Tribe receives $300K to conserve Hall Mountain

The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians has received a grant to help conserve the Hall Mountain Tract, a 108 acre tract located near Franklin. The grant was announced on Tuesday, Aug. 28 as part of the U.S. Forest Service Community Forest and Open Space Conservation Program.

"This tract of land will serve as an experimental research station similar to those of the Forest Service," said Tommy Cabe, EBCI Environmental & Natural Resources. "Through the grant, it was decided to have it open to the community. Not just the Tribe's community, but the community as a whole."

He said the property will be open to students, 4-H clubs, Job Corps students, and other groups. "It's a demonstration forest, a demonstration type area."

Cabe the property will be a learning and research center and will be managed "to reach a certain goal that will be influenced by Cherokee culture and Cherokee reasoning."

"This tract of land will serve as an area to where we can manage the tract but also have a trail system and a bike system where someone can stop and learn about what area is being managed, how it's being managed and why," he related.

Cabe said the area, once completed, will be similar in nature to the North Carolina Arboretum in that a minimal day usage fee will be charged, but that hasn't been established yet. Arboretum staff will actually help the Tribe in conducting an inventory of native plants on the property.

The conservation of this property is a new thing. "This property was originally slated for a housing development so it has a roads system already in it with some house sites already on it. Those house sites could be used for greenhouses," Cabe added. "They could be used for a campground setting for a little group to come and camp there for a week and learn about how we, as Cherokees, are starting to get into the 21st Century and manage our lands accordingly and preserve our culture as well."

Cabe noted the Tribe hopes to have the gates open for the property in two to three years, maybe earlier.

He said it was interesting how the Tribe became involved in the property to begin with.

"We were approached by the Little Tennessee Land Trust, and they were concerned that this land was going to be developed. It also resides within the viewshed of the Cowee Mound off of Highway 28."

"So, it was very significant to us, as a Tribe," said Cabe, "to secure the viewshed first and foremost. We didn't necessarily think that having multi-million dollar homes looking down on a sacred and spiritual site was aesthetically pleasing."

The grant made the securing of the property a reality. "I know that the Tribe is pretty excited about expanding its land base for conservation. We only have a little more than 5,000 acres here on the Boundary that is called tribal reserve."

Cabe said conservation of the property is of the utmost importance. "Given that this land is adjacent to the North Carolina Wildlife Commission land, I think it gives us an opportunity to really get into wildlife management as well. Management is going to be the key to us on this piece of property as a Tribe."

Sen. Kay Hagan (D-NC) commented, "We must take steps to ensure that future generations will be able to enjoy our forests and public lands. I'm pleased that the EBCI will reap the economic, environmental, and educational benefits of conserving Hall Mountain tract."

She is the vice-chair of the Congressional Sportsmen's Caucus and co-sponsored the Roadless Area Conservation Act of 2011 and the Rural Heritage Conservation Extension Act.

Agriculture Undersecretary Harris Sherman related, "These truly are community forests: envisioned by a local community, supported by the local community and it is the local community who will reap the economic and environmental benefits. This program will give thousands of Americans better access to the great outdoors, while fostering the next generation of American conservationists."

Other funded projects in the program include:

- * Easton, NH and Sugar Hill, NM community forest
- * Pilgrim Community Forest, Portage Township, Mich.
- * Foy's Community Forest, Kalispell, Mont.
- * Mount Ascension Natural Park, Helena, Mont.
- * Lincoln Community Forest, Lincoln, Wisc.
- * North Kitsap Heritage Park, Kingston, Wash.
- * Barre Town Forest, Washington County, Vt.
- * Nine Times Community Forest, Pickens County, SC
- * Indian Creek Community Forest, Kalispell Tribe of Indians

Information from the USFS states, "The Community Forest and Open Space Conservation Program provides financial assistance grants to local governments, tribes and qualified nonprofit organizations working to establish community forests with a focus on economic and environmental benefits, education, forest stewardship and recreation opportunities."

August Report from Miss Cherokee

By KRISTINA HYATT
MISS CHEROKEE 2011

I have been very busy throughout the month of August fulfilling various roles and attending various events. I completed an internship with the Finance Department, was busy fulfilling Miss Cherokee duties, and began my journey as a dental hygiene student.

On Aug. 3, I volunteered at the trout derby registration at the Cherokee Fairgrounds. I had my picture made with some of the registrants and welcomed them to Cherokee. On Aug. 4, at 5:30 am, I volunteered at the trout derby event and mingled with the participants. There were so many people! I was glad to see everyone, especially the children having such a wonderful time.

On Aug. 7, I attended the Big Cove Community Club meeting held at the Big Cove Community Rec Center. I presented them with a picture of myself, Big Cove Councilmen, and Heath Shuler to express my appreciation to them. They were one of my sponsors for the 2011 Miss Cherokee pageant.

On Aug. 20, I began the Dental Hygiene Program at AB Tech. I am very excited to be starting this new chapter in my life and want to encourage you all to pursue your dreams. As members of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, we are very blessed and have the potential and resources necessary to be successful.

On Aug. 30, I will be travelling to Oklahoma to attend Cherokee Holidays. I am very excited about this trip and look forward to interacting with Western Cherokees! I will be participating in their parade and I am sad to say that this will be the last parade that I will participate in as Miss Cherokee.

After my trip to Oklahoma, I will have one remaining trip that will close out my reign as Miss Cherokee. There are also a couple of local events that I will attend. I would like to encourage each of you to attend the Miss Cherokee 2012 Pageant that will be held on Sept. 29.

THPO to host 2nd Annual Cherokee Archaeology Day

By BRIAN BURGESS
EBCI THPO

The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians Tribal Historic Preservation Office assumed cultural resource protection duties on tribal lands within traditional territories a little more than 11 years ago. Cultural and archaeological resource protection pursuant to the National Historic Preservation Act was assumed from eight regional State Historic Preservation Offices; Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, and North Carolina. The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians was the 23rd tribe in the nation to qualify for THPO status. As of today, there are 132 federally recognized tribes that have achieved THPO status.

Ideally, the THPO is involved in government to government consultation during a project's planning phase. To comply with federal law stipulated in the National Historic Preservation Act (1969), any construction activities planned on federal lands, incorporate federal funding, or that requires federally permitting, must be reviewed by the THPO to ensure that previously identified archaeological sites are protected. If a property has no record of an archaeological survey and is determined to be an area of high probability in regards to cultural resources, it is the THPO's responsibility to recommend archaeological investigation prior to project construction. Such "compliance archaeology" has yielded a vast amount of information for the scientific community, and equally important, has given the tribe certain knowledge about their culture otherwise lost amidst fervent development.

Being stalwart stewards of cultural resources is the THPO's ultimate goal. In the face of unchecked land development, perhaps there is no greater honor than realizing actions taken by the THPO protects Cherokee graves and significant archaeological features. However, the historic preservation program is more than just archaeological compliance. Incorporating Tribal cultural values into the historic preservation program is a constant priority for the EBCI THPO. The office holds a monthly Elder Advisory Board meeting to gain insights and opinions from Tribal Elders in regards to general knowledge of recent history, conventional customs, traditional land, plant and animal usage.

In addition, Elder involvement and opinion on specific archaeological projects that require sensitive treatment of cultural resources is useful and sometimes critical. As one can imagine, Cherokee Elders have a unique and different take on Cherokee culture than archaeologists. A majority of archaeologists, at least those with which the EBCI maintains a professional working relationship, have grown to strongly value elder insight and approval.

In recent years, the THPO has had the privilege to work with a vast array of archaeologists from across the region on intriguing projects including: The Ravensford Project, The Cherokee Towns and Mounds Project, The Judaculla Rock Project, The Sacred Hiawassee Riverscape, Prehistoric Cave and Rock Art in Tennessee, The Archaeology of Cherokee Life at the Time of Removal, The Cherokee Archaeological Field School, The Appletree Site, The Hickory Log site in north Georgia, TVA and Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation commitment, Peaks of Otter (an archaic stratified site in western Virginia), DeSoto's Route through Cherokee Border Lands, and archaeological investigations at the Spanish Fort San Juan, the earliest known European settlement in the United States Interior, and the associated role of Cherokee Diplomacy.

On Friday, Sept. 7, the THPO will host the 2nd annual Cherokee Archaeology Day at the Chestnut Tree Inn. The event will begin at 8:15am and will run through 3pm with several professional archaeologists presenting topics related to Cherokee archaeology throughout the day. There will be speakers from Tennessee Valley Authority, Western Carolina University, Warren Wilson College, The United States Forest Service, University of Tennessee-Knoxville, and many more. The goal is to provide information on Cherokee archaeological projects both on and off the Qualla Boundary, and to provide education to the community about how Archaeology and Anthropology can teach us more about Cherokee life, culture, and history. This event is open to the public. Please feel free to attend the entire day, or drop in for presentations which pique your interest. You can RSVP for the event by contacting Miranda Panther 554-6850, miralane@nc-cherokee.com or Yolanda Saunooke 554-6854, yolasaun@nc-cherokee.com.

STUDENT BOARD REPRESENTATIVE ELECTED

The election for the Student Representative for the Boys Club Board of Directors was held on Thursday, Aug. 30 at the High School. Nominees for the Student Representative were taken from students who participated in the Club's summer On-the-Job training program or students who have participated in the vocational classes that the school offers (Automotive Technology and Graphics).

The students eligible for nomination could not be a senior because they have to serve the two-year Board term before they graduate. The five nominees were Constance Cline, Fernando Garcia, Austin Padilla, Jesse Toineeta and Cole Wildcatt. Cole Wildcatt received the most votes and will represent the school on the Boys Club Board.

The newly elected Board members met on September 4 to select two outside business people to serve on the Board and to elect officers for this term. Council appoints a representative (currently Perry Shell) bringing the total number of board members to nine.

The new Board for the 2012-2014 term will be installed on Monday, Oct. 1. The current board will continue to serve until Sept. 30, 2014.

SCHOOL BUS SAFETY TIPS

1. Leave plenty of time to get to the bus stop. When you rush, you may not follow safety rules.
2. Walk on sidewalks when available.
3. Remain alert at all times; don't listen to your MP3 players, text, talk on your cell phones or play video games because you won't be aware of what is happening around you.
4. Be careful when wearing your hood up; it makes it difficult for you to see.
5. When you wait for the bus, stay away from the road. Don't play around so you will be aware of traffic.
6. Make sure the bus driver can see you at all times.
7. Wait for the bus to stop completely before you approach it to get on or before you stand up to get off.
8. Clothes or back packs should not have draw strings, toggles or key chains. They can get caught on bus handrails and doors.

9. Hold the handrails so you don't trip on the stairs.
10. Find a seat and sit down immediately.
11. Know your bus driver's name and bus number to be sure you are boarding the right bus.
12. Be courteous and respectful to your driver.
13. Talk and laugh quietly with friends, but do not scream; it will distract the driver.
14. Do not put your head, arms, papers or anything out of the windows.
15. If you drop something near the bus, don't pick it up. The driver may not see you. Instead, ask the driver for help.
16. If you have to cross the road, wait until the driver lets you know it is okay.
17. Stay away from the bus wheels at all times – especially the back wheels where it is hard for the bus driver to see you.

Oconaluftee Job Corps Civilian Conservation Center joined 125 other Job Corps centers across the country to celebrate the second annual 'National Job Corps Commencement Day'. Held on Friday, Aug. 24, the local ceremony congratulated 20 students who graduated the program this year with successful education and career training in everything from Forestry Conservation to Office Administration.

At the Oconaluftee JCCCC, these young adults aged 16-24 were offered a set of diverse academic opportunities and career pathways tailored to meet the needs of today's business and industry. Nationally each year, thousands of youth are given a second chance to complete their education and advance into careers, higher education or the military. Program graduates then return to their local area as active contributors to the economic and social fabric of the community much like the original CCC work programs of the 1930's.

Sen. Kay Hagan (D-NC), wrote to Oconaluftee's graduates "I don't have to tell you that our country is facing hard economic times. This day showcases to the community, employers, and tax payers that the Job Corps program is one of the nation's most effective career preparation programs... our focus must once again be on progress and job creation".

Mark Shriver, the son of Job Corps founder Sargent Shriver, congratulated the 60,000 students who graduated from Job Corps across the country this year. "Job Corps is a great investment for the American people," Shriver said in a special nationwide video address delivered in front of the United States Capitol. "Your commitment and dedication to get good-paying jobs make Job Corps the most successful federal training program serving your age group."

Graduate, Ashley Mitchell, understands this first hand. "I know good jobs are out there- I just have to be willing to run after the opportunity with everything I've got. I volunteered hundreds of hours this year for that one extra good reference and bullet point on my resume". Mitchell graduated from the Forestry Conservation and Wildland Firefighting program.

Shriver ended his video address by passing along advice from his father and Job Corps founder Sargent Shriver: "Just keep working hard. Something good will happen." Oconaluftee's graduates are proof of that including 1997 Oconaluftee JCCCC graduate and keynote graduation speaker, Jennifer Charand who completed the Health Occupations program and is now a successful Senior Program Manager with Aetna Healthcare in Georgia.

The Oconaluftee Job Corps Civilian Conservation Center is associated with the National Forests of North Carolina. It is accredited by the Council On Occupational Education and currently serves 104 students. The mission of the USDA Forest Service is to sustain the health, diversity, and productivity of the Nation's forests and grasslands to meet the needs of present and future generations. The Agency manages over 200 million acres of public land, provides assistance to State and private landowners, and maintains the largest forestry research organization in the world.

Thank you Sis Ensley and Aunt Linda Wiggins for always being there for her when she needed you, and now for being there for us too.

We'd also like to say thank you to all the singers who came to sing for our mother and family; she truly loved to hear each and every one of you and was comforted by the kind words spoken and by all the prayers lifted up on her behalf. Thank you to all the countless people who brought food, shared stories, or who just came to lend a shoulder to cry on, we will never forget you and are so thankful that you showed our mother how much she truly meant to us all.

We would also like to apologize to Abbygayle Grace Swayney, Andy Ray Carver, and Jack Johnson, for the misspelling of your names in the obituary, it was most definitely unintentional. Thank you to Pastor Richie Sneed for conducting the services and to the pall bearers –

PROTECT YOURSELF AGAINST ENCEPHALITIS!!

What is Encephalitis? Encephalitis is inflammation (swelling and irritation) of the brain, usually caused by infection. In some cases encephalitis can let to severe trauma and life threatening conditions.

What are the Symptoms? When Encephalitis happens after a common illness like chickenpox, the signs and symptoms of that illness come before and inflammation in the brain. Symptoms such as high fever, severe headaches, sensitivity to light (called photophobia: light hurts your eyes) Nausea, vomiting, stiff neck, confusion, drowsiness, irritability or poor temper control.

Where does Encephalitis come from? Encephalitis comes from infected mosquitoes which are called Tree-Hole mosquitoes. Tree Hole mosquitoes lay there larva eggs in any object that holds water such as buckets, gutters, ponds, old tires, trash and any object that may hold standing water. Once the eggs are laid, it takes only 5 whole days for the larva to hatch. It is very important to empty any object that holds standing water especially after a good rain.

How do I protect myself? Protecting yourself from Tree Hole Mosquitoes is very important. One good way is to apply bug-repellant that contains "DEET" to any open bare-skin each time a person is outside. Apply bug-repellant as followed by directions. Another way to protect yourself is by wearing dark cloths, long sleeves and pants.

If you any questions about Encephalitis please contact Healthy Cherokee/ Injury Prevention 497-7460.

Youth are encouraged to enter arts/crafts in Indian Fair

By HEATHER JAMES
EBCI 4-H AGENT

It's that time of year again to be preparing your youth to participate in the Cherokee Indian Fair by taking part in a time old tradition of entering their items for display and judging for all the community to enjoy. Did you know that anything created during the last year is eligible for entry in the youth, young adult and Cloverbud division?"

Those amazing arts/crafts your child has been creating all year at school and in their free time are perfect to share with the community by entering them into the fair. This is a chance to encourage your child to be active in the community, as well as help the Cherokee Indian Fair exhibit hall be a spectacular sight to enjoy during fair week. As an added bonus, your child may earn a little spending money to boot!

Don't worry if you have not thought about what your child is entering yet because there is still plenty of time. The first thing to do is to check out what categories are offered for your child to enter their creations in. This can be done by looking online at www.theonefeather.com for the categories, or coming by Cooperative Extension to pick up a full book of entry categories.

One category that has always been a favorite of mine is the recycled craft. This can be done using a variety of things around your house that you already have! This is also a wonderful opportunity to teach your child about the importance of reducing, reusing and recycling. In the hustle and bustle of everyday life, recycling isn't always the number one priority. But, with our environment in need of greater awareness and care, it's important that we teach our kids about the importance of taking care of the world in which we live.

Did you know?

The average person generates 4.5 pounds of trash every day – about 1.5 tons of solid waste per year. And, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) estimates that 75 percent of solid waste is recyclable, only about 30 percent is actually recycled.

There's no better day than today to talk to kids about recycling, why it's helpful and what we can do as families to make our own positive footprint on Mother Earth.

RTCAR works with LTLT on river cane

On Friday, Aug. 24, RTCAR (Revitalization of Traditional Cherokee Artisan Resources) joined with Dennis Desmond of the Land Trust for the Little Tennessee and five truckloads of basketmakers, harvesters, and family to scope out butternut plantings and the river cane they are monitoring in Tennesse. Although the cane there needs another year or two to be basket quality, harvesters were able to go to Cowee to harvest. Shown in the photo is first time harvester Megan Stamper who learned to weave river cane baskets at Cherokee High School from Lucille Lossiah, who was also on the trip. Stamper is now a full time student at Southwestern Community College. RTCAR works with watershed organizations as partners to look for quality cane for basketmakers.

Cherokee Indian Hospital Authority Report

Just say no to MRSA

By ANDREA CRISP, RN

CHEROKEE COMMUNITY HEALTH

The start of school can mean the start of a year of sports—football, basketball, soccer, wrestling and baseball just to name a few. It can also mean lots of cuts and bumps and bruising. Pair this with locker rooms, dirty hands and shared equipment and it can mean a recipe for disaster. There are things that can be done to minimize this risk. This article will talk about skin infections related to MRSA and ways to prevent or minimize that risk.

MRSA stands for methicillin resistant staph aureus. Simply put, it is a staph germ that has become resistant to certain antibiotics. Potentially, it can become a serious infection. About half of the 12 million doctor visits each year for skin infections can be attributed to MRSA. There are things we can do to decrease our chances of getting infected with MRSA. Athletes can be at higher risk because of many factors. Certain sports increase skin to skin contact. Training facilities are used by multiple people. Often the equipment is not cleaned between participants and it would be almost impossible to change that in many cases. Also, players sweat a lot and often wear clothing that can rub or irritate the skin causing abrasions or pimple like areas. A few hygiene tips can go a long way to help decrease this risk.

First, take good care of yourself. Shower daily. Shower after work outs. Wash your hands before entering the workout room and again as soon as you are done. Don't share towels, razors, bar soap or other personal items. Don't pick at cuts, scabs or pimples. If you are asked to help bandage a wound, wash your hands before and after and wear gloves. If no soap and water is available, use alcohol based hand sanitizer. If you have a cut or scrape, cover it up. Wear a bandage or a band aid. Don't pick up or touch dirty bandages. Make sure they go in a trash can. If possible, wear flip flops in community showers. Wash your clothing after each use. If at all possible, dry it in a dryer. Heat from a dryer will kill MRSA.

If you think you may have an infection, show a parent, coach or trainer. Signs of infection are redness around the wound, hot or warm feeling skin around the wound, pain and /or drainage from the wound. Fever may indicate the wound has gotten seriously infected and you should seek medical attention. Often patients think they have been spider bit. If you think you have a skin infection, see your health care provider immediately. Prompt attention to infection dramatically decreases the chances the infection will become serious. Remember, not all infections are MRSA.

Coaches and trainers need to enforce good hygiene. They also need to be sure proper cleaning occurs in locker rooms, weight rooms and showers. The EPA offers guidance on the types of products that should be used to disinfect and how to use them. MRSA can be spread by touching contaminated objects, therefore good hand washing is key to prevention as well as wearing clean clothing and using clean towels. Mosquitoes causing record West Nile Virus Outbreak

SUBMITTED By BELINDA WILSON

West Nile Virus (WNV) is a viral infection caused by the bite of a diseased mosquito. About 80 percent of people infected with WNV will have no symptoms. A few people, about 1 out of 150, who have the virus will develop severe illness. A few people will see symptoms develop in 3 to 14 days after an infecting mosquito bite.

According to the CDC, people over the age of 50 or those with chronic disease, such as diabetes or kidney disease run the highest risk of developing serious symptoms and less than 1 percent of those with West Nile Virus will develop encephalitis or meningitis.

What are the symptoms of wnv?

- High fever

- Headache
- Neck stiffness
- Nausea and vomiting

A milder virus can also cause body aches, swollen glands and a rash. The virus has no specific treatment, however the elderly and chronically ill may require hospitalization.

If you are chronically ill with kidney disease, diabetes, high blood pressure or cancer and you develop unusually severe headaches or confusion, seek medical attention quickly.

Belinda is a public health nurse with Cherokee Community Health.

Pictured at right is Mack Lackey, son of Mr. Rick Lackey who teaches 5th grade at Cherokee Elementary School. Mack attended the MedCat program in July with other high school students in the region at Wake Forest University. MedCat, Medical Careers and Technology, is a cooperative effort between Western Carolina University and WFU to promote careers in medicine. Highlights of the intensive program were touring Wake Forest Medical School and Hospital. They observed and had hands-on experiences in a chemistry and medical labs, a cardiac cath lab, and bioimaging. At the hospital they got to observe a prostate gland removal and the insertion of a stent into the heart. The students worked in teams on a project and met with health professionals and medical students to learn how to reach the goals they set. The MedCat program will continue, as funding allows, so high school students and parents keep your eyes open for announcements on this incredible opportunity. In the meantime, you may contact the Cherokee Center or Dr. Lisa Lefler at the Health and Human Sciences College for more information.

What is Encephalitis? Encephalitis is inflammation (swelling and irritation) of the brain, usually caused by infection. In some cases encephalitis can let to severe trauma and life threatening conditions.

What are the Symptoms? When Encephalitis happens after a common illness like chickenpox, the signs and symptoms of that illness come before and inflammation in the brain. Symptoms such as high fever, severe headaches, sensitivity to light (called photophobia: light hurts your eyes) Nausea, vomiting, stiff neck, confusion, drowsiness, irritability or poor temper control.

Where does Encephalitis come from? Encephalitis comes from infected mosquitoes which are called Tree-Hole mosquitoes. Tree Hole mosquitoes lay their larva eggs in any object that holds water such as buckets, gutters, ponds, old tires, trash and any object that may hold standing water. Once the eggs are laid, it takes only 5 whole days for the larva to hatch. It is very important to empty any object that holds standing water especially after a good rain.

How do I protect myself? Protecting yourself from Tree Hole Mosquitoes is very important. One good way is to apply bug-repellant that contains "DEET" to any open bare-skin each time a person is outside. Apply bug-repellant as followed by directions. Another way to protect yourself is by wearing dark cloths, long sleeves and pants.

If you any questions about Encephalitis please contact Healthy Cherokee/ Injury Prevention 497-7460.
