Tribe to fund EA for sochan gathering in Park

The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians is taking a step towards its members being able to legally gather sochan in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. During an Annual Council meeting on Monday, Oct. 9, Tribal Council allocated funds, not to exceed $68,100, for an EA (environmental assessment) on such gathering which is part of the process towards the Tribe entering into an agreement with the Park.

The National Park Service (NPS) approved changes to 36 CFR Part 2 (Gathering of Certain Plants or Parts by Federally Recognized Tribes for Traditional Purposes) in late June 2016. Tribes must enter into agreements with NPS and must have a “traditional association to lands within the national park and the plants must be gathered only for traditional purposes”. The EA is required with a FONSI (finding of no significant impact).

The resolution passed by Tribal Council on Monday was submitted by the EBCI Division of Agriculture and Natural Resources and states that the funds will be donated to the Friends of the Smokies, a non-profit organization, which shall facilitate the study.

Joey Owle, EBCI Secretary of Agriculture and Natural Resources, commented during discussion on the issue, “Right now, we’ll need this funding to execute the largest part of this agreement which is the environmental assessment. Each plant will require a new environmental assessment to look at the harvesting techniques and impacts to the plant harvesting population...but we’re going after sochan first.”

During the discussion, several Tribal Council representatives questioned the amount of funding required and stated they didn’t feel the Tribe should have to pay for the study.

Principal Chief Richard G. Sneed said he originally balked at the funding as well. But, he noted that environmental groups opposed the rule change in the first place. “The fact that we got the rule change done at all was an accomplishment. The problem is that there is no funding attached to the rule change.”

He added, “So, here’s what we have to measure as a Tribe. Is the Eastern Band going to be a leader in Indian Country? We would be the first tribe to be able to gather in a national park since the inception of the national park and their rules against gathering native plants.”

Chief Sneed said he agreed that, in theory, the Tribe shouldn’t have to pay for the study. “But, at the end of the day, environmental assessments have to be done. That’s federal law. It has to be done. On the negative side, it sets a precedent that other tribes coming after us are going to have to pay as well to gather on national park lands that may be near their reservation. And, those other tribes may not have the resources that we have. But, I think on the flip side of it, if we don’t take this action and move forward, then the whole rule change and all of the work on the front end was for naught. It’s moot at that point because I can assure you the Trump administration is not going to fund EAs for tribes to be able to gather in the parks.”

Dr. Joe-Ann McCoy, director of the Germplasm Repository at the North Carolina Arboretum, was present for Monday’s discussion and noted that she and her colleagues are about to publish a sustainable harvest study on sochan. “We did nutrient panels on it and found it is as nutritious as kale. We did the sustainable harvest study. We found that the Cherokee method of harvesting actually benefits the plant, and the ones that were harvested actually produced more flower and fruit and seed than the ones that weren’t harvested.”

She went on to say, “It is the perfect first plant to use because it is so sustainable. It’s going to be very hard to wipe this plant out.
The Cherokee methods tend to be very sustainable, and this one is very sustainable.”

Becky Walker, an EBCI tribal member from the Birdtown Community, put the expenditure of funds into perspective. “I know that a lot of you are haggling with the amount of money that we’re proposing to put forward to this, but I invite you to think about some of the other things that we’ve spent money on that were pretty frivolous, probably meeting personal agendas. So, when you think about who we are, where our roots are, and what this land means to us, this is not just for us present-day. We’re talking about seven generations. We’re talking about your great-great grandchildren and those that are going to come and live in this community that aren’t even born yet that will be able to gather in their ancestral homelands using the teachings of our ancestors.”

She said the funds will help for years to come. “When you look at it that way, that is an investment in our future for future generations to be able to live and eat healthier foods, to eat foods that are organic, to eat foods that haven’t been sprayed with pesticides and hybridized and are a product of some GMO company somewhere that we don’t even know about.”

Once the rule was changed in June 2016, NPS Director Jonathan B. Jarvis said in a statement, “The changes to the gathering rule support continuation of unique cultural traditions of American Indians and support the mission of the National Park Service. This also respects tribal sovereignty and the government-to-government relationship between the United States and the tribes.”

Director Jarvis actually visited Cherokee in 2010 and spoke with various tribal leaders and community members to hear concerns on the issue. “It became a mission of mine to fix this,” he said in a tribal consultation meeting at the Chief Joyce Dugan Cultural Arts Center on July 16, 2010.

Once the study and formal agreement is finalized on the gathering of sochan, the Tribe will seek a similar study and agreement on the gathering of ramps.

In August, the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians declared the opioid crisis a public nuisance. Now, the Tribe is filing litigation on the matter.

Tribal Council passed a resolution, submitted by Principal Chief Richard G. Sneed, during Annual Council on Monday, Oct. 16 that approves the filling of a civil action and directs Special Counsel to take action “against all manufacturers and wholesale distributors legally responsible for causing or contributing to the opioid epidemic plaguing our Tribe”.

Chief Sneed said declaring the opioid crisis a “public nuisance” in August was the first step in establishing legal standing for the Tribe to file the lawsuit. “The foundational part of the lawsuit looks to hold the distributors responsible for the epidemic...the lawsuit is based on a DEA rule that states that distributors are required to report to the DEA anytime there is a suspicious or irregular pattern in the number of pharmaceuticals being ordered by pharmacies or doctors. This was during the height of the pill epidemic when pain clinics were popping up all over the country.”

He told Tribal Council that the opioid epidemic has claimed over 200,000 lives nationally. “That is three times the number of deaths of U.S. soldiers in the Vietnam War.”

Chief Sneed said the lawsuit is about saving lives in the future as well as helping the Tribe pay for services related to the epidemic including the Snowbird Residential Treatment Center, the new needle exchange program, and the Crisis Stabilization Unit at the Cherokee Indian Hospital – all of which total between $6-7 million annually in costs to the Tribe.

“Should we prevail in court, any settlement funds would be designated for rehabilitation, education, and law enforcement,” he noted. “Once again, this would be the EBCI leading the way in Indian Country.”

He added. “That number is not going to come down anytime in the foreseeable future. In fact, the cost will probably increase year after year until we get a handle on this. Anything that we can do to help get funds that we, as the Tribe, have to pay for, these drug companies need to held accountable. This is a manufactured crisis.”

During discussion on the issue, Yellowhill Rep. Tom Wahnetah inquired, “Will this affect families that have lost loved ones if they choose to proceed with legal action against the pharmaceutical companies?”

Chief Sneed replied, “It would not. This is a totally separate approach, and this approach specifically deals with that DEA policy and the laws that say that the distributor has a responsibility to report any irregularities...that would be a personal injury case that would be completely separate from this lawsuit.”

Big Cove Rep. Perry Shell commented, “It’s a scary situation what’s happening at the federal level. They’re a part of this problem. But, I see where the Cherokee Nation filed a lawsuit as well. What’s the difference in what we’re doing and have we thought about partnering up with a class action with other Indian tribes?”

Chief Sneed answered. “Their suit is different and the route that they’re going and what they’re trying to accomplish is different. Ours is based specifically on this one DEA rule that the distributors are supposed to report these irregularities in ordering.”

He went on to praise the Cherokee Indian Hospital for its efforts, “Hats off to our hospital for taking steps to make sure there is not over-prescribing happening at our hospital.”

The Cherokee Nation filed a lawsuit against six companies (McKesson Corporation; Cardinal Health, Inc.; Amerisource Bergen; CVS Health; Walgreens Boot Alliance, Inc.; and Wal-Mart) in April “charting the companies with failing to prevent the flow of illegally prescribed opioids to men, women, and children in the Cherokee Nation.”

Cherokee Nation Principal Chief Bill John Baker said at the time, “...I fear the opioid epidemic is emerging as the next great challenge of our modern era...we will also use our legal system to make sure the companies, who put profits over people while our society is crippled by this epidemic, are held responsible for their actions.”
CIPD asking for community help on two fatalities

The Cherokee Indian Police Department issued two requests for help from the community on Wednesday, Oct. 18 involving two fatalities in Cherokee – one in September and another in August.

John Michael Arkansas (aka “Dobbs”), 57, was found deceased on the roadway on Old No. 4 Road near the Cherokee Water and Sewer Treatment Plant on the afternoon of Wednesday, Sept. 6 at around 2:57pm. He later succumbed to his injuries and passed away while at Mission Hospital.

If you have any information pertaining to this ongoing investigation, you are asked to contact the Cherokee Indian Police Department 359-6600 or Sgt. Detective Jason Cable 359-6619.

Melvin Esmal Herndon, 86, of Eutaw, Ala., was found deceased by CIPD officers at the intersection of Hwy 19 and Jess Littlejohn Road on the morning of Thursday, Aug. 3 at around 7:20am. After the initial investigation, it was concluded that Herndon succumbed to injuries sustained from an apparent hit-and-run. After speaking with witnesses, CIPD officials believe the incident occurred early in the morning of Aug. 3 between 12:45-1am.

If you have any information pertaining to this ongoing investigation, you are asked to contact Traffic Sergeant Donnie Allen 359-6624.

Tribe to receive over $1.7 million in OJP grants

SCOTT MCKIE B.P.

The Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians has been awarded three grants from the Justice Department’s Office of Justice Programs (OJP) totaling $1,720,442. The grants will be used to combat domestic violence and improve public safety and victim services.

“For the Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Program itself, the grant will continue to fund the efforts of the program to address violence against Indian women by 1) providing transitional housing to victims, 2) coordinating outreach and awareness activities through the Intervention Project Coordinator position, 3) offering workshops targeted to tribal youth, and 4) providing a point of contact throughout the civil-legal system to aid victims through the process,” said Sunshine Parker, EBCI Public Health and Human Services Division health services director.

“With this funding, the EBCI Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Program will continue to fund staff positions for a paralegal and intervention project coordinator; 2) assist clients with legal services that are available through the Domestic Violence Program, 3) fund, sustain, and improve the Transitional Housing Program, and 4) coordinate outreach services and awareness activities within the community.”

She added, “This is a partnership with the Cherokee Indian Police Department, Attorney General’s office, and other Tribal programs to plan and implement this project.”

In a joint statement, Hannah Smith, EBCI Attorney General’s Office, and Bonnie Claxton, EBCI Legal Assistance Office, related, “Two of the grants were written to work together in maximizing the Tribe’s existing resources by using data to improve outcomes in domestic violence and child abuse cases through coordination of law enforcement, the Attorney General’s office, and Public Health and Human Services. Using data will allow stakeholder programs to supplement their resources, launch new initiatives, support existing programs, and provide important services to their communities.”

They went on to state, “A second and important initiative that the grants will provide is the education and training to develop trauma-informed systems. Systems that are trauma-informed will help improve intervention and prevention efforts around violence in our community.”

When the grant awards were announced, U.S. Attorney Jill Westmoreland Rose, stated, “Federal grants are an important funding source for a broad spectrum of agencies in the Western District (NC). Local law enforcement, non-profit service providers, community organizations, and tribal governments count on federal grants to supplement their resources, launch new initiatives, support existing programs, and provide important services to their communities.”

Other grants awarded in the Western District of North Carolina include: City of Charlotte ($1,431,708); Mecklenburg County ($718,794); 30th Judicial District Domestic Violence-Sexual Assault Alliance ($600,000); Haywood County ($450,000); and Helpmate, Inc. ($350,000).

FOOTBALL

SCOTT MCKIE B.P.
ONE FEATHER STAFF

On paper, the offensive output by Cherokee and Robbinsville was just about identical. In fact, the Black Knights edged Cherokee in total offense 268 yards to 263. But, the difference in the ball game was scoring output as the Braves got into the end zone three times and the Black Knights didn’t get there all night.

Cherokee improved to 9-0 with an 18-9 victory over Robbinsville (6-3) at Ray Kinsland Stadium on Friday, Oct. 20. On the same night, Swain Co. bested Murphy 29-27 to put Cherokee in sole possession of first place in the Smoky Mountain Conference with two regular season games left.

“I thought they played very gutsy,” Kent Briggs, Braves head coach, said of his team after the game. “That’s a good football that Robbinsville has. They’d only lost two games, and they lost to two very good teams. They’re very seasoned. They’re very hard-nosed, and we knew it would be this kind of battle. We knew it was going to be a knock-down, drag-out and we’d have to play that kind of game, and we did.”

He added, “I’m really proud of our guys that we stood the pressure that was put on us, and we came out with a victory.”

Coach Briggs was especially happy with his defense who held the Black Knights to three field goals on the night. “The defense played tremendous. They had their backs against the wall, and they kept fighting. I think our defensive game plan was excellent, and our guys played hard and rose to the occasion when they needed to. I am very proud of our entire football team, and I’m very, very proud of our defense.”

Holden Straughan, senior defensive back, led Cherokee’s stingy defense with 9 tackles followed by Damian Blanton with 5.5, Zak Perez 4.5, and Will Davis 4.5.

Tye Mintz, senior quarterback, led Cherokee on the offensive side of the ball. He completed 9 of 15 passes for 143 yards and two touchdowns, and he carried the ball 15 times for 90 yards and a touchdown.

The Braves’ sophomore receiving duo of Cade Mintz and Sterling Santa Maria both had good nights. Cade

ON THE BOARD: Tye Mintz (#1), Braves senior quarterback, drags Robbinsville’s Austin Lovin (#9) into the end zone for a touchdown in the first half of a game at Ray Kinsland Stadium on Friday, Oct. 20.
Cherokee's Holden Straughan (#20) and Joaquin Layno (#35) combine on a tackle of Robbinsville running back Rylee Anderson. Straughan led the Braves with nine tackles on the night.

DEFENSE: Cherokee's Holden Straughan (#20) and Joaquin Layno (#35) combine on a tackle of Robbinsville running back Rylee Anderson. Straughan led the Braves with nine tackles on the night.

RUNNING TOUGH: Cade Mintz (#10), Braves sophomore wide receiver, breaks one tackle and carries a Robbinsville player on his back for a good gain. On the night, Mintz caught 5 passes for 96 yards and one touchdown.

Mintz caught 5 passes for 96 yards and one touchdown, and Santa Maria caught 2 passes for 31 yards and one touchdown.

Alex Bridges, Black Knights senior quarterback, completed 8 of 27 passes for 97 yards. Rylee Anderson, sophomore running back, was their workhorse on the night carrying the ball 30 times for 132 yards.

The Braves started the game with a three-and-out. Following the punt, the Black Knights started at their own 32-yard line and put together an 11-play drive that culminated in the first of three field goals on the night by Freddie Romero.

Cherokee got things going on their next possession. Starting on their own 30-yard line, the Braves put together a 9-play drive with Tye Mintz capping it off with a 9-yard touchdown run. The point-after kick failed, and Cherokee led 6-3 with 9:49 left before the half.

Robbinsville missed a field goal on their next possession. The Braves fumbled on their next possession, the only turnover of the game. Following the turnover, the Black Knights drove down and Romero added a field goal (29 yards) to tie the game at 6-6 with just under a minute left in the half.

But, Cherokee wasn’t done. They drove down the field, and Tye Mintz hit Santa Maria on a 10-yard touchdown pass with 7 seconds left in the half. The point-after kick failed, and Cherokee led 12-6 at the half.

The third quarter was dominated by the defenses. The only score in that 12 minute-span was by Romero who closed the gap with a 27-yard field goal.

Going into the fourth quarter, Cherokee held a slight 12-9 lead.

Just a few minutes into the final quarter, Robbinsville attempted a 42-yard field goal that was no good. Starting at their own 20-yard line following the missed attempt, Cherokee drove 80 yards on eight plays. Tye Mintz hit Cade Mintz on a 30-yard touchdown pass to seal the deal. The point-after kick failed, but Cherokee led 18-9 which is how the contest would end.

Cherokee travels to Hayesville on Friday, Oct. 27, and Coach Briggs is stressing to his team the importance of all games from this point on. “It counts the same as this game, the same as the Swain game and all the rest of them, so we have to take it the same way. We’ll enjoy this victory here for a day or two. But, come Monday, we’ll have to get ourselves ready for Hayesville. We’re going there, and we can’t be looking ahead.”
In a match-up of EBCI tribal members, Cherokee’s Macie Welch goes up for a spike as Andrews’ Cheyenne Rattler goes up to attempt a block in a match at the Charles George Memorial Arena on Tuesday, Oct. 17. The Lady Wildcats won the match in three games (25-7, 25-21, 27-25). It was Senior Night and three Lady Braves were honored including Welch, Robin Reed, and Jordan Maney.

Daniel Thompson (#17), JV Braves wide receiver, concentrates on the ball which he caught for a touchdown in the second half of a game against the Hayesville JV Yellow Jackets at Ray Kinsland Stadium on Thursday, Oct. 19. The ball was thrown by JV Braves quarterback Johnathan Frady. The Yellow Jackets won the game by a score of 43-14.
HONORING A LEADER: Principal Chief Richard G. Sneed and Vice Chief Alan B. Ensley were joined by EBCI Tribal Council representatives, prior to the Cherokee vs Robbinsville game at Ray Kinsland Stadium on Friday, Oct. 20, to present Cherokee Central Schools Athletic Department with a commemorative jersey in honor of the late Vice Chief Pee Wee Crowe. Joining Chief Sneed and Vice Chief Ensley were the family of Pee Wee Crowe (shown in photo at left). Pee Wee was a Cherokee Brave, Vice Chief of the Eastern Band Cherokee Indians, and one of the Braves biggest supporters. Pee Wee served the people through the tribal government and through his support of the Cherokee Braves athletic teams. Pee Wee was a friend and supporter of many people in this community, and this jersey will be displayed in honor of Vice Chief Pee Wee Crowe.

Cherokee Chamber Singers are Carnegie Hall-bound

SCOTT MCKIE B.P.
ONE FEATHER STAFF

Since 1891, thousands of the world’s best singers and musicians have performed at famed Carnegie Hall in New York City. Next spring, 26 members of the Cherokee (Central Schools) Chamber Singers will join those ranks.

The Cherokee Chamber Singers will perform six or seven pieces at the venue in March 2018 as part of WorldStride’s Festival at Carnegie Hall: National Youth Choir.

“The kids have done so well at the theater part, but I wanted this year for it to be about really lifting the kid’s musicianship so they were really singing well, singing musically, reading notes, and learning a deeper sense of what it means to sing in a choir,” said Michael Yannette, Cherokee High School and Middle School director of choir and musical theater. “When we started this year, the theme was this is our year to really achieve a different level of musicianship. So, this was kind of a way for me to make there a reason why.”

He said the improvement is already showing and showed in their two-piece audition tape they submitted to be selected to perform at Carnegie. “We wouldn’t have gotten this with the same audition that we did for Disney last year. There was a certain level there and that was great that they did that, but this was setting the bar higher.”

The general idea to audition for the Festival came when Yannette heard that Dr. Andre’ Thomas, Florida State University professor of music, would be one of the conductors. A graduate of Florida State himself, Yannette commented, “Andre’ Thomas is a world famous conductor.”

Yannette said the entire theme of this school year has been centered around ‘excellence’. “We’ve just had a different year. We have had an incredible ‘hit the ground running year’. There’s just been no turning back. Last year, they had such amazing things happen that they were ready. They’ve just been incredible.”

He said the amount of time the students have put into this year and their audition for Carnegie is commendable. “These kids came not only after school...they came during Fair Week! And, another day, they were here for five hours rehearsing for this thing.”

Yannette said after seeing the amount of work the students were putting in, he felt they had already won regardless of the outcome of their audition. “I was so proud of them.”

But, they did win and were selected.

He said the trip will be nice, but at the end of the day, it is all about the music and improving the student’s musicianship. “It’s great that we’re going to see New York and everything, but for me it means six or seven pieces that we’re working on to build that excellence.”

The exact itinerary hasn’t been worked up yet, but Yannette did relate, “It is my wish for them that they get to see three Broadway shows while we are there...hopefully, they’ll get the real New York City experience.”

Native Pop exhibit, workshops coming to Cherokee

Native Pop is a native art collaborative that combines contemporary art styles, bright vibrant colors, and social commentary to highlight modern day Native America. The exhibit and accompanying workshops will be evidence of a modern day Native America. “Native Pop! is a description of how us Natives have changed with the times,” Brent Learned, one of the organizers of Native Pop, explains, “We’re no longer just something that people can assume are extinct in a Natural History museum. We actually do exist, we’re here, still living and telling our stories with a new perspective of how art is perceived today. It’s not your traditional type of art. We’ve changed with the times, telling our stories and giving new perspectives on how to tell them.”

A member of the Cheyenne-Arapaho Tribe, Learned will be visiting Cherokee with his fellow artists Oneka Jones, an enrolled citizen of the Te-moak Tribe of Western Shoshone; George Curtis Levi, a member of the Southern Cheyenne Tribe; and Joe Hopkins, a member of the Muscogee (Creek) Tribe of Oklahoma.

Native Pop’s time in Cherokee will begin on Thursday, Oct. 26 with a reception at the Chief Joyce Dugan Cultural Arts Center from 5-8pm. The reception will be an opportunity to meet with the artists and view their work. Refreshments will be served. The following day, the artists will work with Cherokee Central Schools students on a variety of workshops aimed at inspiring creativity and social change. On Saturday, Oct. 28, starting at 10am and running throughout the day, the workshops are open to the community. All events are free. The work will be on display through November.

Workshops will include:
1. Art Team Building: Participants work together to create a piece of art. Each participant will paint a square, that when combined will create an image.
2. Puzzle, maze, paper dolls, and coloring: Participants will explore their creative side with artist created worksheets.
3. Ledger Art Workshop: Participants will learn about the history of Ledger artwork among Native American tribes. They will then have the opportunity to draw and paint on old ledger paper in traditional ways.
4. Stop-Motion Workshop: Participants will work with a laptop, tablet, or phone to create a movie using sculpted clay.

The artists will also participate in “live paints” where they collaborate to make an art piece in real time.

Partial funding provided for his is provided by Cherokee Preservation Foundation. The event is in partnership with Sequoyah Fund and the Chief Joyce Dugan Cultural Arts Center at Cherokee Central Schools.

Revisions to Tribal Member Loan Assistance Program announced

Principal Chief Richard G. Sneed has approved revised policies and guidelines authorizing the Treasury Division of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians to improve the per capita loan assistance program for tribal members. Under the Tribal Member Loan Assistance Program, eligible members of the tribe may apply for monthly loan assistance by voluntarily assigning a portion of their regular per capita distributions. All eligible members can request assistance up to $500 per month under the program.

“I have asked the Treasury Division to revise the loan assistance program to be more efficient,” said Chief Sneed. “The initial rollout had some flaws, and I am happy with the progress that is being made to build a better program. What is most important is that we do not create a system of dependency for our tribal members, however, we want programs available to assist tribal members in times of need.”

Under the revised guidelines, eligible tribal members may apply for loan assistance during established deadlines that are published by the Treasury Division. Some of the most important guidelines and policies are as follows:

1) Eligible tribal members include everyone who is 18 years of age or older, and who have received at least one biannual per capita distribution.
2) Tribal members owing a debt to the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians or the Qualla Housing Authority, other than portfolio loans or down payment assistance, will not be eligible until all debts are paid in full.
3) Once application is made and accepted for loan assistance will be recurring for the remainder of that cycle. Only one application per eligible tribal member will be accepted per cycle. A tribal member may stop the recurring assistance at any point during the cycle, however, once stopped the loan assistance cannot be restarted within the same cycle.
4) Eligible tribal members may receive up to $500 per month in loan assistance. The amount of monthly assistance is dependent upon the historical garnishment amounts, if any, for eligible tribal members.
5) There are two loan assistance cycles: 1) October – March and 2) April – September. Tribal members must re-apply for each cycle. Applications are available at the Office of Budget & Finance.

The Treasury Division Office of Budget & Finance is responsible for the management and execution of the Tribal Member Assistance Loan Program. Cory Blankenship, Secretary of Treasury, commented, “What we found is that there are many tribal members who benefit directly from this program. Our goal is to continue to help, but also to lessen the administrative burden and opportunity for error.”

Additionally, the funding structure of the program has changed to be treated as all other garnishments and voluntary assignments. “Rather than withholding loan assistance from the overall per capita distribution each month, we send the full amount of monthly per capita distribution to the investment account,” said Blankenship. “We have been able to significantly improve our investment return in the per capita account, and because we are now sending the full amount we can optimize our returns. What that means in short is additional investment return on per capita, which benefits all enrolled members.”

Loan application deadlines and check release dates for the upcoming cycle are as follows (date of loan applications being accepted; check release date):

- Oct. 23-27; Friday, Nov. 10
- No applications accepted in November
- Dec. 11-15; Friday, Jan. 12, 2018
- Jan. 22-26; Friday, Feb. 9, 2018
- Feb. 19-23; March 9, 2018

Absolute service perfects absolutely

ROBERT JUMPER
ONE FEATHER EDITOR

A friend of mine related a random act of kindness involving one of our NRE Officers. My friend said that the officer spotted a homeless woman sitting outside of an establishment in Cherokee. The lady had been sitting outside in the cold for hours. The officer took the time to take the woman to a local hotel and get her a room for the night. He didn’t know the name of the officer or the homeless person, but my friend correctly identified the need for all of us to be more like that officer.

Treating everyone with courtesy and respect, regardless of their circumstance, is a behavior well worth emulating. This officer didn’t know anyone was watching, he just saw someone in need and he did what he could to fill the need. The officer didn’t call the paper or press to set up a photo opportunity. He didn’t insist that the recipient of his kindness write a testimonial to be shared around the Boundary.

During a political season, as a person in the journalism profession, you prepare yourself for some unusual requests. And at the EBCI, as we have discussed in earlier editorials, we have elections every two years and we are virtually in perpetual political season. Now, our political leaders do a lot of work for the community. That is the job. They are public servants selected, in one way or the other, to make life better for their constituencies; to do good for others. Many times, we’ll get requests from candidates to cover a good deed that they are being honored for or we are asked to print a photo in which the politician or candidate really had no direct influence, but happened to be there for the photo when the story was told. The act of kindness sometimes becomes secondary to the publicity, and votes, it may generate.

My mom always taught me that motivations are important. What you do matters and why you do it matters. She always told me that when I did things for her just to get what I wanted or complying, it negated the positive of doing the thing for her. If I tried to be intentionally seen doing things for her, she would kindly remind me of how often I didn’t fulfill her direction when she wasn’t looking, or I didn’t think she was.

I know you have heard the old saying, “Absolute power corrupts absolutely”. Attributed to a 19th-century British politician, this saying speaks to the tendency for authority, particularly unrestrained authority, to change the moral character of an individual. Here is Cherokee, we talk about the “crabs in a bucket” syndrome. The tendency of those who are in the bottom of the bucket, those who don’t aspire to lead, to pull those back down who are climbing out of the bucket, those want to move to a higher level. Well, there are also those who get to the top of that bucket and decide that the best way to stay on top is to ride the backs of others.

Even those who go into leadership with the best intentions, to be that true servant of the people, are not immune to the lure of power and the seduction of absolute control. When a person decides to run for office, they might do so for several of reasons, but ultimately, elections are won by the person or persons who are most popular. Unless it is addressed with a strict qualification criteria, elections may be won by anyone who can convince a majority of the people in a particular geography that they are likable enough to be elected. As we saw in our last tribal election, there is a large portion of the constituency that did not participate in the voting process. There is not a definitive reason for the lack of participation. Many are too far away to make the journey to the Boundary to vote. Some may have been disenfranchised due to the political controversies of the past year. Some may have even thought that their vote didn’t matter and that the powers that be would do as they will anyway. We had some readership commentary on that last one.

Back to our NRE Officer. He was in a position to arrest the homeless lady for vagrancy, escort her to the borders of the Boundary, or to simply ignore her plight. He didn’t. In his position of authority, he...
Facebook Weekly Question Responses

Note: The following comments were made on the Cherokee One Feather Facebook page to our weekly question: Should the EBCI create a tribal license plate? If so, should the plate be required of all residents and entities on EBCI trust lands?

Victoria Locust: For me, yes for the plates, but not a requirement. Let everyone have freedom of choice.

Joshua C. Thompson: Yes, but not a requirement.

Carrah Shawnee-Swimmer: In Oklahoma, it’s only for enrolled members of said tribe, and it’s at a low cost. People of Oklahoma take pride in their tribal tags also, just throwing that out there.

Tinker Sampson: Yes for the plates, and only for enrolled members, but a freedom of choice.

Darlene Swann: Yes, and it should be a requirement.

Randy Sisk: I see both sides of the requirement. However, what’s the reason for the plate. EBCI is a nation.

Ben Swayney: Yes, only for enrolled members.

Rory Howe: Low-cost tribal tags is a great idea, but don’t mandate/require the purchase or display.

Howard Paul: Plates just for enrolled members! Buffalo Town already designed one. Also, (make them available) at a lower cost for enrolled members like other tribal tags in other states.

Elsie Calhoun: Only enrolled members; but, only if they want one, don’t force them on us.

Carol Pina: Enrolled members; I would love to get one, but I think it should be by choice.

Bambi Armachain Sneed: Yes for the plate, but if it’s a tribal tag, then I think you should have to be enrolled to get it.

Carmalee Evans: Just for the enrolled member.

Faye McCoy: Yes for the tag...don’t think it should be required to have one; should be a choice.

Keri Brady: That would be great, but by choice; people are already being dictated to enough.

Angie Cucumber: Yes, but for enrolled members only and not a requirement.

Tosh Welch: Plates for enrolled members only.

Barbara Wood: What about enrolled members who live in other states?

Sheena Brings Plenty: Yes, and yes! If this Tribe is truly sovereign, then they should have jurisdiction over the residents (EBCI, Indian, and Non-Indian alike) who live on tribal lands. As residents of the state of North Carolina, we are required to have NC state license plates. Why would it be different for the Tribe? Not to mention, if the tribe requires every resident to have EBCI plates, the tribe would have another revenue stream besides the casino. Just sayin...

Melanie Parton: Sure, go ahead, but I don’t think anybody should tell other people they have to get one. Just sell them. I’m sure there are a lot of wannabes who would love to have one. That’s where you will make the big bucks.

Mikell D. Dyer: Really? So, you want to segregate even more but still real the all-inclusive America benefits? Where is the honor in that?

Jaxson Jax: (As) long as it says Native American, not American Indian.

Laura Smith: Yes, only for enrolled members and optional.

Sam Maney: Yeah, sure...so then the cops from Bryson and Sylva can follow us even more.

Dallas Bennett: Yes, it should. But, the Tribe could have it’s own tag office. It should also come in a variety of colors.

Matt Bryant: Three designs, one for enrolled members, another for non-enrolled with Cherokee addresses, and one for purchase to anyone in North Carolina with the proceeds going to the Tribe.

Mary Ann Bugg Swayney: I love teh idea so we can proudly show what tribe we are from. But, it shouldn’t be a requirement.

Boyd Andrew Catt: I am an enrolled member of the Eastern Band, raised and living in Lakota Territory. The plates here that designate us as an enrolled member to get a tribal tag office. It should also come in a variety of colors.

Bambi Armachain Sneed: Really? So, you want to segregate even more but still real the all-inclusive America benefits? Where is the honor in that?

Johnny Postoak: Out here in Oklahoma, you have to be a enrolled member to get a tribal tag and the vehicles have to be in the enrolled member’s name to not pay the higher state taxes. For a tag, it should be state tax exempt. You only have to pay the renewal fee of 30 dollars.

Patrick West: Yes, but only for enrolled members!

Final deadline in Cobell Settlement

Kilpatrick Townsend & Stockton LLP, Class Counsel in the Cobell v. Jewell (formerly Cobell v. Salazar) lawsuit, along with GCG, the court approved Claims Administrator, are seeking to locate members of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians who are entitled to participate in the settlement of that lawsuit. The Cobell case was filed in 1996, settled in December 2009, was approved by Congress in December 2010, and received final court approval in November 2012. The total settlement, $3.5 billion, is one of the largest class action settlements against the federal government.

The Cobell case resolves certain claims relating to mismanagement of individual Indian money (“IIM”) accounts and individual trust assets by the federal government. There are approximately 500,000 individuals who are eligible to participate in this settlement. This includes principally individuals who had IIM accounts between approximately 1985 and September 30, 2009 and individuals who owned trust or restricted land as of September 30, 2009.

The US District Court for the District of Columbia has ordered Monday, Nov. 27 as the final deadline for Class Members in the Cobell Settlement or their heirs to submit documentation to Garden City Group, LLC (“GCG”), the Claims Administrator, so that payments can be made. All documentation must be received or postmarked by that date. The determination of a final deadline marks the end of a successful and exhaustive effort by Class Counsel and GCG to find and pay hundreds of thousands of Native American Class Members and their heirs. Those efforts have been incredibly effective, and to date almost $2 billion dollars or over 92 percent of the funds have been distributed. After the deadline, unclaimed funds will be paid out to the Cobell Scholarship Fund administered by Indigenous Education, Inc.

Below is a list of individuals identified by the Department of the Interior as living or deceased members of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians who may be entitled to a payment. Class Members or their heirs wishing to submit documentation to GCG for review via email at Info@IndianTrust.com or U.S. mail to P.O. Box 9577, Dublin, OH 43017-4877. For more information about the Settlement and to read the Court’s order, visit www.IndianTrust.com. You may also call (800) 961-6109 if you are an heir and have questions regarding acceptable documentation. To retrieve your IIM number please call Sheree Steve (615) 564-6933. Andy Chickiele, Jr.

chose to show mercy, compassion, and humanity. And, he did so when he thought no eyes were watching to get him credit for his deed. In her eyes, he probably had ultimate power over her life at that moment. And, at least for that moment, she found not corruption, but reparation and redemption. I applaud him for his choice to show true leadership. We may never know his name and he would probably want it that way. He was much more focused on his duty than personal gain. May all of our elected officials and public servants take his example to heart. Life is a series of moments. Try to make each moment be about service to others instead of service to self, and may you have the wisdom to know the difference.
