QUOTE OF THE WEEK

“Chances are certain that if you’re a native woman and haven’t personally experienced violence, sexual assault or even rape from a partner, you know someone who has. It’s very likely that she is someone close or even related to you. It could be your sister, daughter, or even your mother. Why does it matter? That’s why it matters.”

- Jamie Arnold, an attorney with the EBCCI Legal Assistance Office, in a commentary entitled “Domestic Violence and why it matters”.

Legislation establishing the Cannabis Commission of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians (EBCI) was approved (Sept. 12), vetoed (Oct. 2), and re-introduced and subsequently tabled (Oct. 17) all within the span of a little more than a month. Tribal Council approved legislation (Res. No. 731-2019) on Sept. 12 to establish the Commission following a July report on the feasibility study entitled "Hemp as a Feasible Commodity for the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians" which listed its establishment as a recommendation.

Principal Chief Richard G. Sneed vetoed that legislation in early October, and a Special Session of Council was called on Friday, Oct. 4 to hear the veto. In his veto letter, Chief Sneed wrote, "The passage of Res. No. 731 (2019) was a historic action taken by our Tribe towards greater economic diversification. Yet, it is premature in nature. The USDA is preparing to release hemp regulations for publication in the Federal Register and for public comment this fall to accommodate the 2020 growing season. It was advised in the 'Hemp as a Feasible Commodity' study that tribes do not need to submit a plan until regulations are in place. While the USDA is developing a system in which states and Indian tribes submit plans to USDA for approval to administer hemp production, the USDA will also provide a plan for those individual producers, states, and tribes who do not wish to submit their own plans."

It continued, "Rather than heavily invest into this venture without proper planning and clearly understanding our own farming communities' status regarding hemp production, our people can still be afforded an avenue to enter into and continue hemp production under USDA regulatory framework while we work to create a solid framework and path forward for the EBCI."

Following some discussion, Council failed to override the veto. Voting on that measure went as follows: In favor of overriding the veto – Painttown Rep. Tommye Saunooke, then-Painttown Rep. Lisa Taylor, then-Wolftown Rep. Jeremy Wilson, Tribal Council Chairman Adam Wachacha, Vice Chairman David Wolfe, Yellowhill Rep. Tom Wahnetah, and Cherokee County – Snowbird Rep. Bucky Brown (total of 50 weighted vote); opposing overriding the veto – Birdtown Rep. Albert Rose, Wolftown Rep. Bo Crowe, Big Cove Rep. Perry Shell, and Big Cove Rep. Richard French (38); and absent – Birdtown Rep. Boyd Owle (12).

So, Chief Sneed's veto held.

Fast forward to Annual Council on Thursday, Oct. 17 and Wilson, no longer a Wolftown Tribal Council representative following the Oct. 7 Inauguration of the newly elected officials, brought in legislation (Res. No. 24 – 2019) to form the Cannabis Commission. After a lengthy discussion, that legislation was tabled with the voting going as follows: For tabling the legislation – Painttown Rep. Dike Sneed, Wolftown Rep. Chelsea Saunooke, Rep. Crowe, Chairman Wachacha, Vice Chairman Wolfe, Rep. French, and Rep. Brown (56); opposed to tabling – Rep. Saunooke, Rep.

Wahnetah, Rep. Owle, and Rep. Shell (32); and absent – Rep. Rose.

Wilson's new legislation completely eliminated compensation for the Commission, a sticking point for some in the initial discussion, and reduced the total budget from $240,000 to $162,000. Towards the end of the discussion, he noted, "I've been spearheading this thing for two years, and I've made every effort that I can possibly make to get the education out, to get people involved, and to be as transparent as I possibly can. I've created social media pages for the general public to be involved called EBCI Hemp. It's on Facebook. Anyone is allowed to be on there. I've ran polls. Every poll that I've ran has been heavily in favor and have primarily been enrolled members who have been in favor of this."

He added, "I get it, there's people out there who are either opposed to it or just don't know much about it, but then again that is the importance of driving an educational effort...what I caution is back-peddling this opportunity because all this Commission is tasked with is to form a plan for you. It is not to instantly put you into the industry..."

Rep. Crowe noted, "Right now, my two community clubs (Big Y and Wolftown) are just not sold on the idea yet. I know one thing that was bothersome was Cannabis Commission, and they would like to see it changed to Hemp Commission. Cannabis is just too broad. If we're going to be looking into hemp, they'd rather see it just be the Hemp Commission."

Chairman Wachacha said he'd like to see more research on the issue as far as what legislation has been passed by Council regarding medical marijuana. He said he supports the idea but wants to have all of the information, "Yes, it is a money maker, but I think there are certain niches there that maybe, as a Tribe, we can try to get into. I don't know if it is through farming, or through dispensaries...but, I think with a Commission it would allow us to better find out which direction we need to go with it and how much we want to put into it."

Rep. Owle said it is a billion-dollar industry that the Tribe could enter. "I'm certainly for it because we have to diversify."

Wilson further said, "The longer this gets back-peddled, you're going to lose opportunities. I can promise you that, and I don't want to see that happen."

During the presentation to Council on the feasibility study in July, Eric Stahl, Hempleton Investment Group (group that performed the study) vice president of sales, noted that the study focused on industrial hemp which is a strain of Cannabis sativa that contains less than 0.3 percent THC (tetrahydrocannabinol). "Hemp cannot get you high," he said then.

Stahl further said that hemp fiber is four times as durable as cotton and can be grown on the same land for 14 years without depletion. There are currently over 1,000 hemp farmers and 600 hemp processors in the state of North Carolina according to him.

It was not decided when Wilson's new legislation would come back to the floor for further discussion.

Grandparents Rights ordinance introduced in Council

SCOTT MCKIE B.P.

ONE FEATHER STAFF

The traditional role of grandparents in Cherokee culture and society is addressed in a new Grandparents Right ordinance (Ord. No. 25 – 2019) that was submitted to Tribal Council in an Annual Council session on Thursday, Oct. 17. An amendment to the Family Law (Chapter 50) part of the Cherokee Code, the ordinance was co-sponsored by the NAIWA (North American Indian Women's Association) Cherokee Chapter and Principal Chief Richard G. Sneed.

"Please understand that we're not trying to re-invent the wheel," Betty Maney, a NAIWA member, said after the ordinance was deemed read and tabled for 25 days. "We're not trying to step on any parental rights. Our focus is we're trying to get every one of you to come in and everyone involved in the organizations to focus on the children because they are what's important. We see too much of losing our children to domestic violence and being displaced and going through trauma that they don't need to go through. And, the changes that we're making are really about the child."

Tribal Council Chairman Adam Wachacha

said he would schedule a work session on the ordinance for the month of November and will put the legislation on the agenda for the December regular session of Tribal Council.

"We exist to promote well-being in our community," said Carmaleta Monteith, NAIWA member. "We focus on education, health, any way that we can be of help to the community. We adopt certain programs periodically, and several years ago we adopted the function of helping to serve maltreated children."

She added, "We've noticed that there's an absence of any traditional way of trying to resolve issues with families."

The ordinance would amend Chapter 50, Article II, Section 50-12 and Section 50-14. Subsection (g) would be added under Section 50-12 to read, "There is a rebuttable presumption, consistent with Cherokee culture, that it is in the best interest of a child to have the love and support of grandparents through reasonable contact with a grandparent."

Section 50-14 (Custody Mediation) would read, "The Cherokee Court shall administer a mediation program to resolve custody disputes and shall ensure that the program incorporates an alternative choice for culturally-specific and traditional practices such as the Peacemaking Circle model or other models that incorporate holistic, child-centered approaches to strengthening and restoring harmony in the family."

Monteith commented, "We don't mean to ignore the courts, but some of us felt that it's just more trauma for families to have to go to court to resolve some of the issues."

Mary Welch Thompson, a member of NAIWA and a former Big Cove Tribal Council representative, said in a statement to the One Feather, "Tribe, grandparents, parents, and tribal members, when are we going to step up and make a unified effort to protect the wellbeing of our children? It is Domestic Violence Awareness month. Let us include the children of domestic violence. We all know someone, or have nieces, nephews, and grandchildren affected by the tentacles of domestic violence."

She concluded with, "The Cherokee are a matrilineal society. Our tribal laws should reflect this. Consistent with Cherokee culture, it is in the best interest of a child to have the love and support of grandparents – not to infringe on the rights of the biological parents but to work in agreement."

Vice Chairperson Isaac Long called a special meeting for the Cherokee Central Schools (CCS) Board of Education that was held at 4:45 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 17. Vice Chair Long; Board members Gloria Griffin, Isaac Long, Jennifer Thompson, Tara Reed-Cooper, and Regina Ledford-Rosario; HR Director Heather Driver; Superintendent Dr. Michael Murray; and Tribal Council representative Chelsea Saunooke were present when the meeting was called to order. Board member Karen French-Browning was late. School Board Assistant Sunnie Clapsaddle was in training.

The meeting was called on by Vice Chair Long to decide upon a new chairperson for the next two years. As soon as the everyone was in attendance, Long called for a vote for the election of a new chairperson. The two candidates were Jennifer Thompson and Gloria Griffin. The Board vote was split 3-3, just as it was during the Oct. 7 meeting. Thompson voted for herself with Long and Reed-Cooper. Griffin voted for herself with Ledford-Rosario and French-Browning.

Policy 2200, that was implemented on Sept. 16 of this year, states the following regarding the Tribal Council Representative: "shall have no vote unless the event of a tie. The Tribal Council representative will only vote to break a tie".

Wolfstown Rep. Chelsea Saunooke is the new

Tribal Council Representative on the Board of Education, and when the vote was called she raised her hand for Thompson. Before the vote, Superintendent Murray read aloud the policy to ensure that everyone understood why Rep. Saunooke was casting her vote.

Applying the initial voting results from the Oct. 7 meeting, the new structure of the CCS Board of Education is as follows:

- Chairperson – Jennifer Thompson
- Vice Chair – Isaac Long
- Secretary – Tara Reed-Cooper
- Board Members – Gloria Griffin, Karen French-Browning, Regina Ledford-Rosario

Tribe set to receive over $1.5 million in DOJ funds

WASHINGTON – The Department of Justice announced on Friday, Oct. 18 that it has awarded over $273.4 million in grants to improve public safety, serve victims of crime, combat violence against women and support youth programs in American Indian and Alaska Native communities.

The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians is set to receive $1,579,326 of those funds as follows:

- Violence Against Women Tribal Governments Program (OVW) - $899,586
- Children’s Justice Act Partnerships for Indian Communities (OVC) - $436,617
- Tribal Victim Services Program (OVC) - $243,123

“Violent crime and domestic abuse in American Indian and Alaska Native communities remain at unacceptably high levels, and they demand a response that is both clear and comprehensive,” said Attorney General William P. Barr. “We will continue to work closely with our tribal partners to guarantee they have the resources they need to curb violence and bring healing to the victims most profoundly affected by it.”

President Trump is the first President to sign a proclamation recognizing acts of violence committed against American Indian and Alaska Native people, particularly women and children.

Two-hundred and thirty six grants were awarded to 149 American Indian tribes, Alaska Native villages and other tribal designees through the Coordinated Tribal Assistance Solicitation, a streamlined application for tribal-specific grant programs. Of the $118 million awarded via CTAS, just over $62.6 million comes from the Office of Justice Programs, about $33.1 million from the Office on Violence Against Women and more than $23.2 million from the Office of Community Oriented Policing Services. A portion of the funding will support tribal youth mentoring and intervention services, help native communities implement requirements of the Sex Offender Registration and Notification Act, and provide training and technical assistance to tribal communities. Another $5.5 million was funded by OJP’s Bureau of Justice Assistance to provide training and technical assistance to CTAS awardees.

The Department also announced awards and other programming totaling $167.2 million in a set-aside program to serve victims of crime. The awards are intended to help tribes develop, expand and improve services to victims by supporting programming and technical assistance. About $25.6 million of these awards were awarded under CTAS and are included in the $118 million detailed above.

CTAS funding helps tribes develop and strengthen their justice systems’ response to crime, while expanding services to meet their communities’ public safety needs. The awards cover 10 purpose areas: public safety and community policing; justice systems planning; alcohol and substance abuse; corrections and correctional alternatives; children’s justice act partnerships; services for victims of crime; violence against women; juvenile justice; violent crime reduction; and tribal youth programs.

The Department also provided $6.1 million to help tribes to comply with federal law on sex offender registration and notification, $1.7 million in separate funding to assist tribal youth and nearly $500,000 to support tribal research on missing and murdered indigenous women and children and other public safety-related topics.

Spirit Animal looks to bring new flavor to Cherokee music scene

JONAH LOSSIAH
ONE FEATHER STAFF

Spirit Animal, an indie-pop band from Brooklyn, New York, will be playing in Cherokee on Saturday, Oct. 26 at the Harrah's Cherokee Resort Event Center.

Steve Cooper, who is a founding member of the band, says that they have been came to fruition, the plan was to tour the country, and Cooper would visit the homes in each city to cook a private meal. Cooper learned his way around a kitchen during his time cooking in a French restaurant in Los Angeles. It was his way of paying for his music when the band was first coming up.

"I paid for a couple music videos by doing private dinners in homes of wealthy people

The band has a label partnership with RED MUSIC, and Cooper says that it has opened the door to a lot of opportunities.

"I'd say the main difference was we got to work with some huge producers. Actually, our favorite producer, Ricky Reid, who's done everybody. He's got the new number one on Billboard; you know Lizzo 'Truth Hurts.' So, he's a giant producer...we have been developing our networking of writing and producing sort of as we went, so there was a cool legitimacy thing with that."

Cooper says that the band members receive influence in a lot of different places, and that can be heard in the music that they make together.

"You got one guy who's like a Tom Petty fanatic basically growing up, other kid who came up in the D.C. hardcore scene, I came upon like strictly rap music, and our drummer is a Berkeley School of Music, fully jazz-trained everything. There's really no choice for us but to have this mixed genre sound. But, I think for me, in terms of inspiration, definitely it's always what's new. It doesn't have to be the music that sounds like your music, and it's more about the attitude or the approach that people take that I like to model myself after more so than the sound." Cooper says that's why their genre is hard to place because they use different styles and influences of music to create their sound. 'Indie-pop' doesn't touch all the facets of the band, but it's an idea that's easier to promote.

The show in Cherokee will be Spirit Animal's third show in North Carolina on this tour, and it will be wrapping up in December. Spirit Animal will be opening for Theory of a Deadman on Oct. 26. The show begins at 7:30 pm, and you get ticket information at <https://cherokee.ticketoffices.com/venues/harrahs-cherokee-resort-tickets>.

missing coming to North Carolina on recent tours.

"We really had an amazing connection there, and so we've had basically the next year, people from North Carolina every time we posted another show announcement being like, 'ah! No North Carolina.' I kept being like, hold on hold on," said Cooper.

Cooper has come a long way to get where he is now. He used to do a lot of cooking in restaurants and private gigs before he could solely work on music. The band had a Kickstarter fundraiser for one of its early chances of going on tour. Though it never in New York. I did a dinner with like four guys having a giant meeting about international oil deals they were doing, and you're supposed to not listen. Of course, I'm eavesdropping the whole time...It was good. We still get a lot of requests to do more food-related stuff, but it just got to the point where I really just wanted to focus on the music," said Cooper.

Now, the band has millions of streams on different music services thanks to major hits like "Regular World" and "The Black Jack White". Spirit Animal released their album "REBORN YESTERDAY" on Sept. 20.

Lt. Col. Lewis H. Harding retired after 32 years of service

ONE FEATHER STAFF REPORT

Lt. Col. Lewis H. Harding Jr. (Ret.) retired from the U.S. Air Force on Jan. 6, 2016 after 32 years of service. A first descendant of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, he began his military career by enlisting in the Tennessee Air National Guard in January 1983 as an autopilot maintenance technician at with the 134th Air Refueling Group in Knoxville, Tenn.

While enlisted there, he finished his degree at Middle Tennessee State University and applied for Air Force pilot training into which he was accepted and began officer training in November 1985. The next month, he was commissioned as a 2nd Lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force and reported to Williams Air Force Base for pilot training in the T-37 and T-38 aircrafts.

After initial pilot training, he attended KC-135 specialty training at Castle Air Force Base in Merced, Calif. in February 1987 and returned to the Tennessee Air National Guard in June 1987. Two years later, in May 1989, he transferred to the 940th Air Refueling Group at Mather Air Force Base in California.

Lt. Col. Harding flew the KC-135 for 21 years eventually becoming a senior evaluator and instructor pilot in the aircraft. Along the way, he held the following positions:

- 314 Air Refueling Squadron Director of Operations, January 2007 to January 2008
- 940th Wing Chief of Safety, April 2005 to January 2007 and Janu-

Lt. Col. Lewis Harding, 940th Wing Chief of Safety, displays the 2009 Eighth Air Force Safety Program of the Year Award, presented jointly to the 940th and the 9th Reconnaissance Wings. Lauded as Air Force Reserve Command's number one ongoing Total Force Initiative, the 940th Wing's zero mishap rate also earned the AFRC Chief of Safety Outstanding Achievement Award for Flight Safety.

ary 2008 to January 2010

- 940th Operations Group Chief Evaluator Pilot, June 2002 to January 2007
- 940th Operations Support Flight Director of Operations, September 2000 to June 2002
- 940th Operations Support Flight Chief of Mission Scheduling, April 1998 to September 2000

- Evaluator Pilot, May 1996 to April 1998
- Squadron Instructor Pilot, May 1996 to April 1998
- Squadron Aircraft Commander, January 1992 to May 1996
- Squadron Co-Pilot, June 1987 to January 1992

He flew combat missions in the KC-135 in the following operations:

First Gulf War in Operation Desert Shield; Kosovo Campaign; Homeland Defense Missions after Sept. 11, 2001; and he was deployed in the Second Gulf War in support of Operations Enduring Freedom and Iraqi Freedom.

In January 2010, Lt. Col. Harding transitioned to the RQ-4 Global Hawk, an unmanned aircraft that flies above 60,000 feet high and stays airborne for over 24 hours. The Global Hawk provides worldwide surveillance and reconnaissance missions while being operated remotely from Beale Air Force Base in California. Lt. Col. Harding operated the Global Hawk worldwide, frequently within areas of international tension.

In March 2011, in the only unclassified and publicly releasable operation Lt. Col. Harding was involved in, he was named the Director of Pacific Integration just as the United States started Operation Tomodachi, an assistance operation to support Japan in disaster relief following the Tohoku earthquake and tsunami. The operation involved nearly 24,000 U.S. service members, 189 aircraft, and 24 naval ships. The Global Hawks operated from Beale provided nearly daily imagery to assist in those efforts, including constant overwatch of the Fukushima Reactor and also assisted the Japanese in rescuing thousands of isolated citizens.

Lt. Col. Harding was the first Global Hawk Director of Pacific Integration in the history of the U.S. Air Force. At the time of his appointment, there was only one aircraft in theater and it did not have permission to fly out of its basing due to the delicate negotiations with foreign governments. By the end of his tour, Global Hawk Operations were commonplace with multiple aircraft deployed in theater.

He also served as a consultant to NASA at Ames Research Center in Mountain View, Calif. as an expert in High Altitude Unmanned Aircraft Operations.

All total, Lt. Col. Harding flew just over 5,200 hours in T-37, T-38, KC-135, and RQ-4 aircraft during his military service.

THANK YOU LETTERS With our Deepest Gratitude and Love,

It is with a sad heart, a heart that will never mend until I meet her again in heaven. As I write this thank you, I never imagined I would be saying goodbye to my daughter in the manner I did. She was a kind gentle spirit who would give you the shirt off her back and give her whole heart at everything she did, from being a friend, scholar, playing ball, a daughter to being a momma and teaching, she loved her students like her own. She loved working with her Cherokee language and worked hard at learning it. For a while, she also fed her elders and each day she would share with me how sweet and kind they were to her. Her work at the Casino she loved it as well and went every day.

She loved Jesus and she gave her life to him at an early age. I know for a fact she believed. She believed in being kind to people. She believed in loving them no matter what their status in life, she loved deep and strong. If you were a friend, then she told you and held on to you as a treasure and always left you with a kiss on the forehead or cheek and an I love you.

I have so many people to thank if I happen to leave you out it's not intentionally; It already occurred as we wrote her obituary, that we forgot a few names, we did not mean to leave people out. When your heart is breaking you aren't thinking as you would if you were sane.

To my rocks that I lean on Dan Conseen, Gloria "Punkin" Griffin, Deb Bradley, Tracy Conseen, B and Libby Ensley, Jessie Smith and Buford, and Krystal, Pam Cucumber and Joyce Conseen Dugan. Callo-way, myself and her sisters, brothers, and children would have not survived without all of you. Thank you to our Ledford Clan, Diane, Frank, Heather, Kelly, Madison, Carla, Roger, A-ge-ya and ti-ka-nega, Dee, Carolyn Sneed. Lula Ledford, Chris and Joannie, Mark, June Bug, Shelly, Chloe, Callie and Allen and Lisa; and the Alberts: Tracy (Tawana), Clint (Starr) Von and (Jackie) my granddaughter Cecily; all our nieces and nephews.

Roy Bradley, you were the love of her life, thank you for all you did and continue to do for her and babies and to all of her friends, Charlie Burgess, Mike Oocumma, Roger McCoy, Ray, Cabe, Dink, Diane and Remy, Melissa Smith, Boss Cucumber, Joan Bradley, Agnes Bradley, her basketball teammates, Trina Rhinehart, Jeannie Littlejohn, and Keith and Laura Pinnix.

To Virginia Johnson and Nancy Wahnetah, thank you for coming just to sit with me, thank you ladies. Susie and Eddie Welch, Sharon French, Lucille Bradley you all are a blessing.

To Frank and Diane Driver, thank you. I know it was difficult for you Frank, but God needed someone that loved her to find her. To the singers that came out and sang thank you. Maybelle and Alfred for traveling and serving God so tirelessly thank you. To my nephew Mark thank you for taking time out and traveling to do what I asked of you thank you.

To the State Patrol, Cherokee and Qualla EMS, to Longhouse Funeral Home and staff, thank you for taking such good care of my baby girl. I didn't realize until after that a lot of you knew my baby girl, that had to be hard. I thank each of you for the hard, stressful work you all do for our communities.

To Long house funeral home, it was quite an adventure to her destination, she would not have had it any other way.

To the Brothers in the Wind, you are true brothers.

To my church family, you are a true blessing. To all sister churches, may God Bless you all richly for doing his work and serving our Lord as you all do by being a comfort and praying for his people.

To my co-workers, you all are unbelievable thank you so much for all you done.

To my community people and my tribal family, thank you the outpouring of incredible support.

"If you drink please, please have someone drive you home, always have a designated driver. It would even be better if you just gave that old bottle up/alcohol and drugs. I know firsthand how hard it can be to give up an addiction, but it can be done by trusting in the Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. He alone can soothe the heartache like no other can. No matter what the problems you face he alone can resolve any issues you have in life." Seek help, Seek God. Families of our communities appreciate your love ones, no matter what. This year, we had a total of 896 entries and 560 winners. Because of the volume of winners, checks will not be mailed until the following week of the Fair. If you have any questions, please contact the Extension Center at (828) 359-6934 or 359-6930.

We would also like to thank the following volunteers and judges for assisting us with fair entry, judging and decorating: Kathy Dugan, Ethan Clapsaddle, Dusti Bark, Norman and Julie Beck, Garfield Long, Cody Long, John Reed, Kristie Herron, Jan Smith, Rita Driver, Scott and Ruth Hill, Dianne Floyd, Roy Lambert, TK Beutell, Virginia Johnson, Tiny Reagan, Wanda McCoy, Bill Johnson, Mary Herr, Marilyn Cole, Tony Yu, Jeanne Rearick, TJ Holland, the Mother Town Program Participants, and Swain/Jackson County Extension

COMMENTARY

Domestic violence and why it matters

JAMIE ARNOLD

EBCI LEGAL ASSISTANCE OFFICE

I sat down a few days ago with the idea that I would churn out a quick article for October which is Domestic Violence Awareness Month. I asked myself, "Why is this issue so important to members of the Eastern Band of Cherokee?" Is it because it is a complex monster, with far reaching tentacles that grip families physically, psychologically, sexually, and even economically? Because it is so often unreported and hidden from plain view? Why does awareness matter?

As an advocate and domestic violence attorney for the Cherokee Legal Assistance Office, I am all too familiar with the seriousness of this matter, but I really wanted to show why domestic violence awareness is particularly important to the Cherokee people. When I delved into the statistics for American Indian and Alaskan women provided by the National Institute for Justice in 2016, I was blown away by the numbers.

A staggering 84.3 percent, or 4 in 5 native women have experienced some type of violence at least once in their lifetime. 55.5 percent of native women have been victims of violence by an intimate partner. Additionally, well over half of all native women have encountered sexual violence at least one time during their life.

How do these numbers stack up against non-Indian communities? Once again, I was shocked by the numbers. A native woman is 1.7 times more likely to have experienced violence in the past year than a white woman. Furthermore, American Indian and Alaskan women are two times more likely to have been raped, and three times more likely to have been murdered in the past year than white women.

The numbers are sobering and grim. How do we stop it, or even slow it down? Awareness is the first step. Stop pretending that it doesn't happen in your community and step up. The numbers wouldn't be so high if it didn't stay hidden behind walls, both concrete and familial. Speak out if you suspect something is going on.

Always alert Tribal police if you suspect someone is in danger. Beyond that, there are numerous organizations dedicated to stopping domestic violence and assisting those that have experienced it. Many have strict rules about confidentiality so that the victim can tell their story without fear of judgment or repercussion. Additionally, these organizations can often provide resources such as housing, clothes or financial assistance to help victims escape a bad situation. Here in Cherokee, the Ernestine Walkingstick Shelter is a primary resource for survivors of domestic violence. They can be reached anytime at (828) 359-6830.

At the start of this article I asked the question, 'why does it matter?'. Chances are certain that if you're a native woman and haven't personally experienced violence, sexual assault or even rape from a partner, you know someone who has. It's very likely that she is someone close or even related to you. It could be your sister, daughter, or even your mother. Why does it matter? That's why it matters.

Arnold is an attorney with the Legal Assistance Office of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians.

SPEAKING OF FAITH

The gifting of the Holy Spirit...

REV. TIMOTHY L. MELTON, PASTOR
CHEROKEE PENTECOSTAL HOLINESS
CHURCH

“No, I will not abandon you as orphans—I will come to you.

“Soon the world will no longer see me, but you will see me. Since I live, you also will live.

“When I am raised to life again, you will know that I am in the Father, and you are in me, and I am in you.

“Those who accept my commandments and obey them are the ones who love me. And because they love me, my Father will love them. And I will love them and reveal myself to each of them.”

John 14:18-21 (NLT)

As A Friend...

“When Jesus said, ‘I will come to you,’ he meant it. Although Jesus ascended to heaven, he sent the Holy Spirit to live in believers; and to have the Holy Spirit is to have Jesus himself with us.” From NLT Study Bible.)

“The Paraclete—‘The Helper’ is here to help us in every part of life. As in the matters of pride, hatred, bias, prejudice, He begins the process of helping us develop the fruit of the Spirit within us—instructing us how to Love, how to have Joy, His Peace, in spite of our having these tougher emotions. He shows us how we can enjoy having His help always as we begin to follow His ways of cleaning the bad out, so we can see more clearly what needs to be done. When we are in need of help, we can call on the Holy Spirit, to also aid in financial or physical problems. We ask Him to help us by saying we have a need—be specific. We always should begin a prayer to the Father with our praise and worship, especially when we come to ask His help in doing His Will. Good intentions do not get God’s Will done. It is just like Love—it’s to be our choice—not only a feeling.”

“We are to love even the lost sinners—the unlovable ones—like a child molester. Although that person has actually stolen a child’s trusting ability and security—and another person seeing this, in the natural, may still want ‘to get them for it’—the Holy Spirit can teach each person a better way. He can give a supernatural way to see forgiveness, thus changing both hearts. With God, He makes all things possible. For mankind alone, it would be an impossibility. (Read Matthew 5:14.)

“Remember, ‘Jesus also said, ‘Father, forgive them...’ as He hung there on that Cross. He had the Holy Spirit residing in Him. So He teaches us, as Jesus had the Holy Spirit’s help, we have been offered Holy Spirit’s help, too. How much more we need His help! Jesus could ask the Father by the Spirit of God and now we can, also. Jesus had left His Divinity in heaven and relied solely on the Holy Spirit from His baptism in the Jordan River through the time of His death. We can also now be leaning on the Holy Spirit for ourselves and for situations around us.

“Rev. Benny Hinn, as a child had been raised in a Hindu household, and had ended up staying in his room because of a stuttering speech impediment. Reading the Bible in his room each night, he decided he wanted a relationship with this God who could heal people. He wanted the God of the Bible to help him overcome the stuttering. Now he has a worldwide television and stadium ministry.

This story reminds us to never look down on anyone. In the Old Testament, the Holy Spirit was only with people, but in the New Testament the Holy Spirit is now in us as believers.”

On Pentecost, many people were there in Jerusalem from other countries and would take the Good News back to their homes. Many Jews lived in Jerusalem and passed the Good News on to family and neighbors—becoming the fast-growing, fledgling Church of 3,000. Thirty years later, most of the disciples, including Paul, and other witnesses to the first Holy Spirit Outpouring turned the entire world upside down—and they didn’t have internet or television and radio then to make that happen!

“What shall we say about such wonderful things as these?”

If God is for us, who can ever be against us?

“Can anything ever separate us from Christ’s love? Does it mean he no longer loves us if we have trouble or calamity, or are persecuted, or in danger, or threatened with death?”

Romans 8:31, 35 (NLT)

Halloween Candy: No Treat for Pets

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: Please remind your readers that Halloween candy can be risky for dogs. My dachshund "Jake" got very ill once when my son left his bag of trick-or-treat candy on the floor where Jake could get to it. Fortunately, he recovered fully, but it could have been much worse. — Diane in Charleston

DEAR DIANE: You told them! Halloween is a fun time for families and pets, but when kids bring home lots of candy, or adults leave out a big bowl of fun-sized treats for trick-or-treaters, it's more temptation than most pets can stand.

The trouble is that much of that candy is toxic to pets. Dogs should never eat chocolate, even in small amounts. Often they'll consume the candy wrappers, too — not unexpected from a creature with no thumbs. Other candies might be OK, except they have lots of sugar, which can make a pet ill.

If you're giving out candy, keep it in a spot that is out of reach of your pets, or keep a tight cover on the container so they can't access it. When the kids get back from trick-or-treating, place their bags of candy up high and out of view of pets. Remind kids not to put their bags down on the floor or leave them where the dog can get at them.

Adults who are throwing Halloween parties should place their pets in a safe room or section of the house, away from revelers, snacks and candies. Pick up all treats and food before letting them back into the party area — high-fat snacks can be tough on a pet's digestive system, and some foods — like onions, grapes and avocados — are toxic.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was Marquette University basketball coach and beloved national basketball commentator Al McGuire who made the following sage observation: "The world is run by C students."

• There were no armadillos in Texas until the 1840s.

• Many people think that adding cream to coffee makes it colder, but that's only partially correct. As it turns out, after cooling the coffee a little bit, the cream forms a layer of fat molecules across the surface, insulating the coffee and keeping it warmer longer.

• Those who study such things say that only about half the French-speaking people in the world actually live in France.

• After the Civil War, Varina Davis — widow of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy — and Julia Grant — widow of Ulysses S. Grant, famed Union general and later president of the United States — ended up living near each other. According to historians, they became very close friends.

• On average, twins arrive 24 days earlier than babies from single births.

• It's been claimed that it was customary in Austria at one time for women to wear small dogs draped about their shoulders for warmth.

• You might be surprised to learn that the hula hoop was banned in some Indonesian cities. Why, you might ask? According to officials, the toy "awakens sensuality."

• In China, it is traditional for men do the knitting.

• According to anthropologists, if you'd never worn shoes, there would be a larger gap between your big toe and the rest of your toes.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Financial matters once again figure in any major action you might take regarding career, travel or other endeavors. You'll want a ready reserve to help you back up those moves.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Caution dominates the Sheep's monetary aspect this week. Rams and Ewes might want to shear their big spending plans until a more favorable financial picture begins to emerge by week's end.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Trying to resolve a problem in a personal relationship could be more difficult than you'd expected. Look into the possibility that someone might be interfering for his or her own reasons.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Thrift counts both at home and at work. So you might want to rethink major purchases or investments. Also, be wary of a so-called revelation about a previous decision.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A project you once rejected might be more attractive because of changes that you feel you can now work with. The weekend is especially favorable to family matters.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Both household budgets and workplace accounts might benefit from some judicious trimming of unnecessary expenses. A partnership could lead to an unexpected challenge.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) This is a good week for the gregarious Goat to enjoy being with people you care for. You might even want to show off those creative kitchen skills you're so adept at.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A previously overlooked opportunity could re-emerge with a new travel-related matter. Check this out carefully to see if it's what you really want before you decide one way or another.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A colleague might think your attitude is patronizing or even outright insulting. True. That might be his or her problem. But you might want to take some reassuring steps anyway.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) This could be the start of a new career-changing phase, so start marking down your many accomplishments for those who need to know how much you have to offer. Good luck.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) It's a good time to jettison those old concepts about a family matter you might have been holding on to. This will help make room for a new and more enlightened way of dealing with it.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) It's not too early for the sometimes procrastinating Virgo to start making those long-distance travel plans. The sooner you decide where to go, when to go and how to go, the better.

BORN THIS WEEK: You like to analyze a puzzling situation before you try to resolve it. This makes you excel at getting things done the right way.
