The new 150,000 square foot Cherokee Indian Hospital is now open. An official ribbon-cutting ceremony, attended by several hundred people, was held at the new $82 million facility on Thursday, Oct. 15.

"It's a beautiful day here today," said Principal Chief Patrick Lambert. "I think it's a sign from above."

"Our new hospital is centered around our community, centered around our care and comfort, but, most importantly, centered around our shared Cherokee values – values of spirituality, values of group harmony, values of strong individual character, a strong connection to the land, honor of our past, education of our children, and always possessing a sense of humor.”

Chief Lambert said he was in awe of the new facility. “I am truly impressed with the quality and attention to detail and focus on patient and community care that has been put throughout the entire facility.”

He further stated, “Our sovereign nation, the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, assumed the responsibility of the hospital from the Indian Health Service and built this facility which recognizes our culture as an integral part of our wellness. It is the self-determination of our tribe which symbolizes our success for managing our own affairs. Our tribe has set up our own people to manage our health care.”

Chief Lambert recognized many EBCI tribal members that have had a part in making the facility a reality, and he explained about the main structural focus at the entrance of the hospital known as Maddie’s Basket.

“A designer named Ben Rook (architect with Design Strategies) came to Cherokee, and he received a gift from our tribe, a basket that was designed by Maddie Wildcatt. That basket became the inspiration for the building that you see. Maddie’s Basket is the rotunda which binds the building together. It also houses the floor, designed by the Junaluska Leadership Council, of the spider who brought our tribe fire.”

Casey Cooper, Cherokee Indian Hospital chief executive officer, said he is very proud of the new facility which was “completely planned, constructed and paid for by the Eastern Band of the Cherokee Indians.” He noted it is especially significant since the need for new health care facilities and repairs in Indian Country is documented at over $5 billion with only $300 million being allocated annually. “We are not here today because of the federal government’s commitment to Indian health. Rather, we stand here today in spite of it.”

Cooper added, “We are able to celebrate this amazing facility because of our friends and our partners.”

He said it is hard to believe that ground was broken on 17 months ago. “We planted the seeds that eventually yielded this magnificent world-class facility.”

Cooper said the new hospital is “an illustration of how health care will be delivered in the future.”

“It’s a monument to self-determination and an illustration of the magnitude of what can be accomplished when healthy, cooperative relationships are forged together by the simple principle that we all exist to be significant in the lives of others.”

Carmaleta Monteith, Cherokee Indian Hospital Governing Board chairwoman, commented that the hospital will be in total operation on Monday, Nov. 16. “The staff is still in training. They’re still checking out the new equipment, and we want everything safe and proper when our patients come to see us.”

She also said, “We’re most proud of the design of our beautiful structure.”

“Today’s ribbon-cutting ceremony is a continuation of a long history of health care and healing for our community.”

Monteith presented former Yellowhill Rep. David Wolfe a special plaque for his work as former Chairman of the Health Board “With any great achievement, there was one voice, and that person never lost faith – a single voice championed the building of this new hospital and that was not always a positive stand to take.”

Robins and Morton was the construction company slated to manage the construction of the new facility.

Yona Wade served as the emcee for the event which was opened with the “Cherokee Morning Song” performed by the Cherokee Central School Chorus. Vice Chief Richie Sneed gave the opening prayer which was translated into the Cherokee language by Painttown Rep. Marie Junaluska.

EBCI Beloved Man Jerry Wolfe blessed the new hospital building with all present participating.

Following the ribbon cutting itself, the Warriors of Anikituwah performed the Cherokee Warrior Dance and then got everyone involved as they held a Cherokee Friendship Dance.

Pay raise lawsuit defendants responsible for own representation

SCOTT MCKIE B.P.

Those named in a lawsuit involving pay raises for Tribal Council that occurred last fall are responsible for their own legal representation according to a resolution passed in Annual Council on Wednesday, Oct. 14. The lawsuit, filed on Tuesday, Oct. 6 in Tribal Court by the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians for Justice & Accountcial Chief Michell Hicks and former Vice Chief Larry Blythe, the following are named as defendants in the lawsuit and are being sued in their individual capacity: former Tribal Council Chairwoman Terri Henry, Tribal Council Chairman Bill Taylor, former Birdtown Rep. Gene "Tunney" Crowe Jr., Yellowhill Rep. Alan B. Ensley, Birdtown Rep. Albert R. Rose, Painttown Rep. Virginia Lee Bradley (Tommye) Saunooke, former Big Cove Rep. Perry Shell, Cherokee happened in here a year ago today was wrong, and it needs to be straightened out and handled...The tribe has already spent a lot of money on the demand letter. If you're going to spend money, spend it on the actual charges, not the letter."

Hannah Smith, EBCI attorney general, commented, "You already have an attorney representing Tribal Council on this case. I would advise you to stop discussion on this in this forum and discuss it in closed session." She said it would be inappropriate to discuss parts of the case in public.

Rep. McCoy replied, "We're not discussing the case. This legislation has nothing to do with that lawsuit. All they have to do is go out and hire them an attorney. It has nothing to do with that case."

Cherokee County – Snowbird Rep. Adam Wachacha related that he has already hired a personal attorney. He said he fears that the resolution could end up setting a precedent whereby the Tribal Council could relinquish parts of its legislative immunity. "We've been saying that for two years we need our own legal counsel. If we pass this, then we basically give up a piece of our immunity and then we're liable for anything at that point. This body does need its own legal counsel."

Yellowhill Rep. E. Ensley

agreed with Rep. Wachacha and spoke of similar lawsuits filed against the Cherokee School Board in years past. "When the School Board or this Tribal Council acts, then it's as a whole. You're still a collective body."

Smith added, "All government bodies have the right to make decisions without fear of being held personally liable when they are acting in their role as government representatives."

Painttown Rep. Tommye Saunooke echoed the need for legal counsel for Tribal Council. "I need some legal advice. We have begged and pleaded for some legal advice. I want a full-fledged attorney telling me these are the rights and wrongs of your legislation...we need our own."

Resolution No. 261 (2014), passed on Oct. 14, 2014, is the main point of contention in the lawsuit. That legislation approved the FY2015 EBCI tribal budget and included pay raises for the members of Tribal Council which the EBCIJA alleges is in violation of Section 117-15(a) which states, "Pay increases for the Tribal Council members shall not exceed the amount appropriated in that fiscal year for Tribal employees. These pay increases shall not take effect until the next elected Tribal Council members are seated..."

ability (EBCIJA), disputes the pay raises.

The resolution, submitted on Wednesday by Big Cove Rep. Teresa McCoy, states in part, "Tribal Council was served with a demand letter several months ago, and only with discussion, no vote, retained legal services from a firm in Washington, DC...to date, the tribe has already spent $49,000 for legal fees for Tribal Council Members in defense of the demand letter."

The resolution goes on to state that each individual named in the lawsuit "will be responsible for their own attorney".

In addition to former Prin-

County – Snowbird Rep. Adam Wachacha, former Yellowhill Rep. David Wolfe, former Cherokee County – Snowbird Rep. Diamond Brown, former Tribal Council Chairman James "Jim" Owle, former Wolfstown Rep. Michael Parker, and former Big Cove Rep. James "Bo" Taylor. Former EBCI Deputy of Finance Kim Peone is being sued in her official capacity.

"When we are charged, we are responsible," said Rep. McCoy during the discussion on the legislation on Wednesday. "We will step up and do what's right...we will pay for our legal representation by ourselves."

She added, "The action that

Title IV-E document approved by HHS

SCOTT MCKIE B.P.
ONE FEATHER STAFF

The Title IV-E plan containing plans and policies for the new child welfare system for the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians has been approved by federal officials. Officials from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) gave their stamp of approval in a letter to the tribe dated Monday, Oct. 6.

“We appreciate all of the effort and work you have put into the process toward submitting an approvable title IV-E plan,” wrote Rafael Lopez, Commissioner in the Administration on Children, Youth and Families within the HHS.

“We wish to thank you, the EBCI tribal leaders, your social services program staff, legal staff, fiscal staff and your partners for their diligent work toward finalizing your title IV-E plan. In particular, we want to recognize both Hannah Smith and Sheena Meader for all their motivation, national leadership and attention to detail in the development of your title IV-E program.”

Approval of the tribe’s plan gives the EBCI Family Safety Program the ability to operate Foster Care, Adoption Assistance, and Guardianship Assistance Programs.

“This is an important milestone in your ongoing work to support the safety, permanency and well-being of EBCI’s most vulnerable children and families,” Lopez said.

Smith, EBCI attorney general, commented, “This document totals hundreds of pages of laws and regulatory policy for all aspects of the federally-funded tribal Family Safety Program. Managing the production of this document over the past two years required a lot of team work, a learning curve for the application of diverse subject matters and best practices in the areas of integrative services, human sciences and federal program administration.”

Sheena M. Meader, EBCI associate counsel, worked on the Title IV-E plan and said the tribe is only one of seven nationally to such a plan approved. “This places the EBCI in an elite group of tribal child welfare providers and raises the tribe to the highest level of recognition in the eyes of child welfare programs and professionals across the nation. Not only does the Title IV-E plan and program approval bolster credibility and provide for the implementation of quality services, standards and adherence to best practices, it also serves as the foundation for the EBCI in supporting the safety, permanency and well-being of the tribe’s most vulnerable children and families.”

She continued, “By incorporating the integration of child welfare and behavioral health into the backbone of laws, rules, policies and procedures which were included in the approved plan, the Family Safety Program is uniquely positioned to serve as a model for not only other tribes but state child welfare programs as well.

The tribe joins six other federally-recognized tribes that have an approved Title IV-E plan including: Port Gamble S’Klallam Tribe of Kingston, Wash.; Confederated Salish and Kootenai Tribes of Pablo, Mont.; South Puget Intertribal Planning Agency of Shelton, Wash.; Keweenaw Bay Indian Community of Baraga, Mich.; Navajo Nation of Window Rock, Ariz.; and Chickasaw Nation of Ada, Okla.

“This is an incredible achievement for the Office of the Attorney General and a real bright spot in the futures of Cherokee families,” said Smith.

Meader went on to say, “Additionally, through the tireless work of Sunshine Parker, EBCI Division of Health and Human Services, as a foster care licensing authority with approved standards that meet or exceed the recognized national standards for foster care licensing, is able to license tribal foster homes to promote the placement of Cherokee children in Cherokee homes.”

She said the Family Safety Program is “actively recruiting” EBCI tribal members to serve as foster parents. If you are interested, call 359-1520.

Inmate sues for EBCI membership

SCOTT MCKIE B.P.

OSSINING, NY – An inmate at Sing-Sing Correctional Facility in Ossining, New York claims Cherokee blood and has filed a lawsuit seeking to become a member of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians. Robert Sioleski, serving a 24-year sentence on a 1st Degree Assault conviction for throwing acid on his step-daughter, filed a Complaint under the Civil Rights Act in U.S. District Court Southern District of New York on Friday, Oct. 2 seeking a judge to compel the tribe to make him a member.

Sioleski, 58, claims he wants to become a tribal member so he can participate in American Indian ceremonies in prison. He entered prison on June 6, 2003 and his earliest release date is Aug. 15, 2023.

He claims in his Complaint, "Asked Tribal Council about blood quantum test for tribal enrollment and that I could not afford full price of said test, but willing to make payments. They, the tribe, did not answer and cut off communication with me. I'm a Cherokee descendant and want my tribal enrollment with tribal rights and benefits with a good standing with the tribe so I can attend Native services while incarcerated! I want my birth rights as Native descendant."

Sioleski also states that he has received disciplinary action in prison for his "Native American Hairstyle – Tribal Mullet" which he wishes to keep.

The EBCI Enrollment Office deferred comment due to the possible legal action and Hannah Smith, EBCI attorney general, related that her office has not received any notice of service on this action.

In his Complaint, Sioleski requests the following relief from the Court, "Contact Cherokee and have the court order blood quantum test and also Certification of Degree of Indian Blood (CDIB) once test confirm tribal affiliation and which clan my family comes from, so I can be excepted (sic) into tribe with all tribal rights and benefits! And, be able to attend Native services, festivals, buy and smudge herbs etc. Legally!"

In a letter dated Sept. 15, Sioleski writes, "After years of trying to work with the Cherokee Nation for tribal enrollment and affiliation without any success, I have no alternative but to bring this most urgent issue to the Court."

The letter states he worked with the Cherokee Nation, but his complaint is to the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians. He claims that his grandmother, who died from hanging in 1933, was a Cherokee.

Lula Owl Gloyne inducted into North Carolina Nurses Association Hall of Fame

RALEIGH – The North Carolina Nurses Association (NCNA) is recognizing more than 20 people for helping lead nursing forward in North Carolina. NCNA honored the nurses and nursing advocates last week at an Awards Luncheon during its 108th Annual Convention, which was held in Concord this year. This list of award winners includes longtime nurses, well-respected volunteers, and a healthcare economist.

Among the honorees was Hall of Fame inductee Lula Owl Gloyne, RN, the first Eastern Band Cherokee Registered Nurse and possibly the first Native American Registered Nurse in the United States. Gloyne, who was also an EBCI Beloved Woman, went to Washington, DC, in 1934 and addressed the US Congress on the need for a hospital for the Eastern Band Cherokee. Her testimony helped secure a hospital which provided the first inpatient care in Cherokee. Gloyne went on to become the head nurse of the hospital.

Her great granddaughter, Sarah Wachacha, accepted the award on behalf of Gloyne, who passed away in 1985.

“We are so proud to recognize each of these award winners,” said NCNA Immediate Past President Megan Williams, MSN, RN, FNP. “Their leadership advances the nursing profession, and the positive effects on North Carolina and beyond cannot be overstated.”

Established in 1902, NCNA provides continuing education, networking and legislative advocacy for registered nurses throughout North Carolina.

Cherokee woman gets 15 years for involvement in robbery

ASHEVILLE – Ashlyn Nichole Carothers, 23, of Cherokee, was sentenced on Thursday, Oct. 15 to 180 months in prison for her involvement in a robbery on the Cherokee Indian reservation, announced Jill Westmoreland Rose, U.S. Attorney for the Western District of North Carolina. U.S. District Judge Martin Reidinger also ordered Carothers to serve three years of supervised release and to pay $30,166.45 as restitution.

According to court records and yesterday's sentencing hearing, on or about September 30, 2012, in Jackson County, George Lee Nobles robbed and killed a victim outside a motel located on the reservation. Carothers acted as Nobles' getaway driver. According to filed court documents, Carothers admitted knowing Nobles had stolen the victims' purse and that later she and Nobles burned the victim's purse but kept the $5,000 cash they had found in the victim's wallet.

Carothers pleaded guilty in March 2014 to one count of robbery by force and violence within Indian Country and aiding and abetting. Nobles is currently facing charges for first degree murder and related offenses in state court.

Carothers has been in custody since October 2013. She will be transferred to the Federal Bureau of Prisons upon designation of a federal facility. All federal sentences are served without the possibility of parole.

The Cherokee Police Department handled the investigation assisted by the North Carolina State Bureau of Investigation. Assistant U.S. Attorney Don Gast and Special Assistant U.S. Attorney Jason Smith prosecuted the case. U.S. Attorney Rose was joined by Interim Cherokee Chief of Police James Dike Sneed in making this announcement.

STILWELL – The Cherokee Nation opened a $10 million addition to the Wilma P. Mankiller Health Center on Wednesday, Oct. 14. The 28,000 square foot expansion nearly doubles the size of the existing health center, and the new building will house primary care, lab and radiology. "The long-term impact of this expanded health center means we will be able to offer Cherokee Nation citizens more and better services for years to come," Cherokee Nation Principal Chief Bill John Baker said in a statement. According to a press release on the event, "Cherokee Nation Health Services operates the largest tribally-run health system in the country with 1.1 million patient visits in 2014. It consists of eight health centers and W.W. Hastings Hospital in Tahlequah."

Tigers shutout Braves 21-0 on Homecoming

AMBLE SMOKER
ONE FEATHER STAFF

The Cherokee Braves (3-5) fell to the Rosman Tigers on Homecoming Night on Friday, Oct. 16. The Tigers rushing attack included seven players who rushed for a total of 242 yards and scored three touchdowns in the win over the Braves.

The Braves were led by sophomore quarterback, Tye Mintz, who was 13 of 31 for 120 yards and 3 INT. Mintz also contributed 15 carries for 87 yards. Mintz found the hands of Holden Straughan 5-43 and Isaiah Evans 5-42. The tackling tandem of Logan Teesateskie (19) and Kennan Panther (17) led the Braves defensively.

Cherokee moved the ball deep into Rosman territory on the Brave's opening drive as freshman running back, Isaiah Evans, found a running lane on the first play of the game to put the Braves in good field position. Several plays later, Mintz connected with WR Holden Straughan and the Braves were threatening at the 2-yard line. However, the momentum would be short-lived as the Braves committed a holding penalty and was eventually backed up to the 18-yard line where they would turn the ball over on downs.

Rosman set up on their own 18-yard line but Cherokee's defense held the usual potent Tiger offense to minimal gains and forced a three-and-out. After a short punt, Cherokee took over on the 30-yard line when Evans broke loose for a 30-yard touchdown scamper that would be nullified by a holding call. The Braves continued their drive but were unable to capitalize on the short field and both teams were tied in a stalemate through the first quarter.

Midway through the second quarter, the Tigers were driving downfield when Rosman standout, Landon Shipman, ran the ball for a 12-yard touchdown. Shipman would carry the ball 10 times for 74-yards during the game. A failed PAT put the Tigers on top 6-0 at the 3:32 mark of the second quarter. After a Braves turnover, Rosman drove down the field again when Tanner Whitman flung a 23-yard Hail-Mary pass to Gage Orr in the end zone to put the Tigers ahead. A 2-point conversion run by Orr put the Tigers ahead 14-0 with 4.7 second left in the half.

Both teams were held scoreless through the third quarter. A 4-yard touchdown run at the 7:46 mark by Gage Orr and a PAT by Manny Suarez put the Tigers ahead 21-0 at the 7:46 mark in the fourth quarter which would be the final score.

The Braves will travel to Andrews for their next conference showdown on Friday, Oct. 23 at 7:30pm.

Bear data sought from hunters

In an effort to better manage the black bear population on tribal lands the EBCI department of Fisheries and Wildlife Management is giving away newly designed EBCI Black Bear Management Team hats to hunters who report harvest data and submit pre-molar teeth for aging. All participating hunters will also be eligible for a $500 prize drawing at the end of the season. Report forms and tooth envelopes are available at the Fisheries and Wildlife Management office (Tribal Utilities Building, 1840 Paint Town Rd.) and the Natural Resource Enforcement office (517 Sequoyah Trail). Info: Mike LaVoie 554-6113

Christmas Check deadline

The deadline to submit statements for handicapped and/or disabled EBCI tribal minors, under the age of 18, who are eligible to receive a Christmas Check is Wednesday, Nov. 25. Eligible minors must submit a statement signed by a doctor indicating that the child is handicapped and/or disabled and a new statement must be submitted each year.

The deadline for eligible EBCI tribal members between the ages of 18 and 60 years of age, who waive their per capita check but would like to receive a Christmas check, is Wednesday, Nov. 25. Eligible tribal members must submit a statement that has been signed by a doctor indicating that they are handicapped and/or disabled. A new statement must be submitted each year.

Statements can be turned into the TOP Office, located beside the Council House, or faxed to (828) 497-7020 (Attn: Kelly Sampson). Be sure to include EBCI enrollment numbers on all statements. Info: Kelly Sampson 359-7023 or Kelly Dills 359-7024.

Senior Citizens do not have to submit anything to receive a Christmas Check. Checks will be mailed to all EBCI tribal members who turn 60 years of age or older by Dec. 31. Christmas Checks will be mailed to the same address that per capita checks are mailed to.

OBITUARIES

Donna Kim
Hawkins Cowling

Donna Kim Hawkins Cowling, 59, of Cherokee, was called to be with her heavenly father on Friday, Oct. 9, 2015.

She was born on April 20, 1956 to the late Leland Don Cowling and Dorothy Elaine (Tap) Moles.

She was preceded in death by both parents; a grandfather, Kyle Moles; a grandmother, Vera Bradley Moles; and one aunt, Carolyn Moles.

She is survived by three children, Jean Nicholas Dozier of Cherokee, Rachel Danielle Arden of Ada, Okla., and Charles Bradley Hawkins of Byars, Okla.; two son-in-laws, Dennis Dozier of Cherokee and David Arden of Ada, Okla.; two sisters, Pamela Marks and Carolyn Beth Rossiter, both of Cherokee; one brother, Denny Moles of Thailand; two aunts, Janice Sutton and Maxine Bumgarner, both of Gastonia; two uncles, William Moles of Hartsville, SC and Billy Sutton of Gastonia; five wonderful grandchildren, Noah Hornbuckle, age 17, Madalynne Dozier, age 5, Mecca Dozier, age 2, Maverick Arden, age 5, and Emaleigh Arden, age 2; two nieces, Kathy Polk and Amy Rossiter; two nephews, Travis Moles and Jeffery Kowalzek; and various cousins and many friends.

Donna lived most of her life in Oklahoma. She was a member of the Church of Latter Day Saints. She was a homemaker who stayed home and raised her kids, and she did a wonderful job at doing it. When Donna started having grandchildren, it changed her life for the better. Her five grandchildren were her world. Donna has always enjoyed life to the fullest. There was no way of ever slowing her down, especially when it came to mentioning the casino. You couldn't catch her. She had some very special friends that meant the world to her. She definitely valued her friendship with all of them.

A funeral service was held on Wednesday, Oct. 14 at the Church of Latter Days Saints in Whittier. Bishop Cutler officiated, and burial followed at the Bradley Cemetery in Cherokee.

Long House Funeral Home is assisted the Hawkins family.

THANK YOU LETTERS

Wolftown Community
Club thanks volunteers

The Wolftown Community Club would like to say thank you to all the volunteers who helped with the parade float and setting up the booth for the exhibit hall and also to those who donated items to display in the booth or for the float. We received third place on both! We've had many volunteers come out and help and we hope that you continue to do so. You are truly appreciated!

We would like to thank our Tribal Council members, Bo Crowe and Bill Taylor, for attending the meetings and helping out with whatever we need! Our regular meeting was postponed until Oct. 12 and the club election was held with the following being elected: Chairman - Tuff Jackson, Vice-Chairman - Jarrett Crowe, Treasurer - Mary Jackson, and Secretary - Tammy Jackson. Our next event will be the Safe Trick-or-Treat on Saturday, Oct. 31. We would like to ask the community to help by donating candy. Last year, we had approximately 3,000 trick-or-treaters come through. You can drop off your candy at the community building by contacting Tuff 788-4088 or Tammy 788-4098 to set up a time. The next regular meeting will be on Monday, Nov. 2 at 7 p.m. Hope to see you there!

Thank you from Fairgrounds staff

Frieda Huskey, Fairgrounds and Events Supervisor, and the Fairgrounds staff would like to thank all of the craft and food vendors, day organizers, volunteers and temporary workers for their help in making the 2015 Cherokee Indian Fair a great success. Thanks to Deerclan Productions and the many entertainers, pageant and other contest participants for their part in the event. Thanks to the Sound of Music DJ Service for making announcements and providing the radio broadcast. Special thanks to Qualla Arts and Crafts Cooperative, the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Office and Tribal Emergency Services for their many years of support for the community, veterans, cultural and agricultural displays in the exhibit hall. Most of all, they would like to thank the thousands who were their guests and patrons at the 2015 Cherokee Indian Fair.

Cherokee Tribal
Child Care report

On Tuesday, Oct. 13, Cherokee Tribal Child Care Services (CTCCS) held the monthly School Readiness Activity, and it was a huge success! The activity had more families come through to participate this time, then it has had this year. The theme this month was, of course, Halloween. At the event, families can visit different stations of activities where the CTCCS staff show them how to incorporate all the areas of development into activities that can be done with their children at home. Some of the activity areas are dramatic play, art/ fine motor, sand/water play, gross motor, science, math, and literacy, and the stations have activities for children ages six weeks all the way up through school aged. The School Readiness Activity occurs every month with a new theme to go with it. The activ

Support Miss Cherokee... and, a new pageant format

SCOTT MCKIE B.P.
ONE FEATHER STAFF

On the night of Saturday, Oct. 3, I took one of my all-time favorite photographs. Amorie Gunter was crowned Miss Cherokee, and the raw, tearful emotion on her face when her name was called as the winner was priceless. I'm so happy to have been able to be there and capture that image.

One week later, I took another photo that was also full of emotion as Taran Swimmer was crowned Miss Cherokee.

A week separated the two photos, and it was a week full of emotions that ran the gamut of good, bad and ugly as the original tabulations were found to be incorrect resulting in the wrong name being called on Oct. 3.

I am not going to comment on that end of it as I feel it's been talked to death the past week. I would like to encourage everyone to rally behind the title of Miss Cherokee and what it represents. Swimmer will make an excellent Miss Cherokee...just as any of the four young women who competed this year would have. They are all incredible role models for Cherokee youth.

Swimmer will wear her crown this year and represent the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians at events all over the country including Washington, DC. As Miss Cherokee, she will carry on her shoulders a burden...one that she willingly signed up for and one that she will bear with the same dignity that others before her have.

Miss Cherokee is always in the public eye. That is a strain, but it is a necessary strain for they represent an entire nation. Winning the Miss Cherokee pageant is not akin to winning the Miss Asheville pageant. Miss Cherokee represents a sovereign nation, not just the town of Cherokee.

That said, I would like to offer a few suggestions and comments to the Miss Cherokee Royalty Board. First off, let me say that I feel for you ladies. I know that you try each year to produce a nice pageant full of dignity and pride. I also know some of the heartache that you each have felt during this recent ordeal. It was an impossible situation all the way around. My heart goes out to everyone involved – contestants, Board members, family, everyone.

A few years ago, I attended the Gathering of Nations Pow Wow in Albuquerque, NM and attended the Miss Indian World pageant which was divided up into several parts over the course of several days, something that I think would work well here in Cherokee. At the Miss Indian World pageant, contestants present their talent during a separate event held on Thursday prior to the start of the pow wow. The next day, they do interviews and the public speaking portion of the contest. Then, they have their dance competition and crowning on Saturday night.

For the Miss Cherokee pageant, maybe the main parts of the contest such as the traditional talent, traditional dress, platform and casual dress could be held during the annual event held the Saturday before the start of the Fair. Then, the contestants could do their interview on Monday and then come back on the first night of the Fair for the crowning. Having several days in between would eliminate any scoring issues as the judge's scoresheets could be quadruple-checked if necessary. Also, that would satisfy both those who like the pageant portion at the Chief Joyce Dugan Cultural Arts Center and those who like it being held at the Cherokee Indian Fair.

These are just some thoughts to mull over in the off-season.

Check, please.

ONE FEATHER EDITOR

October is a big month for Cherokee. Year after year, businesses on the Qualla Boundary, particularly those that are related to cultural and eco-tourism, depend on October sales, for the added revenue needed to get through the winter months. Sales tend to trail off during September after the prime summer tourism season, then business see a bump up in sales in October, primarily due to the fall leaf season. Then in early November, the stream of tourists stabilizes a lower rate of flow through winter months. The spectacretail outlets and visitor centers.

One of the most neglected areas of tourism development is customer service training; not just on the Qualla Boundary, but in western North Carolina. It may be that owners and managers assume that a paid staff will automatically know that it is important to treat customers with courtesy and respect. Whatever the reason, front line staff are not, in many cases, making sure that Cherokee visitors are getting the best customer service.

Just as you would want a cashier to be training properly to do monetary transactions, you should want your staff to understand the importance and ways to provide

The care that you use to train your staff about the importance of caring for the customer will have a direct, and potential lasting, impact on repeat customers and new business.

On a recent visit to one of our fine restaurants in Cherokee, I was greeted warmly and treated to first rate customer service with my every desire inquired about and every need met. The waitress was friendly and courteous with all the information she needed to provide for my needs. In addition to the great service, the manager came to my table to ensure that the experience was a good one. From service to environment, I could tell that an effort had been made to educate the staff on good customer service.

Compare that to another local establishment I visited today. The staff was yelling at each other while I waited to be seated. One of the staff looked over and saw me waiting, but went on for several minutes with his "discussion" with the other staff member. When he finally did come to seat me, he made it clear that he felt like it was an inconvenience and that he was upset that he was not to be able to continue his dispute with his coworker.

Clients have many choices. If they don't get a good experience, they will find another restaurant, hotel or attraction. Worse yet, they may decide to find another destination and write Cherokee off as a place that doesn't want or doesn't care about them and their families. If you own/operate a business, or manage/direct a program for the tribe, pay attention to the customer service capabilities of your staff.

One of the most neglected areas of tourism development is customer service training.

ular views of mountains filled with brightly colored leaves brings hundreds of thousands of "leaf lookers" to our area throughout the month.

Much of the Qualla Boundary's economy depends on tourism, whether it be eco-tourism, gaming or cultural and historical tourism. Many people, through the efforts of the Destination Marketing program of the tribe, are coming to our area for the first time and some are revisiting after decades of bypassing Cherokee for their vacations. A great deal rides on the impression they get from the people they meet in our good customer service. If a cashier is not trained properly, chances are you are going to lose money. If your staff is not properly educated in customer service, you're looking at the same outcome - lost clients and lost income.

Customer service has as much impact on your bottom line as an advertisement. In fact, it acts as an advertisement. According to helpscout.net, it takes 12 positive experiences to make up for one negative experience with a client. "News of a bad customer service experience hits twice as many ears as praise for a positive service experience,"

Teresa Lambert Wolfe: No!

Cherokee One Feather Poll of the Week Results

Do you feel that the pay raises received by Tribal Council in 2014 were legal?

Yes	21%
No	79%

Question of the week now up on theonefeather.com:
Should the Cherokee Animal Control Shelter be a no-kill facility?

Leslie Lossiah: No

Connie Welch: No

Jamile Shaheen: It is a duty, not the pay raises, that will help us, the people of Cherokee. Our leadership should focus on a common goal to bring us together as one people. Here's how it should be, 60 percent of all per capita will go to the people, the rest will go to the government.

Brittany Blankenship: No!

Christina Terrell: Nope

Ronda Calhoun: No

Matt Bryant: No!

Sherri Ross: No, like any job, shouldn't you first earn your raise before starting your job?

Zacchaeus Maney: No!

Coah Ledford: Absolutely not. They can take money from our tribe to better their lives while we get the crumbs.

Sherman George: No

Janice Sutton: No, and we should be paying for their legal fees either.

Alta Johnson: No

Teresa McCoy: No

Bambi Armachain Sneed: No

Freeman Bradley: No

Mary Thompson: I guess it doesn't matter... same people got re-elected.

Junior Maney: Only if the people can give ourselves a big raise from the casino...lol

Ashley Bottchenbaugh: No

Nikki Crisp: No!

Nat Crowe: No

Lillie Seagle: No!

Deb Perry: Nope. I can't give myself a raise. Our people should decide when and if they get raises.

Patience Snyder: No, in fact, I would love to see a Tribal Council that was completely comprised of volunteers from each community coming together to do what's right for our people without the influence of politics or money.

Nathan Bush: Voting for the pay raises were not illegal, but receiving the raise before the next seated Council is illegal.

Mallie Swayney: No!

Brittany Blankenship: No!

Christina Terrell: Nope

Ronda Calhoun: No

Park to host Birds of Prey program

Great Smoky Mountains National Park officials invite the public to a special birds of prey program presented by Doris Mager on Sunday, Oct. 25 at 10a.m. The program will be on the porch of the Oconaluftee Visitor Center.

Known as “The Eagle Lady”, Mager has been working with raptors for over 35 years. She has cared for over 80 injured eagles and hundreds of other raptors, housing up to 36 birds at one time. In 1983, she established an educational and research group called Save Our American Raptors (SOAR). Part of her research work included conducting aerial surveys of bald eagle nesting sites for scientists studying the population and habits of birds in the wild.

Mager continues to travel throughout the U.S. doing educational programs with a 34-year-old great horned owl known as E.T., screech owl, and American kestrel. Mager’s program provides a unique opportunity for visitors to see raptors up close as they learn about features and habits of these fascinating birds. After eight years of providing programs at in Great Smoky Mountains National Park, this will likely be Ms. Mager’s last appearance as she will be moving away from the area.

ity lasts from 4:30-6pm, and a meal is provided. CTCCS would like to invite all of the families with the program to feel free come and participate as the program works to help give the children a strong foundation to prepare them for school.

To continue the School Readiness theme, CTCCS also held their first School Readiness Committee meeting on Wednesday, Oct. This committee consisted of CTCCS staff such as managers, supervisors, family support workers, and teachers as well as teachers and representatives from Cherokee Central Schools, Smoky Mountain Elementary, East Elementary, the HOPE Center, Policy Council (CTCCS’s parent governing board), and other key figures who work with the children that the CTCCS program serves. At the meeting, the team discussed ways that they can continue to improve the CTCCS curriculum to better prepare children for kindergarten, as well as the growth that has been seen in the children enrolled at CTCCS as the program works to strengthen the curriculum. The team also brainstormed on ways to work cooperatively with the schools to track the progress of CTCCS students throughout elementary school, and about ways to help aid the transition process from pre-school to kindergarten. This committee will continue to meet throughout the school year to ensure that CTCCS keeps the children on track as we strive to enrich their learning environment as well as give them the best possible foundation as they enter kindergarten. Thank you to everyone who joined us for this meeting as our program works to make our future generations great.

In Memory of Marie Walkingstick

We can never be separated from those we love because God leaves us with memories to hold and love that doesn't pass away.

And, in time, we realize that our loved one lives on - not only in heaven, but within our hearts.

Missing you more each day!
Your family,
Walkingsticks, Wolfes
