MONTHLY REPORT

JUNE 2024

MONTHLY SUMMARY

By: Chief of Police Carla Neadeau

The purpose of the EBCI Law Enforcement Monthly Report is to compile data into one integrated report for review. I hope you find these reports informative and useful. Several community members have offered suggestions about these reports, and we will make changes as this effort of openness continues.

May remained busy for us as you will see in the pages that follow. The data in the tables below shows an increase in almost every category this month.

We are still hiring. We have two enrolled male cadets in Basic Law Enforcement Training right now and two cadets started today.

We appreciate all your support, and we welcome every opportunity to do better.

Community Tip – Keeping your home & surroundings safe.

Neighborhood safety requires a team effort. The following tips for working together are simple but effective, making your neighborhood a more enjoyable place to live.

Consider removing your home from Google Maps.

Thieves love to case houses on Google Maps so they can get a good idea of how easy it is to access the property and what the rear is like.

To get your home removed, find your address on Google Maps. Click on the smaller picture of your home to enlarge it. Choose the “Report a Problem” link. It’s tiny and at the bottom right of the picture alongside terms, copyright year, and the image capture date. You have the option to blur your home, any faces, car license plates, or something else. Adjust the view of the image so it’s on the portion you want to blur.

Use smart lights and other devices to create the impression you are home.

Running late or having fun on vacation? No problem. Smart home devices include light bulbs, window blinds, TVs, and radios. Turn them on and off remotely to create the impression of your home. You can also set them to work at certain times or if motion sensors detect movement.

Devices such as the Ring doorbell cameras even let you talk to someone who is at your door. You can make potential burglars think you’re home and still be 3,000 miles away. These doorbells also come in handy if UPS folks attempt to leave a package. Talk with them live and ask that they hold the box at a facility instead of leaving it in plain view.

Alexa’s drop-in feature is another option to act like you’re home. Suppose you get a notification from your smart doorbell that someone is approaching the door. You don’t recognize the person. One option is to use your smartphone’s Alexa app to “drop in” on your smart speaker at home. Talk away like you’re cooking or on the phone to make a would-be burglar turn back.

Know the people in your neighborhood.

Get to know the people in your neighborhood so you can recognize suspicious people.

Be aware of your neighbor's habits. When are they at work, and do they have small children or teenagers? Are they elderly and in need of extra assistance on occasion? This awareness will make the neighborhood a much tighter community with less neighbor hostility and crime.

Keep your vacation dates off social media.

Many folks share news of upcoming vacations on social media. However, if you do that, you essentially set yourself up as a target for burglars. Criminals rely on public social media profiles like Facebook and Instagram to stalk and intrude homes while residents are away.

Many folks share news of upcoming vacations on social media. However, if you do that, you essentially set yourself up as a target for burglars. Criminals rely on public social media profiles like Facebook and Instagram to stalk and intrude homes while residents are away.

Make use of timers.

Timers are great, especially on nights you won't be home. Set a timer to have the lights go on and off at specific times so that it looks like your home is occupied. Many burglars study when people exit and enter their homes, so using timers connected to lights throws them off.

Lock all doors and windows.

Many homes have multiple doors and windows. Burglars need just one unlocked entry point, and it can be easy for residents to overlook one or two locks. For optimal safety, lock all doors and securely fasten all windows. If you have any sliding doors, place a rod in the track to prevent thieves from forcing the door open and entering. Last but not least, consider a video doorbell camera for when you are home alone or not home.

Utilize blinds and curtains.

These guys are especially handy at night because otherwise, people easily see the inside of your home. Potential burglars can track your activities and glimpse where you're putting your valuables, which room you're in, and which rooms are vacant. Keep the blinds closed and the curtains drawn to prevent any creepy stalkers from targeting your home.

Install motion-sensor lights outside of your home.

Burglars don’t like motion-sensor lights since they’re bright and shine a spotlight on illicit activity. They switch on quickly, motivating would-be burglars to flee and never return. These lights are also an excellent way for you to know when someone approaches your home.

Keep your neighbors informed.

It's always smart to get to know your neighbors and reach a level where you can trust at least one. If you plan to be away for a few days, give a copy of your keys to trusted neighbors so they can make sure everything is okay at home.

Be conservative with your pricey possessions.

You probably don't mean to flaunt significant purchases like a brand-new iMac. Take the time to deconstruct the boxes these purchases came in. Hide the boxes to ensure passers-by can't easily see or find them.

Get a guard dog.

Not only do dogs make excellent pets, but they can also be great members of the community. Thieves tend to stay away from homes with loud barking dogs. If you don't have a dog, it couldn't hurt to place a "beware of dog" sign somewhere visible on the outside of your home. A dog doesn't replace your home security system, but a good guard dog can intimidate intruders and make them think twice. Check out the top 10 best guard dogs!

Start a Neighborhood Watch.

A neighborhood watch program can go a long way toward keeping your home and family safe. The time investment is minimal, and you shouldn't need to take personal risks. The police will be the ones responsible for investigating suspicious activity and arresting suspects.

The goals of your neighborhood watch should be to facilitate increased awareness of suspicious activity and pave the way for quick communication with the police. The net result: Greatly increased chances of preventing crime. Here are a few steps to starting a neighborhood watch.

Never leave anything out in plain sight inside your car.

Yes, even if the doors are locked! Thieves can break through the windows to take your belongings if they feel motivated enough. Don't give anyone any reason to target your car, even if it's something as simple as a blanket. Thieves may think the blanket is there to hide something valuable beneath it. Keep your vehicle completely clear of your possessions to save you the trouble of recovering your valuables and the inconvenience of having to fix broken car windows. To be extra safe, lock your car's compartment and trunk. This way, if someone somehow gets in the car, they can't go through these parts of the vehicle.

Keep personal information hidden by using a paper shredder.

Identity theft is real—and expensive. Use shredders to conceal your personal information before it makes its way to recycling or garbage bins. Unfortunately, having paperwork with your address, credit card information, bank numbers, passwords, phone number, and the like lying around makes you a new target to burglars. Also consider using a top identity theft service to help monitor all of your personal data and be notified as soon as something suspicious happens.

Get a reliable security system installed.

When used properly, some of the best home security systems can help to improve neighborhood safety.
