swain led 17-6. Swain got another break on the kickoff as several Braves players thought it was going to bounce out of bounds, but footballs never bounce the way you expect and a Swain player pounced on the ball.

Two plays later, Hyatt was in the end zone again – this time on a 3-yard run. Sneed's extra point made it 24-6 with three minutes left in the first quarter.

Cherokee was forced to punt on their next possession and Swain started at the Cherokee 45-yard line. Two plays later, Hyatt hit Matthew Maennle on a 23yard touchdown pass. Sneed added the extra point and Swain extended its lead to 31-6 with 1:36 left in the quarter.

Swain kicked the ball out of bounds on the kickoff and Cherokee started at its own 35-yard line. On first down, Walkingstick electrified the crowd as he took off on a 65-yard touchdown run. The two-point conversion failed and Cherokee trailed 31-12 at the end of the first quarter.

Swain started their next possession at their own 30-yard line and put together an 8-play, 70-yard drive which culminated in an 8-yard touchdown run by Hyatt. Sneed added the extra point and the Maroon Devils led 38-12 with 8:54 left in the second quarter.

With all of the scoring in the first, that was the only score in the second quarter and Swain took that lead into the locker room.

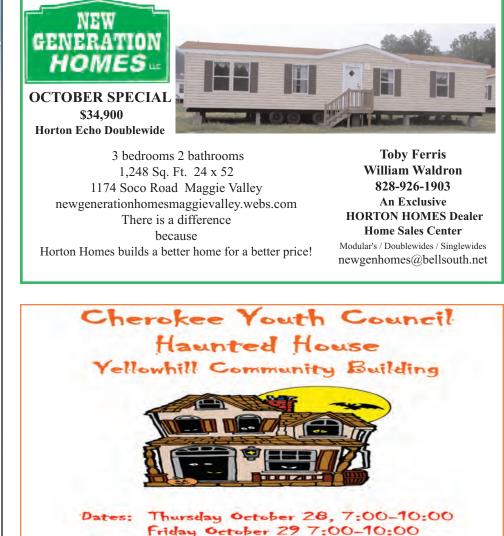

Cherokee's first possession of the second half ended as they turned it over on downs at the Swain 26-yard line. But, they would get it back quickly as Hyatt fumbled the ball which was recovered by Cherokee's Corbin Wright at the Swain 33-yard line.

Four plays later, Walkingstick would lose the handle and Swain would recover at their own 19-yard line.

Cherokee held them and Swain was forced to punt, but Bradley lost the handle on it and Swain recovered and set up shop at midfield. Four plays later, Hyatt would score his fourth rushing touchdown of the night on a 38-yard run. Sneed's kick was good and Swain led 45-12 with just over a minute left in the quarter.

Swain would go on to score again in the fourth quarter as the Maroon Devils' Dylan Rose picked up a Blanton fumble and returned it 50 yards for the score. Sneed added his seventh extra point of the night as Swain took the win 52-12.

Cherokee Golf Team having Good Year

By SHARON BRADLEY

The Cherokee High School Lady Braves have enjoyed excellent weather as the 2010 season has rolled along. We have four returning players from the 2009 season, Hannah Youngdeer, Katlin Bradley, Karleigh Reeves, and Heather Owle.

First year players who have strengthened the team are Elle Bradley, Paige Jackson, and Kayla Smith. Our practices have been centered on the instruction from the Sequoyah National Pros. Ryan Ott and his staff have been committed to the advancement of Junior golf and particularly the CHS ladies team. Their expertise and teaching abilities have made our team competitive among the AA teams and the AAA teams in Western North Carolina.

Senior team member Hannah Youngdeer has led the team in scoring; her average score is 50, which qualifies her to compete in the regional tournament to be held at Asheville Municipal on Oct. 25. Other seniors, Katlin, Paige, and Kayla have also made strong showings. Sophomore Elle Bradley has been a strong player and her relentless commitment to practice has been an inspiration to all of us. We are looking forward to her leading the team next year.

The team has played quite a few matches at area courses. Our best showing was at Sequoyah National on Sept.16 where we defeated Franklin, Enka, and North Buncombe. Hannah was the lowest scorer with a 47 on Paige Jackson walks the course. the back nine.

Windblown: A review of Only the Wind Remembers

REVIEWED By DR. HONEY DAWN KARIMA PETTIGREW

During the twentieth century, Ishi, the sole surviving member of the Yahi tribe, inspired the imagination of America. Marlo Schalesky's recent novel, Only the Wind Remembers, expands on the life of this historical figure.

Using actual Yahi words, anthropological information, and historical accounts, Schalesky merges fiction and fact. This blend allows her to tell the story of a woman's efforts to find meaning for her life.

Allison Morgan's life intersects with Ishi's, due to her husband's responsibilities as an anthropologist. Even though Ishi entered the dominant culture in 1911, Allison develops a deep interest in the culture and traditions of this isolated man. She learns the Yahi language, and enters into a nebulous world of fantasy and science that eventually leads her to a specific kind of faith.

The author is a chemist, who has studied theology. Her educational background shows its influence in her writing, which provides an opportunity for her to demonstrate her faith as well.

This novel mixes history, science, and spirituality and addresses questions of identity and belief.

Book info: Schalesky, Marlo. $12.99,ISBN#:080243324-3.

Dr. Honey Dawn Karima Pettigrew hosts "Rezervations with Honey Dawn Karima", which airs internationally on Native Voice One and locally each Sunday at 2pm on www.wwcufm.com and power 90.5 fm radio. Her cd, The Worship of Angels, was nominated for a Native American Music Award for Best Gospel. She resides in the Yellowhill Community.

Survival of the Fittest: A review of The Penobscot Dance of Resistance

REVIEWED By DR. HONEY DAWN KARIMA PETTIGREW

The Penobscot Dance of Resistance, by Pauleena Macdougall, explores the themes of sovereignty, cultural survival, and resistance. "The story of the dance of resistance proves that cultural continuity does not mean cultural sameness, and cultural change does not result in total assimilation or extinction," asserts the author. "Clearly, the Penobscots made numerous changes in their lives as a means of resisting assimilation and extinction," Macdougall explains. This book chronicles these changes, called "accomodations under protest, with a realization of an underpinning of cultural differences."

Macdougall is the editor of Northeast Folklore, and the associate director of the Main Folklife Center. In this book, she demonstrates the ways in which a tribe that historians expected to become extinct by the 19th century has endured into the 21st.

"When the Penobcots encountered new challenges THEPENOBSCOT brought by the Europeans, they were able to turn to their traditions for responses," the author posits. These "core teachings" provided the tribe with fuel for the fire of resistance against the forces that would foster extinction. This book addresses these ideas and principles, and demonstrates how they prepared the Penobscots for resistance.

Further, the retention of a land base and of sovereignty insured the survival of the Penobscots. Macdougall mentions that "the Penobscots wanted their lands left alone, with natural resources left intact." In addition, "they managed by virtue of a persistent petitioning of the state authorities to retain a land base and to gradually improve their own standard of living through education and industrious wage earning and basket making."

An important aspect of Penobscot survival is the presence of "traditional skills" and "the commodification of culture". The tribe blended industry and wisdom into an empire of basket making and the creation of traditional crafts that were sold to demanding collectors. Convinced that the tribe would soon become a thing of the past, collectors and others interested in Indians purchased crafts from tribal members. This led to economic development, and increased educational opportunities.

"The Penobscots continue to create a community with an ethnic identity, with strong moral convictions--convictions that include American nationalism and integration into the American economy," the author states. For Native communities who share similar convictions, this book is a worthwhile read. This book is an informative lesson about the history of a strong tribe.

Letter of the Law: A review of Standing Bear is a Person

REVIEWED By DR. HONEY DAWN KARIMA PETTIGREW

Court TV. Law and Order. Cold Case. Some of the most popular dramatic programs on television today are those that deal with the activities of the legal system. Recently, the public has been intrigued by high-profile court cases that are broadcast on television and on the nightly news.

Standing Bear is a Person demonstrates that the American public has a history of becoming involved in unique court cases. Stephen Dando-Collins discusses a court case that has all the elements that evoke public interest today--sympathetic defendants, romance, and dramatic events. When the Ponca were forced to leave their homelands in Nebraska in 1877, their Chief launched a critical lawsuit.

Standing Bear sued the U.S. District Court in an urgent effort to reclaim pretty daughter, Bright Eyes, became his voice and image in the dominant culture. A newspaper editor, Henry Tibbles, becomes a personal crusader for Ponca justice and is rewarded with romance. Famous Indian opponent General George Crook proves to be an invaluable, if unlikely, ally. Finally, Standing Bear himself impresses the American public with his stalwart resolve.

Standing Bear is a Person discusses the 1879 legal case that decided that Native Americans were to be viewed as people. This case established precedent and was a legal victory for the Poncas. As a result, this book is a valuable contribution to the body of work that addresses Native American rights, law, history and U.S. government policy. A clear style that is easily read and understood, yet interesting, characterizes this book. Stirring events. memorable characters, formidable obstacles and an impressive conflict combine with uncluttered writing to create a fascinating work.

New Releases on Canyon out of this World

Bear Creek, Tha Tribe, and Cree Confederation hit the mark on new live albums

REVIEWS By SCOTT MCKIE B.P. ONE FEATHER STAFF

Three new releases by Canyon Records rock the pow wow arena, those long highways on the way to the dance, your computer, and anywhere else you can listen to them. Bear Creek, Tha Tribe, and Cree Confederation are three of the top northern contemporary groups in the pow wow world today and they all deliver on new releases.

Bear Creek XI: Pow Wow Songs Recorded Live at San Manuel

Ojibwe group Bear Creek started 11 years ago at the White Earth pow wow in Minnesota and haven't looked back once. If you only had one word to describe their singing it most definitely would be – power! Their songs are sung powerfully, but aren't screamed...a difference that is not seen very often in contemporary northern singing.

Their new album starts off with a song entitled "Rush for Roll Call". Made by member Gabe Gaudet (Ojibwe/Cree), the song is sung in the Cree language and describes the group rushing to make the dance after running late...something I'm sure no one who pow wows has ever had to do...lol... This album features a nice mix of word songs sung in either Cree or Ojibwe and vocable songs. Tracks six ("N'gashi Nikamun") and eleven ("The Rooster") feature some nice vocable songs with the latter being one of those songs made up on the spot at a pow wow...just awesome!

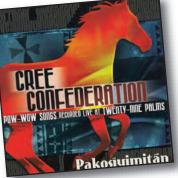

This is one of those albums that you'll want to put in your CD case as you're heading out the door for the next dance. Oh, almost forgot, it contains a short DVD of the group singing two songs live which is pretty cool!

Cree Confederation – Pakosiyimitan: Pow

Wow Songs Recorded Live at

Twenty-Nine Palms Having formed

three years ago, Cree Confederation is a relatively new group to the pow wow world, but don't let that fool

you...these guys can sing and have learned from the best. This album is a mixture of vocable songs and songs sung in the Plains Cree language.

I would technically categorize them as a northern contemporary group, but sometimes they take on an older sound when singing some of their vocable songs such as track five ("Smooth Jingle").

Track ten ("Watch Out"), composed by Jr. Waskewitch, is one of the more energetic songs on the album. The song, translated in Cree, says, "Watch out when you're dancing. Be alert, watch out."

Like the Bear Creek album, this one also comes with a bonus DVD of live singing footage which I hope is a new trend that continues as it's pretty cool to see these groups in action...especially knowing that they're recording what you just heard on the CD.

Tha Tribe – Woodland Grove: Pow Wow Songs Recorded Live in Keshena

We've got a pretty good collection of CDs at the house from Tha Tribe, and they never disappoint...this album is certainly no different and is my favorite one from them to date. It's smooth...it rocks...it's easy to dance to...it's just awesome!

A vocable song sort of opens the album on track two. Made by Freeland Jishie, the song is smooth as ice.

One of the more interesting songs is track five, an intertribal song by Joe Syrette that, according to the liner notes, was made on the spot at the 2009

Ann Arbor Pow Wow. I love

songs like that...ones that just come.

My favorite song on the album is the last one, track 16 (Kitahna's Song). Made by grass dance champion Darrell Goodwill for Kitahna Silas, the daughter of lead singer Wayne Silas, Jr., the song starts out strong and just gets strong...it's awesome!

Well, in case you haven't been able to tell, I love this album. I think you will too.

Housing & Community Development offers 11 Home Maintenance Tips for this Fall Season

Fall is a very important season for home maintenance because it's your last chance to get your home ready for the cold weather that's right around the corner.

1.) Examine your roof/gutters/downspouts for debris: Your roof is often forgotten about because it is not at eye level to give you a subtle reminder every time you walk past it. Clear leaves, dirt, and pine needles from gutters and examine downspouts for damage or loose pieces.

2.) Change the filters in your home: If you have a central air conditioning system, change the air filter regularly. If you have a window air conditioning unit, remove from the window or place a waterproof cover over it to prevent damage. Clean air filters will keep your family healthier in the fall months.

3.) Still have leaky faucets? Repair them now: Before the temperatures start to dip low, examine leaky faucets in the kitchen, bathrooms, and utility room locations. Most likely the time and money spent now to fix will be less than a broken pipe in the dead of winter!

4.) Check windows and doors for drafts: The majority of conditioned air in your home is lost through the windows and doors. Go through your home and open windows to ensure the seal and caulking around the window frame is in good condition. Think of adding heavier drapery around windows that are extra drafty, to help block some air infiltration. Check weather stripping around exterior doors and adjust thresholds to prevent air drafts.

5.) Remove, drain and store garden hoses, drain exterior water faucets. Freezing water expands and will cause damage to you the hose fittings, spray nozzles, and valves. Replace your regular water faucets with a frost-free type for extra protection.
6.) Check your electrical outlets for potential fire hazards such as frayed wires or loose-fitting plugs. Be sure not to overload electrical outlets, fuse boxes, extension cords or any other power service.

7.) Inspect your smoke detectors. Make sure there is one on each floor of your home. Test them monthly, and change the battery annually or as needed.

8.) Insulate water pipes in areas exposed to cold temperatures, and turn up the thermostat during extra cold periods.

9.) Run all gas-powered lawn equipment until the fuel tank is empty. Gasoline left in the tank loses its volatile components over the winter, making your mower hard to start in the spring.

10.) Maintain steps and handrails. Repair broken steps and secure loose banisters. Broken steps are easily hidden beneath snow, which could cause a dangerous fall. Similarly, a person slipping on ice will grab a handrail for support.

11.) Check and or replace heat tape in well/pump house.
