Dinilawigi (Tribal Council) approved the 2024-28 Strategic Plan by passing Res. We heard this in the political process this past year is how can we do a better job of planning and really creating some priorities that are impactful not only today but for future generations for all of our communities and all of our people."

foundation that we work through."

EBCI Secretary of Education Sky
Sampson presented the five priorities outlined in the plan including: ensuring language and cultural preservation, promoting community engagement across the board, growing tribal health and healing, financial security for our future generations, and tribal sovereignty and government.

"So, these are the big priority areas that we feel like we feel like we really need to concentrate on in the next four years and based on feedback from the community as well as the staff for the Tribe."

I'm really looking forward to what they come up with for our actions and how we're going to meet these goals. We're really excited about this work and hope you guys are too."

Secretary Sampson also read the vision and mission statement. "The vision is a nation that honors our culture and traditions while advancing a prosperous and sustainable future. The mission is to strive for cultural integrity, economic prosperity, a healthy and educated community, and a protected natural environment."

She related that individual program strategies and action plans to achieve the goals in the Strategic Plan will be developed following upcoming meetings with program managers.

Following are the goals as outlined in the Strategic Plan:

Goal A.1: Align all language and cultural teaching models, evaluations, and reporting by FY2026

Goal A.2: Increase representation of community identity and Cherokee language on all tribal levels by FY2027

Goal A.3: Advance archives and technology usage across the board by FY2027

Goal D.2: Create and refine processes for reporting for programs and entities by FY2024

Goal E.1: Build and improve relationships at all levels including state, regional, tribal governments, and federal agencies by FY2028

Dinilawigi (Tribal Council) Chairman Mike Parker thanked Chief Hicks, Taline Ugvwiyu (Vice Chief) Alan B. Ensley, Tribal Council, and staff for their work on the plan. "We haven't had one of these in a long, long time where all parties were involved with the development of it and agree on all these things. So, I just want to tell you guys thank you."

Kolanvyi (Big Cove) Rep. Perry Shell commented, "This has been on many Council in the past, and this one is unique in that we have an experienced Council, you have an experienced executive side of our government as well, but they're working together. It hasn't taken place like this I don't believe in this fluid a manner as it has in this particular term here."

In speaking of the vision, he noted, "These are all good, noble goals, but to get to this goal there are many steps involved and it involves all our people, not just our tribal government."

Elawodi (Yellowhill) Rep. Tom Wahnetah, said, "We have four Tribal Council chairmans sitting on this Council, and every one of us have experience sitting here – so does the executive and majority of the team members they have put together have worked with this tribe, and I think the work that we've already done this year, people know that Cherokee are still around."

Sam Owl settles in as chief executive officer of Kituwah, LLC

By BROOKLYN BROWN

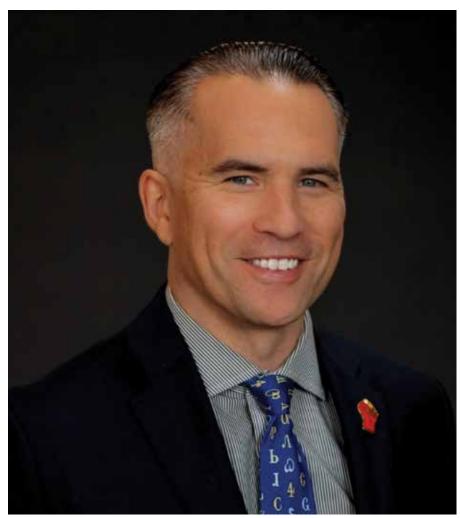

One Feather Reporter

CHEROKEE, N.C. - Sam Owl, a member of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians (EBCI), from Wayohi (Wolftown), is the new chief executive officer of Kituwah, LLC. Owl was on the Kituwah Economic Development Board (KEDB) since its inception. Owl succeeds Mark Hubble, who served as chief executive officer since the entity was formed in 2018.

Owl is a certified public accountant (CPA) with a bachelor's and master's degree in accountancy from the University of Tennessee - Knoxville (UT). Serendipitously, Owl became a CPA under the guidance of Principal Chief Michell Hicks. "There's a mound on the UT agricultural campus, and at the time, they were talking about building a bridge between the two campuses, and I believe there may have been some encroachment if they went with their plan. So, Cherokee Historical came to UT, when the Bushyheads and Garfield Long Junior worked there," Owl shared.

"I was talking to Lynne Harlan and said, 'I've got this project in accounting, and I have to interview a CPA.' She said, 'Well, Michell's a CPA.' So, I ended up interviewing him and that's how I got my first role with the Tribe. I was an intern for a summer with budget and finance, and whenever I had breaks, I would come back and work, and that's kind of what led me in the trajectory of becoming a CPA."

Prior to becoming chief executive officer of Kituwah, LLC., Owl served for over eight years as the chief financial officer for the National Congress of American Indians in the Metro DC area. For the past six years, he was employed with CliftonLarsonAllen, most recently serving as the Principal of the Tribal Services practice. Working for Indian Country in economics, Owl saw a need to help his community diversify financially as other tribes were doing. "You have to protect the community and invest in the community locally, but to fully diversify the economy, you've got to make these strategic investments outside of the reservation. That's the power of Kituwah," Owl said.

"Last year was a bit of a tumultuous year for the organization, and it got me thinking that there needed to be a change. I would've loved to continue to be on the KEDB, but we needed somebody that was much closer to the community, that was from the community and that the community had trust in."

Owl says that for the future success of Kituwah, LLC and the EBCI, the organization needs to shift focus. "We're in a transitionary period, and that's going to be the biggest piece is looking at how to retool and shift our focus. I believe the big economic driver of the tribe is diversification. We own a brand, and now it's just getting that brand out there, getting properties, and then getting those resources back into the company, back to Kituwah and back to the community."

Owl also wants to ensure the community that there will be open communication from Kituwah, LLC. "We've been in front of Tribal Council numerous times on camera. When we go off camera, which will happen in the future and has happened in the past, it's not because of anything nefarious. We have partners that are publicly traded companies, and when you're dealing with information related to publicly traded companies that the company hasn't disclosed to the public, we don't want that to get out there for their protection and for our relationship," Owl said.

"I don't want there to be any misconception that we're trying to hide anything when we have to have confidential conversations, and I'm happy to discuss why if we have to go off camera, some of the underlying reasons. What's confidential today eventually will be public information in the future. When the publicly traded company makes the announcement, then we can go back and say, this is what we've been waiting to hear so that we could share openly."

Owl, from the "old number 4 Owls," as he described it, is looking forward to being back home and serving his community as chief executive officer of Kituwah, LLC. "I'm looking forward to seeing my nieces run track. My daughters are flying down with my wife from Virginia, and I have a lot of plans ahead. We have a lot of really good things here for the community, and I'm thankful for that."

Great Smoky Cannabis Company to open only for sale of medical cannabis

By SCOTT MCKIE B.P.

One Feather Asst. Editor

CHEROKEE, N.C. – The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians (EBCI) is set to open the first cannabis dispensary in North Carolina. The Great Smoky Cannabis Company, operated by Qualla Enterprises, LLC – an EBCI tribal entity – will open to the public for sale of medical cannabis products only on Saturday, April 20 at 10

The dispensary is located at 91 Bingo Loop Road in Cherokee, N.C. in the same building that housed the now-defunct Cherokee Tribal Bingo.

EBCI voters overwhelmingly approved the idea of legalizing cannabis for adult-use (recreational) in a September 2023 referendum, but it has not been approved into the Cherokee Code yet.

The following question was posed on the Sept. 7, 2023 referendum, "Do you support legalizing the possession and use of cannabis for persons who are at least twenty-one (21) years old and require the EBCI Tribal Council to develop legislation to regulate the market?"

The referendum passed 2,464 (yes) to 1,057 (no).

Tabled Ord. No. 63 (2024) was submitted by the entirety of Dinilawigi (Tribal Council). A work session was held on the legislation on Feb. 28. The ordinance was not on the agenda for the March 7 session of Dinilawigi (Tribal Council), and it is not on the agenda for the scheduled session on April 4.

A 'Joint Statement from Tribal Leadership' was issued by EBCI leaders on the afternoon of Thursday, March 28. It read, "Recently, it was announced that the Great Smoky Cannabis Company will open its doors on April 20, 2024, exclusively for medical cannabis purposes. Since then, we have received several questions about the status of recreational use and where it stands today.

The referendum posed on Sept. 7, 2023, asked tribal members whether they would support legalizing the possession and use of cannabis for individuals aged 21 and older. Additionally, it required the EBCI Tribal Council to pass legislation to regulate the marijuana market."

The statement continues, "With 70 percent of voters in favor, we acknowledge the significance of this vote. Since then, we have approached this responsibility seriously so that any legislation concerning cannabis is practical and thoughtful. This is a process that cannot be rushed; there are numerous factors to consider so that we are able to make the best decisions as these are decisions that can have significant long-term impacts on our tribe.

Work is continuing to progress with the executive and legislative branches, and we are committed to make sure that any administrative efforts and legislation concerning recreational cannabis use is implemented responsibly. We will continue to provide updates as we move forward."

Information from Qualla Enterprises, LLC, the EBCI tribal entity which runs the Great Smoky Cannabis Company, states, "The world-class dispensary is a seedto-sale operation. Upon opening, this facility promises to revolutionize the landscape of medical cannabis on the Qualla Boundary. With a commitment to quality, compassion, and education, Great Smoky Mountain Cannabis Co. aims to provide patients with safe and regulated access to medicinal cannabis products. The new dispensary will open with high-quality tested products - including flower, vape products, edibles, topicals, and more - carefully curated to meet the diverse needs of patients. Product selection will continue to grow and evolve each month."

Sales at the store are only for those who are 21-years-old and older who have a medical cannabis card. Qualla Enterprises, LLC states, "The medical cannabis patient cards are issued by the EBCI Cannabis Control Board. They will also extend reciprocity to individuals with out-of-state medical cards or other tribal medical cannabis cards."

Qualla Enterprises, LLC has a total of 93 employees with 82 percent (76) being EBCI tribal members. The employees work in the following areas: administration (9), cultivation (50), production/processing (4), retail (18), and security (12).

CHEROKEE, N.C.—With help from the International Women's Media Foundation's Fund for Indigenous Journalists: Reporting on Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women, Girls, Two-Spirit and Transgender People (MMIWG2T), the Cherokee One Feather is detailing each of the 35 documented Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians (EBCI) Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls (MMIWG) cases in a monthly article.

Lively Crüe Colindres, an 8-month-old baby girl and member of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians (EBCI), was murdered in February 2022. Lively is the daughter of Elbia Colindres, and granddaughter of Ronda Linda Colindres, who shared powerful words at the 4th Annual Missing and Murdered Indigenous Relatives Walk and Vigil on May 5, 2023, in Cherokee.

"I never dreamed this would happen to me, so I know how you feel who have lost somebody. We're not looking for sympathy, but we are seeking justice. Until she gets justice, that's when she can rest in peace," Ronda Linda Colindres said.

Lively's father, Corbin Lee Nunez, then 22 years old, was arrested and charged with murder by Graham County on Feb. 21, 2022, nine days after Lively succumbed to her injuries on Feb. 12, 2022.

Sequoyah's Medal

Sequoyah (1770-1843), also known as George Guess and George Gist, was the inventor of the Cherokee syllabary. According to the Encyclopedia of Arkansas, "In 1824, the Cherokee Council at the Cherokee capitol of New Echota, Ga., commissioned a medal to be presented to Sequoyah for creating a written form of their language, but by then he had moved to Arkansas and did not receive it until 1832."

An article entitled 'Sequoyah, Inventor of the Cherokee Talking Leaf' on the Explore Claremore History website states that the reverse of the medal had the following inscription, "Presented to George Gist by the General Council of the Cherokee Nation, for ingenuity in the Invention of the Cherokee Alphabet. 1825."

Mission Health is accepting applications from throughout the community for the Kesha Young Health Careers Scholarship with the aim of supporting the education goals for high school seniors and college students of color from Western North Carolina who are pursuing careers in healthcare. Interested candidates can apply at MissionHealth.org/Kesha

For more than 25 years, Mission Health has been awarding the Kesha Young Health Careers Scholarship, with more than $1 million given to make college more affordable for high school seniors and college students of color from Western North Carolina who are

The scholarship is named in honor of Kesha Young, a 22-yearold, bi-racial woman who was born with mental and physical disabilities and underwent multiple surgeries at Mission Hospital. Kesha died just months before she was scheduled to earn her high school diploma. Despite her health struggles, Kesha was described by her adoptive parents as embodying the characteristics that are vital to how healthcare team members engage with patients, families and visitors, with a strong spirit, warm smile and positive encouragement.

SCC to host Solar Eclipse Viewing Event

SYLVA, N.C. - The Smoky Mountains STEM Collaborative (SMSC), in collaboration with Jackson County Early College, is organizing a solar eclipse viewing party beginning at 2 p.m. on Monday, April 8 in the Balsam parking lot at Southwestern Community College's Jackson Campus.

A total solar eclipse will cross Mexico, North America and Canada on April 8. While western North Carolina (WNC) is not in the path of totality, Sylva, N.C. will be treated to a partial solar eclipse with 87 percent magnitude. The magnitude of a solar eclipse is the fraction of the Sun's diameter covered by the Moon, which means viewers in the WNC will witness an exciting amount of coverage.

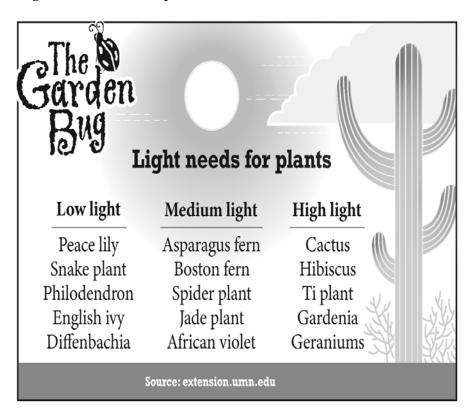

The event will run from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. with a livestream, activities, food available for purchase from the Iron Wok food truck and Kona Ice and more. A number of solar eclipse viewing glasses will be available for guests.

Matt Cass, principal investigator for the SMSC, stresses the importance of viewing safety during the eclipse. "Here in WNC, you will need certified safe, undamaged glasses in order to view the partial eclipse. Do not stare directly into the Sun without any protective wear."

The next total solar eclipse for the US will be Aug. 24, 2044.

To stay updated on the latest news, follow the SMSC on Facebook or contact Alex Lewis at j_lewis@SouthwesternCC.edu.

How do we learn?

By ROBERT JUMPER

One Feather Editor

We have seen many studies on how people learn. Some learn by listening. Others by seeing. Others by doing.

"According to research, if you really want new material to stick, the best way to study is something called 'distributed practice.' That means that if you want to master a new concept, your best bet is to study hard for a short period of time, take a break, and then have another go at it, spreading intense bursts of learning over a long period of time.

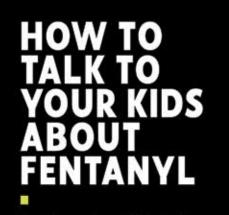

"But while research shows this is one of the best ways to practice, it doesn't necessarily fit neatly into the usual way school days are planned. Creative teachers could, of course, work around that to incorporate the strategy into their plans, but according to Kent State's John Dunlosky, who led a team of psychologists to review the evidence for a great variety of learning strategies, many teachers are simply unaware of the benefits of distributed practice (Inc.com)"

I am an avid Bible reader. I love it. I enjoy the wisdom and artistry in words particularly those words from scripture. I have read it through several times. I have heard it as many. When our Sunday School teacher or Church Pastor institutes a reading, I have no problem going right at it. I also find different translations of the Bible worthwhile to read and it doesn't bother me that the words don't match from translation to translation. As best as I can, given my limited mental capacity, I will put in my head and heart the meaning of what is being "said" in scripture, and most of the time, I do get the gist of what is being communicated through the words.

Over decades of hearing and reading those same words, very little memorization has taken place. I am lousy at it. There are some verses, after those years of repetition, I will be able to repeat without butchering them too badly, but, by and large, I am thankful for concordances that allow looking up a keyword or phrase so that a passage may be found quickly if folks need an oratory.

Of course, I am on the elder end of my days, so remembering where my glasses are, even when they are propped up on my head, or my cell phone is, even when it is in my hand, can be challenging some days. Unfortunately, some of my memory issues can't be blamed on age. I have never been good with names.

You can't see, smell, or taste fentanyl, so how can you protect your kids from it? Talk to them.

This is not a "Just Say No" conversation. This is "Just Say Know." Most kids aren't seeking fentanyl, they get it by accident. Just knowing that it is hidden in fake pills and other drugs empowers them and helps them stay safe. And it opens the door to conversations about healthier ways to deal with stress.

ED TERNAN, bereaved Dad and President of Song for Charle

Whether it is a person, place, or thing, I just don't retain it or even attempt to retain it the way that I should. I just don't have the "want to"

Going back to my favorite book, the Bible, one of the reasons I don't retain as well as I should it that I am lazy and rely on the supposition that a Bible will always be available to me. We all do that routinely these days. Do you have a smartphone? And do you have a bunch of friends? I bet you do. How many of you still memorize the phone numbers of friends and family? Another bet is that you probably don't. It is much easier to look up their names in a contact directory on the phone or just say "Hey Google...call Bill" and the phone just does the remembering of that number for you. Can't recall the number to Cherokee Indian Hospital? "Hey Siri, call the Cherokee Hospital". And almost magically, you are in touch with whoever you want without taxing your memory at all.

I had the opportunity to tour one of the local independent healthcare facilities recently. They help people of all nationalities in this treatment center. I asked what they do when they get someone who doesn't speak their language. Does it hinder them from providing service to someone like that? They answered by taking me to one of their treatment assessment rooms. In it, there was a small computer on a rolling stand (reminded me of C3PO). The guide told me that when someone comes in and does not speak any of the languages the staff speaks, this little robot would serve as a translator for the client and the staff. Some of these language bots will translate over 100 different languages. The guide said that the staff will ask the question in English, for example, and the bot will say it in the language of the client. The client will speak to the bot in their language and the bot will say it back to the staff in English. Treatment is facilitated by this language robot.

I believe learning will continue to be impacted by new technology, maybe forever changing the way we end up communicating. The new buzzword (or maybe it is a buzz acronym) in the modern lexicon is "AI" or artificial intelligence. "Artificial intelligence refers to computer systems that can perform tasks commonly associated with human cognitive functions, such as interpreting speech, playing games, and identifying patterns. Typically, AI systems learn how to do so by processing massive amounts of data and looking for patterns to model in their own decision-making. In many cases, humans will supervise an AI's learning process, reinforcing good decisions, and discouraging bad ones. But some AI systems are designed to learn without supervision; for instance, by playing a game over and over until they eventually figure out the rules and how to win (builtin.com)."

I have not made a conscious decision to either embrace or reject AI. I know that eventually the decision will be made for me. Like it or not AI is coming. It is always my practice to use the listen-back function of Microsoft Word to help me proof the material for the One Feather. Over the years, I have gotten used to the tinny, robotic voice that mispronounced words that it didn't have in its memory banks. Last week, I turned on the "Read Aloud" function on MS Word and was greeted by a much less machine-like voice. The computer was using voice inflection like the voice of a human and was getting more words right than wrong. The program was much more conversational like someone sitting in front of me and reading it to me. Others in the office have shown me programs that will allow you to input information about a subject and those programs will create speeches and reports, complete with human flavor and anecdotes.

All this surely makes me wonder what will challenge us to think in the future. What will motivate you and me, for example, to learn a language or perform basic human functions? With certain things done for us, will we have any motivation to create a new vision and mission for ourselves? How do we learn? In the next few months and years, the tale will be told. I just wonder if we will be telling it or if there will be some artificial intelligence sitting in for us. Now where did I put my glasses...

LETTER North Carolina residents eager to celebrate dispensary opening

When I began the Change is Coming movement in 2020, the goal was to tear down the wall forcing cannabis users to die in the dark and allow them to finally grow in the light. In 2021, a few bricks fell with the introduction of SB711, The Compassionate Care Act. When it passed the Senate that same year, a glimmer of light came through, but was quickly bricked back up by the North Carolina House.

In 2023, hopes were raised again when SB711 was renamed SB3 and passed the Senate a second time. The NC House, brick and mortar in hand, snuffed out the light once more by letting the bill die a second time.

Throughout this fight, "Hold Fast NC, Change is Coming" was the movement's mantra. Thanks to the compassion of the EBCI, this month I finally changed that mantra to "Hold Fast NC, Change Has Come." The announcement of the 4/20 dispensary opening was the final blow needed to bring the wall crumbling down, and we got to feel the sunlight on our face again.

Since the announcement, hundreds of North Carolina residents have contacted me. From couples planning a weekend getaway to busloads of cannabis consumers ready for a day trip. I am looking forward to a sea of familiar faces this 4/20 at the Great Smoky Mountain Cannabis Dispensary, and Hold Fast NC, Change Has Come.

SUB Bus Driver Mack Stanley

I started my job thirty years ago. When I am driving it's like you're watching all the little darlings for their safety and making sure they get home safely and traveling safely through all the traffic. I drive in a tourist town and share the road with visitors. It's like playing hopscotch or bumper cars. I have variable stops during the day, I travel around variable miles per day, and I have a variable number of kids on my bus.

I leave for my morning run around 6:00 a.m. and finish my morning run around 7:45 a.m. I leave for my afternoon run around 2:30 p.m. and finish the afternoon run around 4:00 p.m. Plus, I inspect my bus before my morning run, and I inspect my bus before my afternoon run. I as a School Bus clean my bus after my run and ensure no students are left on the bus.

Q: What does it mean to you to be a Cherokee Boys Club School Bus Driver?

A: To build strong relationships with children and co-workers, I cherish working at the Cherokee Boys Club as a School Bus Driver and being surrounded by such wonderful people.

FAITH COMMENTARY

You get what you deserve

By Lamont H. Fuchs, Ed. D., excerpt from "Preacher Spurs", Christian Faith Publishers, 2022

And what is that, exactly? What do we deserve? Does anyone owe us anything? This nation? This county? Does your mom or your dad owe you anything? Does your brother or your sister? How about your kids? Do they owe you anything? Do those rich folks that have everything owe you something? Does your local church owe you for giving all that money each Sunday? Does God owe us anything? If so, what did you do to deserve it?

My folks brought me into this world, and they should owe me a living, education, money - they owe me all they own. I am their kid. Not really, you are a grown-up and are responsible for yourself.

Why do all those rich folks have everything, and I don't? Good question! What they have is what God gave them, whether they think they earned it or not. He shines on those He chooses and rains on those He chooses. That is called God's sovereignty.

Now we are at the root of it all. Why doesn't God just give it to me? He brought me here. He made me who I am. He put me in this circumstance. He's keeping me here for some reason. Didn't you say He loves me? What is up with that?

You are right. You figured it out. God will give you all you deserve.

Romans 2 tells us that those who judge others and remain in their sin will also be judged and receive God's wrath. Romans 3:23 says "for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God"; Romans 6:23 says, "For the wages of sin is death"; You get what you deserve.

You are a sinner, just like me - a sinner. Do you see? It doesn't matter if you work in a highrise building making six figures a year, voted into office, or drive a fancy car; you could be in prison, working at McDonald's, or a preacher standing in the pulpit. Everyone sins. Everyone does not sin the same way, but we all fall short of God's glory. Sinners cheat and swindle, lie and steal, beat their wives, abuse their kids, curse the older adult driving slow on the highway, pray to God and maybe even go to church every Sunday. Every day sinners hate and talk about their neighbor like a dog, thinking dirty wicked evil thoughts. I am a sinner, you are a sinner, and everyone else is too. And we will get what we all deserve.

Just because some sinners didn't get caught does not mean God doesn't know what we've done. We cannot fix this. You will get what you deserve. Some will get their punishment here on earth, but everyone will be judged before God in our afterlife.

Do you deserve to be arrested for what you have done? Do you deserve to get slapped around, punched, and kicked? Do you deserve to get spit on and cussed at and accused of stuff you didn't do? Do you deserve to get whipped until your back and every inch of your body is bleeding? Do you deserve to be tied to a tree and nailed through your hands and feet? Do you deserve to hang on that tree for hours until you suffocate and die?

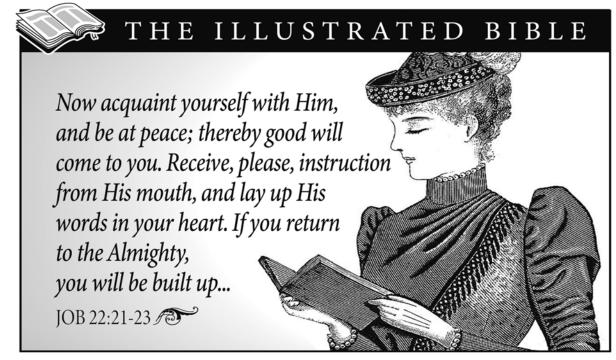

I know someone who didn't deserve any of that. That someone gave himself up to take your place for all that punishment for you and ALL the junk you ever did. You! Your sins. My sins. Her sins. His sins. The sins of the entire world. Everything we deserve, He took for us. Why? So, you wouldn't get what you deserve - death. See? Let me read you all of Romans 6:23 "For the wages of sin is death; but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord". And John 3:17 says, "For God sent not the Son into the world to judge the world; but that the world should be saved through him".

God made way for you to be forgiven of all your sins, so you could be acceptable to Him – for He is Holy, and He gave His Holy Son to pay the price of your sins and to make you Holy. Then He raised Jesus from the dead, and He will do the same for me and everyone who is saved from death through Christ Jesus. Jesus is alive today and listens to our prayers every minute of every day, sitting at the right hand of God. Jesus took the punishment for you, and all you must do is accept the fact he did it, not as a mere man, but as God. He did it to save you, redeem you from your sins, and the ultimate penalty of death.

Do you deserve that? No. You and I can never do anything in this lifetime to deserve what God gives to us through Jesus. That is grace. Grace is what God gives freely to all who will receive it. I'm going to pray for you to make the right choice and that you will accept this gift.

Pray your prayer as the Spirit leads.

The OIG in Our Corner

You hate to learn of it, but per a Department of Veterans Affairs Office of Inspector General (OIG) report, a former veteran who worked at a VA hospital was found guilty of stealing money out of patient accounts. It came about when the sister of a deceased veteran checked her brother's account and discovered the missing funds. An investigation showed that the thief was stealing from accounts where the veteran was unable to appear in person at the cashier window to withdraw money due to illness and tried to blame the missing funds on someone using fake identification. All he got for his crimes was six months in jail and six months with an ankle bracelet at home.

An elderly veteran lost his foot due to deficient podiatry care. The whole sorry mess involved defective specialty diabetic shoes, blocked blood flow to the leg, a patient fall due to the shoes, lack of patient education, lack of communication among staff ... and ended with amputation of the patient's foot.

There was enough blame to go around, but nobody to throw in jail. The podiatrist didn't adequately instruct on the proper fitting of the shoes. The fall wasn't correctly reported because the safety officer was new. It could not be determined who did/didn't warn the patient about possible amputation. And so on.

But not all OIG investigations are so serious. There was the VA employee auction of VA property, which was for the purpose of gathering funds for employee activities and parties. When purchasing agents placed orders for supplies, sometimes there were freebies or incentives sent by the manufacturer when the order was large enough. The employees would then auction off the extra goods, which were government property. It appears that the auctioning of the freebies had gone on for many years, with nobody admitting to the OIG that the vendor was selected because of the freebies they would get. The bulk of the free goodies were bigname expensive coolers.

Bringing an Old Dog to

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: After my aunt passed away, I gladly agreed to take in her dog, "Hunter," a rather squat, obese Beagle. He's a happy old dog of about 9 years, but my aunt gave him little to no training other than housetraining. That makes walking him — something the vet recommended I do twice a day, in addition to a diet — a chore. Hunter will walk a few steps, then sit down and refuse to budge. When he does feel like walking, he either tugs the leash forward or lags behind. How can I correct this? — James T., Plano, Texas

DEAR JAMES: Hunter is not used to the new lifestyle yet, and he's reacting in a predictable way. He's also out of shape and probably more stressed than you think. The first thing I prescribe is patience. The second thing I'd prescribe is persistence.

You'll want to gradually lengthen his walks. Each day, always at the same time, put Hunter on his leash and start the walk. As soon as Hunter begins to lag or tug forward, stop walking, adjust the distance so that he's standing or sitting next to you, and start again, saying, "Heel" as you step forward.

When he sits and won't budge, encourage him to go a few more steps by giving him a very small treat. Then turn around and go home. On your next walk, repeat this encouragement, going just a little farther. See what I'm getting at? Make each walk just a tiny bit farther.

As Hunter loses weight, learns to trust you and gains confidence on the leash, he will eventually pull you along. Time, patience and consistency will do the trick.

Readers, how did you train an older dog?Tellmeaboutitatask@pawscorner.com.
