American Indian writers gather in Cherokee

3rd Annual Southeastern Indian Writers Gathering held at Museum

By SCOTT MCKIE B.P.ONE FEATHER STAFF

Writers from around the country came together to discuss the topic of American Indian writing and its evolution into the 21st Century this week in Cherokee. The 3rd Annual Southeastern Indian Writers Gathering was held Sept. 12-13 at the Museum of the Cherokee Indian.

Betty Cloer Wallace, a Gathering attendee from Franklin, wrote a series of short novels known as The Tuckaseegee Chronicles which delves into the relationships between Cherokees and Scottish immigrants in the 1700s.

"I've been working on this for the past thirty years and I come over here to learn all I can," she said. "Learning the technology for social media and learning how to market your story is one of the things that's most appealing to me."

Wallace continued, "Wordcraft Circle and Robert Conley from Western (Carolina University) have both contributed heavily to this. I've been very impressed with everything that they've pulled together for the Southeastern Writers Gathering."

Conley, a member of the United Keetoowah Band of Cherokee Indians of Oklahoma, is the Sequoyah Distinguished Professor of Cherokee Studies at WCU and was the driving force behind organizing the first two Gatherings.

Lee Francis IV, a member of the Laguna Pueblo from New Mexico, is the national director of the Wordcraft Circle of Native Writers and Storytellers and helped organize the Gathering.

He gave a lecture on Thursday entitled "Digital Smoke Signals: Social Media and the Professional" which detailed how Native writers can utilize social media such as Facebook and Twitter to market their work and interact with other writers.

"Social media is often in-depth, but it doesn't have to be scary," said Francis. "It's a great way to teach a wide audience."

Roseanna Belt, WCU Cherokee Center, was in attendance and related, "Yesterday, we went to Cherokee High School and the participants here, particularly the writers, spoke to the high school students in an English class. Lee Francis was so excited from the interaction that he wants to keep doing that so not only does it help the people actually with this group, it will affect the school and get kids to write."

"It's felt that they (students) are sort of timid about it now, but they have all that talent and knowledge if we can just help it come out. That's the main thing I like about this Gathering."

JoAnne Grandstaff, Kickapoo, gave a lecture entitled "Coding Our Language: Utilizing Digital Technology in Language Revitalization" where she spoke about the importance of saving Native languages. "I don't like the term revitalization," she said. "I prefer to say reacquire. Until we raise the prestige of our languages with our children, they will never speak our languages."

Grandstaff showed the group a short film she made while researching languages entitled "Cherokee Language in the City of Lawrence, KS". The film featured two Cherokee speakers discussing their experiences with knowing and speaking their native language.

During her lecture, a discussion arose about educators allowing American Indian children to use their native language at school without fear of repercussions.

"Maybe kids will one day be able to walk down the hall speaking their own language," Grandstaff said of her hopes for native languages.

Construction winding down on $633M casino expansion

By SCOTT MCKIE B.P. ONE FEATHER STAFF

he massive expansion at Harrah's Cherokee Casino & Hotel is nearing completion. Work is expected to be finished on the $633 million expansion, which was approved in January 2007, in about two months.

James Bradley, Harrah's Cherokee advertising and public relations department, related that construction on the new spa, the last component of the expansion, should be finished by November or December. The two-story Bolognese-style spa will offer the usual spa features as well as Cherokee herbal medicines and remedies.

Bradley said the response from guests on the expansion so far has been nothing but positive. "They like the new retail space, and they like that they can bring their kids and family in to the new restaurants."

Speaking of restaurants, there are now 10 places to eat within the casino including: BRIO Truscan Grille, Chefs Stage Buffet, Dunkin Donuts Express, Johnny Rockets, Lobby Café, Noodle Bar, Paula Deen's Kitchen, Ruth's Chris Steakhouse, UNO Pizza, and Winning Streaks Deli.

Another added feature from the expansion is the Events Center, which opened in September 2010. The Center is a 3,000+ seat venue which has hosted some big names in the entertainment industry including: George Jones, Reba McEntire, Montgomery Gentry, DJ Pauly D and others. Up until now, the venue has only been open to those patrons 21 years of age and older.

That will change as a performance of the Moscow Ballet's Great Russian Nutcracker on November 24 is open to all ages. There will be two show times (3pm and 7:30pm) and the cost of tickets is $21, $31, and $46

Bradley said the show will be a test of sorts to see how well the Center can handle all-ages performances.

All of the expansion has brought jobs...lots of them. Bradley said 200 people are set to enter new hire orientation which brings the total of new jobs created by the recent addition of live table games to over 500. And, there are more to come. He said they are still hiring part-time table games dealers and could add another 250 jobs.

The Poker Room currently has video poker tables and is expected to offer live poker games in Spring 2013. Harrah's Cherokee will host a stop of the World Series of Poker on April 4-15.

Hanging lights, representing water droplets on a spider web, decorate the area leading to the Grand Rotunda.

Two to vie for Miss Cherokee title wo young ladies are set to compete for the 2012 Miss Cherokee title. Kelly Driver and Karyl Frankiewicz will compete during the pageant scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 29 at 6pm at the Chief Joyce Dugan Cultural Arts

"This year we have two, beautiful, young, talented women," said pageant coordinator Deb West. "Although our numbers are down a little bit, they compete really hard and we'll have a beautiful show. Even though we have two contestants, they deserve no less."

Driver is the daughter of Frank and Diane Driver, and she resides in the Big Cove Community. She graduated from Cherokee High School in 2006, and earned her bachelor's degree in English from Western Carolina University in 2011. Driver is currently a Cherokee Language teacher at Cherokee Middle School.

"I would like to encourage others to go to college and take advantage of what the Tribe offers us," she said. "Push yourself to do better than you think you can because if I can do it anyone can. It was hard for me because I had so much stuff going on at school, but I accomplished it and graduated and I'm a Cherokee Language teacher now."

Frankiewicz is the daughter of Melissa Arch and Quinton Frankiewicz, and she resides in the Birdtown Community. She graduated from Cherokee High School in 2010 and is currently a sophomore at Southwestern Community College with a double major in Fine Arts and Early Childhood Education.

"I would like to be able to bring more of the syllabary and the Cherokee language into the school systems because everywhere else you had the Cherokee language written out, but not so much in the school," she said. "In Oklahoma, the syllabary is written even in Wal-Mart, and I would like for the school to have simple sentences in the syllabary in Cherokee written in the school. Students have photographic memory and so they'll be able to look at that and remember, 'oh, I know what that says.""

"We're losing our language," said Frankiewicz. "There are only around 300 fluent speakers left on the reservation. Most are over 50 years old and they are passing away every year. So, in order for us to become a better Tribe, we need to bring back our language and culture, which we are already doing with the Kituwah Academy. We just need to bring back our culture and what it means to be Cherokee."

For the talent portion of the contest, Driver is planning to perform the Cherokee Buffalo Dance and Frankiewicz is planning to sing a song in the Cherokee language.

Scam artists target Cherokee residents

By SCOTT MCKIE B.P.

ONE FEATHER STAFF

magine Margaret Kilgore's shock and surprise when she picked up the phone and heard the person on the other end crying, claiming to be her grandson and saying he is locked up in Mexico and needed her to wire $2,000.

Imagine her shock and surprise when it came to light that her grandson was safe and sound at N.C. State in Raleigh the entire time and the person on the other end was a scam artist.

Margaret's husband, Ed Kilgore, pastor at Acquoni Baptist Chapel, got on the phone midway through the first phone conversation.

"There were several flags that went up," he said. "I know my grandson and I knew this didn't sound right."

The scam itself was somewhat confusing and complicated. The person claiming to be the Kilgore's grandson gave the phone to someone claiming to be a Mexican law enforcement official who told them to wire the money to a number they claimed was the U.S. Embassy in Mexico.

"I knew it was a scam, but I had to know that my grandson was safe," Ed said. So, he told the scammers that he would call them back in a few minutes if they would give him a callback number. They did, but the area code given was in Montreal, Canada.

Ed contacted his daughter and then his grandson at N.C. State and once he was 100 percent sure everyone was safe, he called the number back and asked them why the U.S. Embassy in Mexico would have a number in Canada.

"You should be ashamed of yourselves," Ed told the scammers and then hung up.

"To lose $2,000 would have been terrible, but the anguish they put my wife through was worse." Ed told this story to his congregation several days later and found out that another couple, who wished to remain anonymous, received an almost identical phone call.

Ed's advice to everyone is to be careful and aware of these scams and if something sounds fishy to look into it before blindly sending money or resources.

For more information on phone scams and how to avoid them or report them, visit the Federal Trade Commission website at http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/edu/microsites/phonefraud/index.shtml.

Cherokee Runners compete in Asheville

By GERRI GRADY

CHEROKEE RUNNERS

ASHEVILLE - Members of the Cherokee Runners competed in the Asheville Citizen-Times Half Marathon and 5K on Saturday, Sept. 14. Robin Swimmer, Angel and Priscilla Squirrell, Jimmy Oocumma, Marlene Arch and Samantha Ferguson completed the 13.1 mile half while Stephan Swimmer, Gerri and Sean Grady and Lamont Squirrell completed the 5K.

The course is challenging for both races as Asheville is well-known for its steep and lengthy hills. It has been said that "the course is hills with a bit of flat at times." The runners from Cherokee represented the Tribe well with Priscilla Squirrell coming in 4th in her age group.

In addition to this event, Elnora Thompson ran the Southeastern Tribes 5K at Kituwah. She was joined by Cherokee Runner Mike Parker for his first 5K race. The course is mostly flat but also includes challenges with course layout.

Thompson said, "Hats off to my cousin Eddie Swimmer for the run at Kituwah this morning. Even though I took the wrong turn, not once, but twice, it was an excellent run!" Several Cherokee Runners have been training for the last few months for the Marine Corps Marathon which will take place on Sunday, Oct. 28 in Washington, DC. Several runners participated in a long run starting at Heintooga and ending at Round Bottom in early September. This run will be repeated in mid-October as the last long run before the marathon.

Speedwork sessions and hill work will be conducted in coming weeks. These sessions occur on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 6pm with speedwork held at the high school track while hills are conducted at Unto These Hills. Anyone is welcome to come and work out. Upcoming races include the Harvest Half & 5K and the Atlanta Half Marathon.

The next regular meeting of the Cherokee Runners will be held at 6:30pm at the Age Link conference room on Monday, Oct. 1. All runners and walkers are encouraged to join. It does not matter the fitness level – only a willingness to improve fitness through walking or running. See the Cherokee Runners Facebook page or visit www.cherokeerunners.com.

CPF creates Interactive Report about place-based grantmaking

Cherokee Preservation Foundation has announced the development of a new interactive report titled From Transactional to Transformational that describes some of the unique challenges of place-based grantmaking on tribal lands and in rural areas and highlights strategies for success that may be helpful to other funders. The interactive report, which may be viewed at www.cpfdn.org/transformational, draws on lessons the Foundation has learned during its first decade of work. It includes videos and pictures highlighting grantees and their work.

Over the past decade, Cherokee Preservation Foundation has moved from a transactional strategy typical of mainstream U.S. philanthropy to a transformational strategy that is better suited to the realities of placebased funding on tribal lands. In a transactional strategy, the funder is typically focused on developing innovations or evidence in a particular program area. The funder chooses from among a wide range of potential grantees to find the ones that are most capable of making progress in that program area. There is not a long-term commitment between the funder and the grantee, and the funder typically does not see organizational development as a key part of most grant transactions.

In a transformational strategy, by contrast, building capacity and developing community leadership are as important as making progress in a particular program area. The Foundation becomes an engaged partner with the grantee, and the relationship becomes one of shared learning and collective action. The Foundation has a long-term commitment to the community and the grantees, which makes a shared vision for the future and a shared commitment to learning and growth both necessary and potentially very productive in the long run. From Transactional to Transformational addresses:

• The challenges arising primarily from the distance between communities on tribal land and the limited number of nonprofit agencies in the communities.

- Strengths and opportunities inherent in grantmaking in tribal communities, including unique cultures, deep roots and shared sense of community among residents, the relative stability of institutions and community leaders, the ability to convene all key stakeholders, and personal relationships among key decisionmakers.
- And most importantly, the critical elements of transformative grantmaking: building organizational capacity, developing community leaders, building a shared vision, connecting and collaborating, and partnering with grantees.

"From Transactional to Transformational adds to the knowledge base about place-based grantmaking, and we believe it will be helpful to both traditional and place-based funders," said Susan Jenkins, Executive Director of Cherokee Preservation Foundation. "The videos and pictures also bring home the point that many positive changes have occurred over the last ten years as a result of relationships, programs and projects that have transformed the Oualla Boundary, the homeland of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians."

Keeping your family safe in the car: car seat information

SUBMITTED By HEALTHY CHEROKEE/INJURY PREVENTION

Rear-facing seats

Keep children in rear-facing car seats until two years old or as long as possible up to the height or weight limit of the seat (Recommended by the American Academy of Pediatrics). At a minimum, keep children rear-facing until they are at least one year old and at least 20 pounds.

 st The center of the back seat is the best position for rear facing.

- * The car seat needs to be secured tightly using the seat belt or LATCH in the car and doesn't move more than one inch when pulled.
- * Use either seat belt or LACTH attachment to secure the car seat—Not both.
- * The 5 point harness should fit snug, with the harness position at your child's shoulders or below
- * The retainer chest clip should be positioned at arm pit level.

Forward-facing seats

When children outgrow their rear-facing seats (at a minimum or age 1 and at least 20 pounds) they should ride in forward– facing car sets with harness until they reach the upper weight or height limit of the seat.

- * The five point harness straps fit snug, with the harness position at your child's shoulders or above.
- * The retainer chest clip should be positioned at arm pit level.
- * Use either seat belt or latch attachments to secure the car seat— not both— and a top tether to install the car seat.

Francis, Belt to open WCU lunchtime lecture series

CULLOWHEE – The Western Carolina University Department of Anthropology and Sociology Brownbag Series resumes on Wednesday, Sept. 26, with a presentation by Cherokee language faculty members. The lunchtime series, which is free and open to the public, is an opportunity for faculty and students associated with the department to share research and ideas with the community.

Kicking off the series will be Hartwell Francis, Cherokee language program director, and Tom Belt, Cherokee language program coordinator, presenting "The Role of Higher Education in Maintaining Biolinguistic Diversity." Francis and Belt will explore how languages and biospheres are succumbing to global pressures and the role of the university in fostering cultural and biological pluralism.

Then, on Wednesday, Oct. 10, Nikki Jastremski, lecturer in forensic anthropology, will present "Investigating Biological Ancestry and Social Identity in Colonial Cuenca. Ecuador." Jastremski will detail research designed to estimate the biological ancestry of commingled individuals in a recently discovered ossuary under the city's cathedral. The series will conclude for the fall with a presentation Wednesday, Nov. 14. Philip E. Coyle, professor of anthropology, will discuss "Community Gardening as Intensive, Sustainable Agriculture: The Sylva Community Garden in Comparative Perspective.' Coyle will compare the Sylva Community Garden with Robert Netting's intensive, sustainable agricultural type.

All events are held in Room 110 of the McKee Building at WCU from 12:10 to 1:15 p.m.

Post 143 to kickoff Dega Days event

ASHEBORO - This year's Montagnard Memorial Event "Dega Days" kicks off at the New Central Highlands near Asheboro on Saturday, Sept. 22 with an Opening Flag Ceremony presented by the American Legion, Steve Youngdeer Post 143 Color Guard.

So why would an American Indian Organization conduct the opening ceremony? The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians has recognized the Montagnards as the newest warrior tribe in association with the American Indians.

In effect, the Montagnards were a primitive culture virtually living in the Stone Age when they engaged in their partnership with the US Army Special Forces in the war against communist aggression in Vietnam in the early 1960s.

During the drawdown of the war effort the Special Forces were ordered to abandon their partnership and sever their ties with the Montagnards to expedite the war's end. Due to the Montagnard's loyalty to the American Special Forces, the new government of Vietnam forced them out of the Central Highlands and into "Re-education Camps on the Cambodian and Laotian borders for the purpose of extermination and genocide.

Since 1975 more than seven and a half million Montagnards have been eliminated in these camps run by the Vietnamese government. A handful of retired, former and active duty SF men then set out to rescue the Montagnards and help them relocate in the United States. The Montagnards have re-established their culture in their newly adopted homeland...what they call the "New Central Highlands of North Carolina."

Since the Montagnards have gained US citizenship and have established their homeland in North Carolina, members of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, who also served in Vietnam, have decided to welcome and recognized the Montagnards as the newest tribe in Native American Warrior Culture.

In essence then, one of the oldest native cultures in America is officially recognizing the Montagnards as having established roots in America.

This achievement will be signified during the "Presenting of the Colors" by the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, American Legion Steve Youngdeer Post 143 Color Guard at the "Dega Days Celebration."

Lunch will be served at 1pm or 1300 military time and entertainment will be provided throughout the afternoon. Plan to arrive early for good parking.

A follow on event will be held from Oct. 4-8 in conjunction with the presentation of the Vietnam Traveling Memorial Wall in a "Chiefs Meet Chiefs" celebration at the Annual Cherokee Tribal Council Gathering at the Acquoni Expo Center. This is part of the "Trails of Legends and Adventure" program together with the 100th Annual Cherokee Indian Fair.

Cherokee Language Program holds a workshop featuring contempory drama

On September 11 the Cherokee Language Program at Western Carolina University held a workshop with the players in the contemporary drama, Polenque Rojo, a play set in Mayan citystates in 711 BC. The play is performed completely in the Mayan language. The 20 actors are from Chiapas, Mexico. The play featured live pre-

Hispanic music, as the performance recreated priests, servants, warriors and rulers of that time.

Earlier that afternoon Dr. Hartwell Francis of the WCU Cherokee Language Program, scheduled a workshop with the visitors from Mexico, including the director and the play's creator as well as most of the performers, very few of which spoke English. The Cherokee Center director, Roseanna Belt, assisted with the workshop which was about language and the similarities experienced by all indigenous people throughout the world and the current efforts to preserve indigenous languages.

Right Path Program graduates eight EBCI members

Right Path announced that eight members of the EBCI have just completed the Right Path Program, a year-long adult leadership program grounded in Cherokee traditions and values. They were honored at a graduation ceremony on September 13 held at the Kituwah Mound. The Leaders who participated in the Right Path are Lucretia Hicks Dawkins, Patrick Hill, Kelly Murphy, Janet Owle, Damian Solis, Mike Thompson, Monica Wildcat, and Jeremy Wilson.

Praising the philosophy of Right Path and the Leaders for their selfless service to others, Tom Belt stated, "They are the light that has now been turned on for our people that we haven't had in over 100 years. We will (continue to) cultivate this kind of leadership."

In turn each Leader commented on what "du-yu-dy," meaning the right way or right path, meant to him/her now that the program has come to an end. In an emotional statement, Kelly Murphy said that "du-yu-dv" meant "being able to read to my grandmother from the Bible in syllabary (Matthew 5:16)." Jeremy Wilson stated, "We are all seeds. Each module is a nutrient that nourishes us as we learn. Now we have sprouted." Lastly, Mike Thompson, stated, "They say Right Path journey is ending, but in reality we are just beginning."

The Leaders awardedposthumous awards to two community elders, Walker Calhoun and Bud Sneed, who tirelessly shared their knowledge with the Right Path Leaders. On behalf of his grandfather Walker Calhoun, Richie Bottchenbaugh accepted the award. Bud Sneed's award was presented to his wife, Margaret Sneed.

In its second year, the program is now housed under the auspices of Southwestern Community College. A culture-based leadership development program for adult members of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, it is designed to highlight traditional Cherokee cultural approaches that create selfless leaders that have sustained the Cherokee over the centuries. It works to bridge the past and present by examining traditional cultural elements as well as contemporary leadership competencies. For the past year Leaders have spent two days each month learning in classes and/or in the field.

40 Years Experience

Cell - (828) 736-1272 Home - (828) 488-3778 Mary is the Foster Grandparent Coordinator for Mountain Projects.

This is a foster grandparent or senior companions program for the child care programs in which elderly people come in like "volunteers" being paid by the state to work with children or to be a senior companion for someone who is elderly or homebound.

The foster grandparents can help the teachers by keeping the children busy with activities, singing with them, telling the stories, or holding babies in the infant room. They can also focus on helping a child who has special needs to give them more attention than the teacher can give in a group setting.

The volunteers must meet income guidelines of $22,340 per year or below to qualify for this program. You do not have to be an enrolled member of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians to be considered for this program. Anyone 55 years of age or older can apply.

BUS DEPARTMENT RECEIVES SATISFACTORY SAFETY RATING

The Cherokee Boys Club Tractor Trailer, Motor Coach and School Bus Departments were audited recently as part of a Compliance Review by the United States Department of Transportation. After a careful review of policy, driver, and maintenance records, the Club received a Satisfactory rating. The review inspected records of 27 school buses. five motor coaches, and five tractor trailers.

THOUGHTS AND PRAYERS

Our sympathy to the friends and family of Ammons Tooni who passed away on Saturday, September 15. Mr. Tooni was the father of Carmen Davis, wife of Jack Davis, Boys Club employee and Board Member. Please remember this family during this difficult time.

What is Encephalitis? Encephalitis is inflammation (swelling and irritation) of the brain, usually caused by infection. In some cases encephalitis can let to severe trauma and life threatening conditions.

What are the Symptoms? When Encephalitis happens after a common illness like chickenpox, the signs and symptoms of that illness come before and inflammation in the brain. Symptoms such as high fever, severe headaches, sensitivity to light (called photophobia: light hurts your eyes) Nausea, vomiting, stiff neck, confusion, drowsiness, irritability or poor temper control.

Where does Encephalitis come from? Encephalitis comes from infected mosquitoes which are called Tree-Hole mosquitoes. Tree Hole mosquitoes lay there larva eggs in any object that holds water such as buckets, gutters, ponds, old tires, trash and any object that may hold standing water. Once the eggs are laid, it takes only 5 whole days for the larva to hatch. It is very important to empty any object that holds standing water especially after a good rain.

How do I protect myself? Protecting yourself from Tree Hole Mosquitoes is very important. One good way is to apply bug-repellant that contains "DEET" to any open bare-skin each time a person is outside. Apply bug-repellant as followed by directions. Another way to protect yourself by wearing long sleeves and pants during outdoor activities.

If you any questions about Encephalitis please contact Healthy Cherokee/ Injury Prevention 497-7460.

Together with all additional rights, title, and interests of Grantor conveyed and described in the Deed of Trust recorded in Book XXXVIII, at Page 72, and re-recorded in Book LVII, at Page 2, in the Land Title and Records Office of the Cherokee Agency, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Cherokee, North Carolina, and recorded in Book 1693, at Page 462, Jackson County Register of Deeds.

This is the same property described in the Deed of Trust recorded in Book XXXVIII, at Page 72, and re-recorded in Book LVII, at Page 2, in the Land Title and Records Office of the Cherokee Agency, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Cherokee, North Carolina, and recorded in Book 1693, at Page 462, Jackson County Register of Deeds.

The current owner of the leasehold interest is AH Cherokee NC, LLC. The sale is made subject to all taxes (including but not limited to any applicable transfer taxes), special and homeowners' association assessments, and prior liens or encumbrances of record against the said property, unrecorded mechanics' and materialmen's liens, and any recorded releases.

The leasehold interest to be offered pursuant to this Notice of Foreclosure Sale is being offered for sale, transfer and conveyance "AS IS, WHERE IS, AND WITH ALL FAULTS." Neither the Substitute Trustee nor the Holder of the Note secured by the Deed of Trust/Security Agreement, or both, being foreclosed, nor the officers, directors, attorneys, employees, agents or authorized representatives of either the Substitute Trustee or the Holder of the Note make any representation of warranty relating to the title or any physical, environmental, health or safety conditions existing in, on, at or relating to the leasehold interest being offered for sale, and any and all responsibilities or liabilities arising out of or in any way relating to any such condition expressly are disclaimed.

To the extent not inconsistent with the terms of the Deed of Trust, the Substitute Trustee reserves the right to offer the leasehold interest for sale as a whole or in such parts or parcels thereof as are separately described in the Deed of Trust, or the Substitute Trustee may offer the leasehold interest for sale by each method and sell the leasehold interest by the method which produces the highest price.

A cash deposit not to exceed the greater of five percent (5%) of the amount of the bid or Seven Hundred Fifty and No/100 Dollars ($750.00) may be required at the time of the sale. If no upset bid is filed within ten (10) days from the date the Report of Foreclosure Sale is filed, a Trustee's Deed will be tendered to the highest bidder. Any successful bidder shall be required to tender the full balance of the purchase price so bid in cash or certified funds at the time the Substitute Trustee tenders to him a Trustee's Deed for the property or attempts to tender such deed, and should said successful bidder fail to pay the full balance purchase price so bid at that time, he may remain liable on his bid as provided for in N.C. Gen. Stat. §§ 45-21.30(d) and (e). In addition to the purchase price so bid any successful bidder will also be responsible for payment of revenue stamps and other costs of closing the

This leasehold interest is subject to limitations regarding possession and transfer under federal and Tribal law.

This the 15th day of August, 2012.
